afterwards proved to be the companions of the munderer, who are said to belong to a gang of pickpockets, that frequently infest the vicinity during the durival and departure of the value. Thomas, we are told, was a respectable and inoficative man, and worked at Moorhead's folling mill.

At three o'clock this morning the munderer had not been arrested, but the police are confident that he cannot escape.

The notorious thief Jack Young, who was released from Jaif but a few days since, way in company with the minderer, and was arrested soon after the shooting and locked up in the tombs. He refuses to give the names of any of the party. The Occurre will hold an inquest on the body of the mundered man this morning, when all the particulars of the munder will probably be obtained. ADDRESS OF MR. H'MICHARL. The Chairman then introduced the Hen. Morton McMichosi, of Philadolphia, who was received with loud applause. He stated that it would be quite impossible for him to make a speech, as he not only had a frog in his throat, but a whole pond fell of them croaking so that his voice was almost stifled. He regretted very much that he could not speak to his fellow-citizens of Pittsburgh—that he could not confor with them on the great thomes which now occupy and agitate the country. to als-fellow-citizens of Pitteburgh—that he could not control with them on the great homes which new occupy and agitate the country. All that he could do to-night was to offrees his most earnest conviction that we shall win in the two great struggles now going on—the great state arms are now engaged, and the great political context which will terminate in the re-election of "honest old Abe." (Applaure.) The speaker was in this city soon after the nomination of dot. Political and predicted his triumpantelection. A certain paper here cantioned the people sgainst this prophesy, but is proved correct. He was here again after the nomination of Abraham Lincoln, and predicted his cleation. However, the property is the property of the proved correct. He was here again after the nomination of Abraham Lincoln, and predicted his election. However, the providence would be triumphantly re-elected. (Applaure.) So surely as the second Tuesday of November, so surely want that sun rise on such a victory as had never hofore been winessed. (Loud and long continued applause.) He did not beare who was put up in opposition to Mr. Lincoln, or how many candidates there might be, or upon what platform they stood, they would mest with inevitable defeat. He knew enough of the American people—had seen enough of their determination to crush the rebuilton, and with it the cause—to know that what he now attested was not mere political braydo, but sobar truth. (Applause.)

during, to raise the tax on tonacce to thirty-fave and fifty cents, and to inaugerate the entirely new system of lovying taxes on sales. This last he regarded as purely an experi-mental provision. It taxes all sales of ceablishments whose annual business amounts to over a thousand dollars at one-fourth of one per cent., and it is calculated that this will bring in a revenue of at least fifteen milons of dollars.

The general object at which Secretary Chase is alming is to secure a revenue of four aundred millions. If next year's expendiures should be no more than this, only four dred millions more will then have to be raised by the sale of bonds, and this, it is believed, can easily be done. The exact estimate of what the Tax bill, now passed, will oring, is two hundred and twenty-six millions. The new bill just sent in, if passed, will raise this to three hundred millions. The ales of cotton in insurrectionary States, and the receipts from imports and several other dner sources make up the other hundred millions, leaving four hundred millions to be raised from bonds.
