On motion of Rev. Dr. McIlvaine, the On motion of fave. Dr. melivatine, the words "garreme law of the land," in the memorial to Congress, were stricken out, and the words "of supreme authority" inserted. The words "all the inhabitants of the land" were substituted for the expression "all the people," in the same decument.

Dr. McIlvaine hoped that the words "and bearing the authority to expression." which had been left out of some of the print Dr. Donglas denied that French infidelit had any thing to do with the framing of the Constitution. The Convention met to amend the old articles of Confederation, and the frathe old atticles of contingeration, and the ira-ming of a Constitution did not enter into its original design. But even if Jefferson and Jackson did declare that the United States had no God, Abraham Lincoln had declared that they have, for all who would avail them-selves of his nuncerty proclamation must awear "in the name of Aimighty God," and no person, other in or out out of Congress, has called in question the constitutionality of such an each.

A sait of some interest to dealers in wool is likely to come before the next term of the United States District Court in Cleveland. The facts of the case, as alleged in the state-ment of the plaintiff, are that H. C. Davis, the plaintiff in the suit, a wool dealer of Philadelphia, contracted to purchase a con-siderable amount of wool from D. P. Bayard, siderable amount of wool from D. P. Bayard, of Stark county, Ohio. After the contract had been made, the price of wool advanced, and eighteen thousand pounds of wool, included in the contract, were sold by Bayard to another person, at a price above that for which it whe coursaided by Davis. But wool advanced still further, and Bayard, instead of abitvaring to either the firster second buyers, sold the wool to still another person at still higher rates. On learning these facts, Davis commenced proceedings in the United States Court for the Northern District of Ohio, and Deputy U. S. Marshal Simmons replaying the wool whilst in transit to the last purchasers. It was taken to Alliance by the Deputy Marshal, and shipped to Cieveland About after Simmons left with his price, another suit of replays came in from the second
