All little child, about eighteen months old, attempted to go from the house to the lock, and in crossing the track, it is supposed that it fell, and as it could not pro-ceed farther, was lying there when the mail train bound west enrived. There being ashort curve in the road near by, the engineer did not observe the child until it was too list to stop the train in time to avoid an accident, and the little fellow was run over and injured to such an extent that he died, in two hours. The child belonged to the lock tender, whose name is Baker. The engineer did all in his power to prevent the accident.

The Pine Creek Drowning. Coroner McClung yesterday afternoon hele a further investigation in regard to the death of the woman found drowned at the mouth of Pine Creek. The facts, as stated in th Guette of yesterday evening, were substantially detailed before the inquest, with the casestion of the alleged cries of "under," with the exception of the alleged cries of "under," which were not heard by any of the witnesses. A plashing in the water was heard, however, which was supposed to have been made by the drowning woman. Her name was Catherina Jenks, and she formerly resided in Brownstown, where her husband, from whom she has been separated for some time, now lives. She have a strongly and the case of the mystery which may relieve the case of the mystery which now embroads it.

A Whole Pamily Burned to Death. On Friday night last, a fire broke out in s by a family named M'Mann, in Tarport, Pa. The parents occupied one room, and four children another. The flames spread before the family awoke. On awaking, the father attempted to resone one of the children, but was sufficated before leaving the house, and, with the child, was burned. The mother attempted to arouse the other children, but could not record them, and, with them, was also sufficated. Thus the whole family of six were burned. Thus the whole
