Rev. Mr. Swope, of Trinity Church, had not intimed to speak upon the subject. He had not, during his four years' connection with this parish, ever stated one word; in his pulpit which could be perverted into conveying pulpit which could be perverted into conveying political impressions. The resolutions that God what to do, while the substitute sim, ply cake. They were totally foreign to the objects for which they assembled. He did not wish to say anything upon the subject. The subject should be left for lawyers to discuss, at other places and under different circumstances. He did not care for the opinion of the world; he was opposed to the resolutions, and would vyte against them.

Bishop Potter was surprised to see aby opposition manifested towards the substitute. He thought it occupied the ground contended for by those favoring the resolutions, and had hoped that it would be accepted by the criginal merges of the resolutions.
