

NATIONAL UNION NOMINATIONS

FOR PRESIDENT: ABRAHAM LINCOLN, of Illinois.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT: ANDREW JOHNSON, of Tennessee.

SPECIAL ELECTION, TUESDAY, AUG. 2, 1864.

SHALL SOLDIERS VOTE?

Working Up.

The exigencies of the past few days have been almost death-like sleep.

It was hard to start from her profound slumber, and it appeared, at one time, as if an earthquake would not do it. But there was no earthquake. The State cannot escape from the disgrace and humiliation of being totally unprepared for the danger most constantly menacing her, and on at least have herself from the danger of being indifferent to it when it becomes an actual fact.

We were glad to notice that one of the speakers at the meeting held by the Mayor's office, on Monday last, had the right notion of the nature of the danger, and that he was not afraid to say so. He said that the State was in a perilous position, and that it was necessary to take prompt action to avert the danger. He said that

action to avert the danger. He said that

action to avert the danger. He said that

action to avert the danger. He said that

action to avert the danger. He said that

action to avert the danger. He said that of things as they are, and not to cry because they are not what we want them to be.

It will be for us all, if we can only see the good and not the evil.

What the Rebels say.

A letter in the New York World of Monday, written by the special correspondent of that paper at Baltimore, and dated on Sunday last, gives in detail the Rebel opinion in that city concerning Gen. Lee's demonstration against Baltimore and Washington. We copy the essential portions of the letter. How far the speculations it contains have been or are likely to be verified by the facts, the reader has good opportunities of judging as we have our usual wont of such articles.
