Union State Convention.

The loyal men of Pennsylvania, comprising the National Union party, will meet in State Convention in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at Harrisburg, on Thursday, April 28th, 1864.

Each district will be entitled to the same representation as it now has in the State Legislature, and the delegates will be chosen at such times and in such manner as shall be fixed by the respective county committees.

The State Convention is called for the purpose of placing in nomination an Electoral Ticket, selecting delegates at large to the National Convention of the Union party; to be held at Baltimore on the 7th June next, and taking such action as it may deem proper in reference to the approaching Presidential canvass.

The selection of the district delegates from Pennsylvania to the National Convention is left, where it properly belongs, to the people assembled in their county conventions; but the different county committees are earnestly requested to adopt such measures as will secure a full attendance at their respective conventions, and thereby secure, in the choice of delegates, a full and fair expression of the will of the people.

The committee cannot forbear to congratulate all lovers of liberty and the Union upon the recent triumphs of the good cause in New Hampshire and Connecticut, and to express the hope, shared by all loyal men, that they are only the forerunners of more splendid victories soon to be won in the same cause alike by the ballot and the bullet.

A New Paper at Louisville.

"The Louisville National Union Press," is the title of a new daily paper, the first number of which will be issued at Louisville, Ky., on the 18th inst. We understand the enterprise to be based upon an ample capital, and to be in the hands of reliable and competent men. The field is an important and extensive one, and its thorough cultivation will yield satisfactory returns, both pecuniarily and political. Nowhere is a thoroughly loyal paper more needed than in Kentucky, and we are glad that this need is about to be supplied.

The New Atlantic Telegraph Cable.

The form of cable adopted by the Committee of the Company is thus described: The conductor will consist of a copper strand of seven wires (six laid around one,) each wire gauging 048, or number 18 of the Birmingham wire gauge, and weighing 300 pounds per nautical mile, embedded for solidity in the composition known as "Chatterton's Compound." The insulator is to consist of gutta percha, four layers of which are to be laid alternately with four thin layers of the above-named compound, making the diameter of the core 464 inches, and a circumference of 1,392 inches. The weight of the entire insulator is to be 400 pounds per nautical mile. The external protection is to be in two parts; first, the core, surrounded with a padding of soft jute yarn, saturated with a preservative "mixture," into the padding is to be the protective covering, to consist of ten solid wires of the guage 095, drawn from homogeneous iron, the same as how used by Whitworth in the manufacture of his celebrated guns, each wire surrounded separately with five strands of Manilla yarn, the whole of the ten strands thus formed of hemp and wire to be laid spirally around the padded core. The weight of the cable in air will be 34 cwt per nautical mile; the breaking strain will be 7 tons, 15 cwt, or equal to 11 times its weight per nautical mile in water---that is to say, if suspended perpendicularly from the stern of the vessel, it would bear its own weight in 11 miles depth of water.

PRESENTATION TO PRESIDENT LINCOLN.---The Washington correspondent of the New-York Advertiser, writes as follows: An affair of considerable interest came off at the White House, on Saturday last, in the presence of a small party of visitors, being the formal presentation of a very choice collection of wax fruits to "Abraham and Mary Lincoln," from Mrs. Caroline Johnston, a highly respectable female resident of Philadelphia, as a testimonial of her appreciation of the President's services in behalf of her oppressed race. Though some remarks were made by Mrs. J., the presentation speech was made by the Rev. James Hamilton, a Baptist clergyman of the above city, who touchingly alluded to the past sufferings of its people, to the rapid progress of their deliverance under the present Administration, and their hopes of the future, and asked the President to accept of the gift as a specimen of the handiwork of a lady of color, and as an evidence of their confidence and esteem for the chief who had brought them, thus far out of the land of bondage. Mr. Lincoln briefly responded, returning thanks for the beautiful present, referring to the difficulties with which he had been surrounded, and sketching the rapid changes of the past three years to the rulings of an all-wise Providence. The work is valued at $350. We understand that Mrs. Lincoln intends having it repacked for shipment to her home in Illinois.

MAJOR-GENERAL PHILIP HENRY SHERIDAN, the new chief of cavalry (vice Gen. Pleasanton) appointed by Gen. Grant, was born in Ohio, 1831. He entered West Point in 1848, and graduated in 1853. In 1855 he was in command at Fort Wood, New York harbor, and went thence to San Francisco, in charge of some recruits. In April, 1858, in a fight with Indians, his was mentioned in orders for bravery. In 1857, Gen. Scott sent him thanks for making peace with the Coquilla Indians. In 1861 he was appointed to a captaincy. In December of the same year he was made chief quartermaster and commissary of the Army of the Southwest, which he filled until after the Pea Ridge battle. May 27, 1862, he was appointed Col. of the 2d Michigan cavalry. He made a circuit of over one hundred miles round Corinth, destroyed the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, did some hard fighting, and assisted in capturing about 2,000 prisoners. Shortly after he became a brigadier-general. He distinguished himself at Stone River, at Chickamauga---where he rendered almost invaluable services---at Mission Ridge, &c., &c. Gen. Sheridan is of small build, robust, and full of energy and activity. He has been named by his men "the Little Corporal." He will soon take his new command.

THE remains of Henry Clay, after an interment of twelve years, were removed last week, upon the death of his wife, and placed side by side with hers beneath a beautiful monument erected to his memory in the Lexington, Ky., Cemetery. The wreath at Immortelles placed upon his coffin by his friend, the gifted poetess, Mrs. Anna S. Stephens, prior to the removal of the body from Washington, was found to be in an almost perfect state of preservation, being but little faded, while a gold ring, bearing the initials "J. W.," which rested near the wreath, was as bright as though just from a jeweler's store.

THE LATE MR. RIVES.---The Cleveland Herald relates the following incident in the life of the late John C. Rives: Mr. Rives, when quite a bachelor, fell in love with one of the girls in his bindery. She was the worthy daughter of a worthy widow. Mr. Rives asked the mother's permission to pay his addresses to her daughter, and, having that consent, offered himself to the daughter, who accepted him, and marriage soon followed.

INCREASED PAY OF SOLDIERS.---The House Military Committee have agreed upon a bill increasing the pay of soldiers. The Committee had a lengthy discussion over the question, fixing the rate of white and black soldiers. They have increased the pay of the former $4 sixteen, the latter to thirteen dollars per month.

It is reported by one who has traveled over nearly all the State of Missouri, that the peach trees are generally killed down to the roots.

Foreign Miscellany.

A DISCOVERY AT POMPEII.---A letter from Naples, of March 15th, says: "The excavations in Pompeii have never ceased for a year past, and most valuable objects were brought to light, such as gold and bronze vases, and room ornaments. Three bodies in different tombs were most ingeniously preserved in form and shape. One, a warrior, evidently of superior rank, has on a coat of mail and the usual armor a Roman wore in those times. Of the two others, one is a lady, whose beauty of form and face are splendid---the arms are beautiful---the taper fingers prove her distinguished origin, while the remnants of her drapery are of the finest materials; the last is a young girl of about fifteen, apparently an attendant. The coarse texture of her dress is distinctly seen, and on one of her fingers a coarse ring of lead or tin shows her love of baubles. The nails are intact, a portion of her skull is entire, and the preservation of these bodies is due to the skilful process of plaster moulding of Signor Fiorelli, who has also disposed of them in a separate building at Pompeii.

QUEEN VICTORIA has many relations who are mixed up in Continental affairs. A half-sister of hers, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, was the wife of the late Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg. Her five children are nephews and nieces of the Queen. One of the daughters married the Duke of Augustenburg, the claimant to the Duchies. King Leopold, of Belgium, is the Queen's uncle, and her cousin (the Duke of Brabant, Leopold's eldest son and heir) is the husband of an Austrian Archduchess, and his daughter is the wife of the Archduke Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico. Then the Queen's aunt, the Duchess of Gamborg, is aunt of the Queen of Denmark; her son is the husband of the daughter of the King, and her daughter the wife of the Prince Royal of Prussia.

IN a speech recently made by Mr. C. Darnes, M. P., at Bolton, he stated the following curious facts in relation to the condition of the Established Church in Ireland: The number of parishes without churches, without glebes, and without any members of the Church of England living in the parish, is 608, and their revenue amounts to £50,432. Included in these were 121 parishes with benefices amounting to £7,557, in which there was neither church, glebe nor Protestant. Somebody received that £7,557, and had nothing to do for it. Again, the number of parishes with churches or glebes, or both, but more than fifty Protestants, was 124, and the income of this living was £17,064.

A FEW years ago Lord Beresford, the Archbishop of Armagh, died---a very old and respectable man. The archbishop entered the Church very young, with somewhat friends, who placed him in good livings. One of the first seven years he was Dean of Clogher, and received in that time £4,000. Then he was two years Bishop of Cork and Ossory, and received £10,000; then two years Bishop of Raphoe, and received £18,100; then Bishop of Clogher for eleven years, and received £121,000; then Archbishop of Dublin two years, and received £24,000; then he reached the top of the tree, as Archbishop of Armagh, and he found it a very good place for he lived forty years in it, and received £600,000, making a total of £777,000.

FRENCH women we know, are, as a rule, very quick and ready with their answers. One of them was last week on the point of starting for Austria, where passports are still required. The official document was on the table. Now Madame de Bic---is not only twenty-five years of age, but her intimate friends assert that she has been twenty-five for many years. A visitor calling to take leave, inquisitive as Parisians are apt to be, took up the passport, and read: "Age, twenty-five." This which reduced the twenty-five to an absurdity. "Ah, mon chez," said Madame de Bc——, taking the paper, "don't look at that passport, it is an old one."

REPORTS from different quarters agree that France does not intend to insist on ministerial changes as a part of 1852 as the basis of negotiations. Semi-official papers of Paris state the Emperor regards the application of the general suffrage as the only satisfactory solution of the complication. The official organ of the Duke of Coburg states that the Emperor expressed to the Duke his readiness to recognize the Prince of Augustenburg as Duke of Holstein, if the Federal Diet should decide in his favor.

A COLONY of five thousand Circassians is about to be established by the Porte on the Holy Land, on the large and magnificent plain of Sharon, between Mount Carmel and Gaza. The people of Palestine look with suspicion on the scheme, thinking it will be adding just five thousand robbers more to the number already operating in their country.

A DISPOSITION has arisen in the Imperial family of Austria respecting the presumptive right of Archduke of Maximilian to the Austrian crown. The Council of the family wished the Archduke to resign his right in case the crown should revert to him, but the Archduke hesitated to comply with this request.

THE Japanese Embassadors, with a suite of 50 persons, are telegraphed from Suez. Beside Paris, where they are to apologize to the Emperor for the misdeeds of the Tycoon, they are to visit London, Vienna, and also Switzerland, whither they are going to see an existing republic.

THE number of commercial steamers belonging to France is now three hundred and thirty-eight, having increased from sixty-four in 1847. Of these one hundred and sixty-six trade from Atlantic ports and one hundred and seventy-two in the Mediterranean.

CONFEDERATE cotton is found at Rouen to be packed with iron and shot, to make it weigh heavier. The French dealers in the article complain loudly of the cheating of the blockade-runners.

THE number of small blockades destroyed by the cold weather of the winter in France is estimated at several millions, and years must elapse before the places of these useful friends of agriculture can be supplied.

A SERVATORY of the University of Kiel, representing the public observatory of Holmich, has had brought them, thus far out of the land of bondage. Mr. Lincoln briefly responded, returning thanks for the beautiful present, referring to the difficulties with which he had been surrounded, and sketching the rapid changes of the past three years to the rulings of an all-wise Providence. The work is valued at $350. We understand that Mrs. Lincoln intends having it repacked for shipment to her home in Illinois.

DEAD AND WOUNDED NEGROES BURNED.

CAIRO, April 14.---On Tuesday morning, Forrest, with some 6000 men, attacked Fort Pillow. Soon after the attack Forrest sent out a flag of truce demanding the surrender of the fort and garrison. Meanwhile he made such disposition of his forces as to gain the advantage. Major Booth, of the 13th Tennessee cavalry, was in command, with 400 of that regiment and 200 of the first battalion of the 6th U. S. heavy artillery, formerly first Alabama cavalry (colored). The flag of truce was refused, and fighting was resumed afterwards.

A second flag of truce came in, which was refused. Both flags gave the rebels the advantage of gaining new positions.

The battle was kept up till 3 o'clock P. M., when Major Booth was killed and Major Bradford took command. The rebels now came in swarms, overpowering our troops, and compelling their surrender. Immediately after the surrender, ensued scenes which utterly baffles description. Up to that time comparatively few of our men were killed, but insatiate as fiends, blood-thirsty as devils incarnate, the rebels commenced an indiscriminate butchery of whites and blacks, including those of both colors previously wounded. The black soldiers becoming demoralized, rushed to the rear, and the white officers having thrown down their arms, both white and blacks were bayonetted, shot or sabred; dead bodies were horribly mutilated. Children seven and eight years old and several negro women killed in cold blood. Soldiers unable to speak from wounds, were shot dead and their bodies rolled down the banks into the river. Dead and wounded negroes were piled in huts and burned, and several citizens who joined our forces for protection, were either killed or wounded.

Out of a garrison of six hundred only two hundred remain alive.

Among our dead officers are Capt. Bradford, Lieuts. Barr, Ackerstrom, Wilson, Reval and Maj. Booth, all of the 13th Tenn. cavalry. Capt. Poston and Lt. Lyon, 13th Tenn., Capt. Young, 24th Mo., acting Provost Marshal, were taken prisoners. Maj. Bradford was also captured but is said to have escaped. It is feared however that he has been killed.

The steamer Platte Valley came up about half past three, and was hailed by rebels under a flag of truce. Men were sent ashore to bury the dead, and take aboard such of the wounded as the rebels had allowed to live. Fifty-seven were taken aboard, including seven or eight colored. Eight died on the way up. The steamer arrived here this evening, and was immediately sent to the Mound City hospital to discharge her suffering cargo.

Among the wounded officers of the colored troops are Captain Porter, Lieut. Libbarts, and Adjutant Lemming. His guns captured by the rebels were carried off, including two ten pound Parrotts, and two twelve pound howitzers. A large amount of stores were destroyed or carried away. The intention of the rebels seemed to be to evacuate the place and move on towards Memphis.

LOUISVILLE, April 15.---Colonel Pratt, commanding at Fort Donelson, telegraphs that he is informed that Paducah has been attacked, and the town is full of rebels.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

Special dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

HARRISBURG, April 15, 1864.

BILLS REPORTED.

SENATE---Morning Session.---The following bills were reported: A supplement to the Winslow Colliery and White Deer Improvement Company; one to charter the American Life Insurance and Trust Insurance Company; one relative to the Greenwood Cemetery; a supplement to the law relative to Brokers and prohibiting bankers; one chartering the McKees Rocks Ferry Company; Wilson's bill proposing that the State assume the payment of volunteer bounties was discussed during the entire session, nearly all the Senators participating.

HOUSE---Friday Morning.---The House resumed the consideration of the Appropriation bill, after a personal explanation of a bitter character between Mr. Myers, of Bedford, and Mr. Watson, of Philadelphia. A supplement to the Fayette County Railroad, empowering the construction of a road from Uniontown to Greensburg, was passed finally. The Appropriation bill passed finally.

From New Orleans.

NEW YORK, April 15.---The steamer Continental arrived at this port, this morning, from New Orleans on the 8th inst.

Advices from Alexandria, to the 5th inst., report that Gen. Banks and his staff proceeded up the river to Grand Ecore.

All was quiet at Alexandria, and ample precautions had been taken against a surprise by the enemy.

The heavy iron clads had dropped down to Fort De Russey.

There was still sufficient water for the gunboats and transports to cross the falls.

The streets of Alexandria were barricaded in case of raids being made by the rebels.

Advices from Texas state that Gen. Dana has been relieved from the command of the troops at Pass Carallo, at his own request, and has been succeeded by Gen. Warren.

There is no prospect of any immediate movement either on the coast or from Brownsville.

Advices from Matamoras report that there is no French or Franco-Mexican force there, nor known to be near there.

Gen. Asboth was in command at Pensacola. The enemy were concentrating a heavy force at Pollard, Ala., to operate on the line of the railroad from Pensacola to Montgomery.

The most terrible prosecutions were inflicted on the people who try to evade the conscription. Hundreds of men, women and children were concealed in the swamps, and numbers die from starvation.

The report of a rebel attack on Alexandria is untrue.

Cotton at New Orleans is unchanged supply, and the prices are firm; middlings 72 cents. Sugar and molasses are dull.

Rebel News.

NEW YORK, April 15.---The New York Herald has Richmond papers of the 9th, but they contain no news of moment.

General Wheeler is reported to have had a cheery brush with a body of rebels cavalry on the 31st of March, near Bingold, driving the enemy back.

The Sentinel reports that 18,283,000 dollars of the rebel debt has been funded and taken up by the different States, while a larger portion of the Confederacy is unheard from. The Sentinel estimates the total amount taken as at 250,000,000 dollars.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

HOW "Gift Enterprises" are Managed!---A most ludicrous scene was witnessed before Alderman Nicholson, on Thursday afternoon, during the trial of a cause in which Messrs. Barr & Myers, job printers, were plaintiffs and the proprietor of Russell's Panorama of the War, defendant. The owner of the panorama having become involved, it was sold some time since by the Sheriff and bought in by J. Charles Dicken, Esq. The paintings were recently exhibited at Concert Hall, and the "gift" dodge was tried, but without success. The concern finally closed, leaving sundry bills unsettled, among others that of Messrs. Barr & Myers, who had done printing on the credit of the painting to the amount of some forty dollars. These gentlemen, through their attorney, S. Schoyer, Jr., Esq., instituted proceedings in attachment, against the panorama and its owner, and the case was heard before Alderman Nicholson. Mr. Dicken denied his responsibility, claiming to have leased the panorama to other parties, and refused to pay any of the debts incurred.

During the trial, Mr. Schoyer called a number of witnesses to prove Mr. Dicken's connection with the late exhibitions---that he had taken the receipts for three evenings, had paid a round sum of the rent, and had entered into a scheme, with another member of the bar, to humbug the people by a gift enterprise. It will be remembered, that some pretty gifts were offered at the exhibition, "and among other things was a silver cake basket. This elegant "gift" was drawn by Anthony Weidman, Esq., a practicing member of the bar, and he was summoned to testify as to whether the number of the fortunate was dipped out and drawn by himself or another "man." Weidman, Esq., a practicing member of the bar, and he was summoned to testify as to whether the number of the fortunate was dipped out and a teaspoonful of the oil to be tested poured upon its surface; in a few seconds a slight sense applied to the oil, the dangerous oils---those capable of igniting below a temperature of one hundred and twenty-eight degrees---immediately took fire; whereas, if what shows to be impossible to ignite; those that were of a safe and non-explosive character. In the conversation that ensued, Dr. Letheby, Lankester and R. D. Thomson took part, and the desirability of raising the standard of the petroleum act from one hundred degrees Fahrenheit to one hundred and twenty five degrees was discussed, many accidents having arisen from the employment of oils with a higher inflaming point than one hundred degrees.

ELOPEMENT.---The wife of John P. Mergel, residing on Chestnut street, Allegheny, decamped for parts unknown on Thursday last, her husband was at work, taking with her a considerable portion of the household goods. The couple had been married four months, and each had children. The wife took her children with her, leaving the others behind.

THE CATHOLIC CLERGY AND THE FAIR.---A meeting of the clergy of the Catholic church was lately held at the residence of Bishop Domenec, at which it was resolved to take active measures to interest the various Catholic congregations in the forthcoming fair for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission.

DISORDERLY HOUSE.---A number of boys have been arrested by the police within the past few days for throwing stones and annoying citizens by breaking their windows. The Mayor has determined to punish severely those who may hereafter so offend and be brought before him.

CORRECTION.---In noticing the closing exercises of the Western Theological Seminary, the Rev. Cyrus Dickson, of Baltimore, is announced as Chairman of the Examining Committee. This is a mistake. It ought to be the Rev. Robert Dickson, of New Wilmington, Penna.

QUOTA PEACE.---Our quiet neighbors of Robinson township are "out of the draft" until they be made a call, another "call." They quietly do their duty as citizens, and don't appear to care whether it is generally known or not.

RECRUITS FOR THE 28TH REGIMENT.---Thirty new recruits for this veteran regiment left this city at noon to day for Chattanooga.

FOR SALE---FOR RENT.

FOR SALE---A FLOURING MILL.---I will sell our Flouring Mill in Centre Wheeling, on Baltimore and Ohio R. R., a short distance below the B. & O. R. R. Depot, on river bank.

The Mill has four run of French burrs, and all the modern improvements in machinery. The capacity of the Mill is 150 barrels per day.

Size of engine 10 inch bore, three feet stroke, estimated at 50 horse power; three cylinder boilers, 24 feet long, 36 inches in diameter. The main building is 60 feet by 40, four stories, and warehouse attached 115 feet by 60, three stories, including basement; also a new stable 85 by 24. The lot on which the Mill is erected is 464 by 64 feet. All will be sold with the Mill.

We would call the attention of capitalists to this property, as there is no Mill now favorably situated than this in the western country. We have a good grain growing country surrounding us---and then we have the Ohio river at our door that we can at all times get a supply of grain.

We are also favorably situated to ship our flour to the eastern markets, both by Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and Pennsylvania Central. We also have a good local trade for our flour and feed, at fair prices.

We have a railroad track from our Mill down to the low water mark, by which we draw our wheat from the landing into the Mill, by machinery. Three men can take in from two to three thousand bushels of wheat in a day, saving the heavy expense of drayage.

Should the property not be sold by the first of April, at private sale, we then will offer it at public sale on that day, at two o'clock, P. m., at the Court House in the city of Wheeling.

Terms will be made easy.
