NATIONAL UNION NOMINATIONS,

BOR PRESIDENT:
ABRAHAM LINCOLN, of Illinois.

BOR VICE PRESIDENT:
ANDREW JOHNSON, of Tennessee.

AUDIBILITY OF THE CONSTITUTION, Granting the Soldiers Right to Vote, ELECTION OF TUESDAY, AUG. 2, 1864.

The Position of England.
Proceeded on the last debate from England, a debate in the House of Lords, in which the Rebel sympathizers in that body endeavored to find a cause of quarrel with the United States government on what is called "American Ecclesiastics".

In this debate the Tories, led by Lord Clarendon, (who was seconded by Lord Brougham) censured the British ministry for their failure to respond to these ecclesiastic men; and the time of speech was minutely indicated, and the speaker desired to pick a question with upon any protest.

The position of the opposition in the present British ministry are all sympathizers with the rebellion. They are "Conservatives", and "Opposition" there mean hatred of freedom everywhere. It is but natural that the aristocracy of the Old world should have a warm feeling for the lovers of tyranny in the New.

The answer of Lord Russell, on behalf of the Ministry, was neither logical nor affected in the least by the statements of the opposition, but charged the American government with unjustifiable neglect in not paying attention to the representations of the British government on the subject.
It made the best possible defense of the ministry without showing the least good will to us.

The fact appears to be that the British Ministry are holding office, just now, by a very precarious tenure. The Commons is very nearly evenly divided against them, and a very little matter may be enough to bring them and their Tory opponents in. Hence the desire shown by them in this instance, to let the Tories have as little capital as possible out of the American Ecclesiastic question.

The allegation that our Government is enlisting recruits in Ireland is a more perfect for provoking hostilities between the two nations. The Tories know, and the Moderate Unionists know, and the whole United States Government knows, that no callments whatever is to be made. There is not the first particle of evidence to show that this is the case, and our Government has overdeclared that no callments have been made by its authority. The whole story rests upon the fact that the emigration from Ireland to America is now very large; and these astute Tories argue that this large emigration can be accounted for only on the ground of political迫害. Such is their inference, and it matters nothing to them how strong the facts are against them. It must be, they say, that these Irish are tempted to by the offer of large bounties, else they never would leave Ireland.

Now, we see that there were something like mutiny in the allegation that these men emigrate for the purpose of joining the rebels. It was a lie, and it was a lie that there was no such mutiny, and it is to be resented.

As the demand for labor is "so active and opens so many doors for their employment, to prevail any large number of them to join the army, it could not be expected, if you give them a right to choose wherever they like to enter the army after they arrive, acting at liberty to choose, we do not see what right the English or any other government has to take effect at it. They are no longer British subjects when they touch our shores, and their acts, after that,
in no way concern the British government.

If the English government is really anxious in wishing to pick a quarrel with us, a cause for an actual war is not far off.
The only act of perfidious callment in itself will do as well as any other.

But there is still there is a gap.

The English government has a plan to bring up a gang of upstarts to fight with us, and to do as well as any other.

But unfortunately for us, the rebels in England have had, of their own accord, a plan of action, and it is to them by our government, and when they have heard of it, they will be extremely careful how they bring it to them. If they try to enter the army after they
touch our shores, and their acts, after that,
in no way concern the British government.

Denomination of Hon. Thomas W. Hiltunen.

The renomination of Mr. Williams as the Union candidate for Congress from the 23d District of Michigan has already been made, and was practically assured at the meeting of the delegation in Cleveland, which his name was selected at the primary election in Ainsworth County. But we were not prepared for so prompt and general an acquiescence in the verdict of Allegheny and Armstrong counties as comes to us from the Butler. Given of this week contains an editorial on the Congressional nomination, from which we clip the concluding portion:

"I remember well, when he was stationed at Cairo, in the summer of 1861, when I met him, Mr. Hiltunen, and were moving on Paducah, Kentucky. He was then in command of the detachment of soldiers to whom he had been assigned as guard to General Fremont. He immediately ordered sufficient troops on transports, and two gunboats to be ready to receive him, and gave him permission to go and take Paducah.
After a hard night's march he arrived at the camp of General Fremont, and was received with open arms. We were then told that he had been granted the same rank as General Fremont, and had been promoted to Major. He was then sent to the front, and was promoted to Captain, and was given command of a company of men, wading the prairie streams and through the swelled world, and the gunboats were ready to receive him when he came back to Cairo, and was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, and was given command of a regiment.

The Public Debt.
The following timely and most excellent article is from the Chicago Tribune.

According to the official statement of Secretary Chase, the amount of the National Debt, on June 1, 1864, is $1,000,000,000. Cut the figure out and it is clear that it is, recollect, a great sum, but the sum which should have been the heroes of the hour, when we looked it up, is that the troops were loaded on the transports, and the gunboats were ready to receive them when he came back to Cairo, and was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, and
was given command of a regiment.

Mr. J. C. Robinson, who was badly wounded in the hand in the battle of Bull Run, has so far recovered as to be able to start for New York.

Mr. L. S. Parker complains of the slavery circumstances prevalent among military men in that city.

Footwear parts his hair in the middle; so as to the Union party entirely on one side, & the other side.

Gen. Karpas was in Trenton on Tuesday. He is recovering from his wound but is still lame.
