after the most earnest appeals from the street, Allegheny. men.
Capts. F. C. Negley, Littell and Graham had fifty men, and it was expected that this campany would be filled up to day.
There was no report made of the number of men chilsted at the recruiting stations in other parts of the city, but we understand that very favorable progress is being made.
With a determined effort, there is no reason the excitent should not be formed here With a determined effort, there is no reason why a regiment should not be formed here to-day, out of the companies from Pittsburgh, Allegheny, and the immediate vicinity. The Departmental companies, or a portion of them, might be thrown into this regiment, if enough men cannot be obtained here, but we would prefer seeing the regiment organized exclusively out of Allegheny county men. On the Fourth of July, the residents of Oil City and surrounding country witnessed the secomplishment of the feat of walking acros the Alleghony river on the wire cable of Lay's Ferry, an inch in diameter. The performe of this feat was Mr. J. B. Alien, who is understood to have ind no provious practice or experience, and is colf an amsteur in the wire-walking basiness. The wire used on the occasion was 1,000 feet long, and was suppont and at a heighth of eighty feet above the surface of the river. Mr. Alien's apparatus consisted of is flag staff act into the end of a pleec of ordinary gas plap, surmounted by an eight feet flag. This staff was about thirteen feet above, and nine feet below the wire. To the end of this was a balance weight of seven and three quarter pounds. This staff was run upon the top of the wire by means of a pulley-wheel, not fastened in any way to the wire, and was drawn over by the walker.

The large crowd that had assembled to witness the parformance lined the banks of bearing and was drawn over by the walker.

The large crowd that had assembled to witness the parformance lined the banks of bearing sides of the river. About four o'clock Mr. Allen got upon the rope on the Latonia side of the viver, and proceeded on his perilous journey, which he accomplished in safety, much to the satisfacion of the spectators. of the river, and processing of the special or safety, journey, which he accomplished in safety, and much to the satisfaction of the speciators. As usual in such cases, a number of bets were made, and a large amount of money changed thands. Mr. Allen relied entirely upon the hands. Mr. Allen relied entirely upon the special or the spe was contributed, which was handed him: Recruiting in Allegheny for the 100 The recruiting business in Allegheny yes-terday was very brisk. Another spirited meeting was held in Wilkins Hall last evening. Hen. J. K. Moorhead delivered a lengthy and effective speech, appealing to the patrictism of the people, and calling upon the young men to fill up the quats of the county under the call for hundred days men. He also alleded to the conscription law, as amended by the last Conscription law, as amended by the last Conscription for the property of the conscription law, as amended by the last Conscription law, as a mended by the law of the voice of reason, supply yourselves to the two voices of reason, supply yourselves to the voice of reason, supply yourselves to the voice of reason, supply yourselves to the voice o scription law, as amended by the last Congress, and explained the necessity which existed for striking out the commutation clause. This action had been taken only result from the commutation of the commu clause. This action had been taken only after the most earnest appeals from the President, the Secretary of Wer, and other members of the administration. It was not the desire of the government to enforce a draft, and the belief was that every district would be enabled to fill its quots during the fifty days silowed by the law for volunteering. Moothead stated that under the amended law or every man would be interested in precaring youlnaters, and would thus act the part of a recruiting agent for the government. This was just what was needed, and was the most effective method of anstaining the problim. He could in all sincerity place his hand upon his heart and say that, in easting his vote for the repeal of the commutation claure, be had done nothing hat whis he believed to be his duty. The remarks of the General were well received and frequently hyplauded.

T. J. Bigham, Esq., followed in an earnest and sitting appeal.

H. A. Weaver, E. Q., here announced that a dispatch had just then received from Beilimore, stating that the "invasion" was about "played out," and that the rebels were hast using across the Potomac with all the plunder they could take. The announcement was halled with loud applance.

A Man Hung for Killing a Soldier-A Just Retribution.

Major Capehart, let regiment West Virginia cavalry, who is now in Wheeling, relates an incident in connection with the late raid of Hunter. It appears that in the moath of November last a prominent citizen of Greenbriar county, named David Crea, killed to a company on picket duty near Crea's house. Crea nest shot the soldier with none. Crea nest shot the soldier with a revolver and then struck him on the bead with an axe, and carried the body to a well on the place and tumbled it in with a riew of concealing his crime. When the army passed through Lewisburg receasily, on its way to Lynchburg, a negro man informed some of General Averill's officers of the facts mentioned above. The General at once ordered the arrest of Crea, who was staying at his house about six miles-from Lewisburg, and he was taken along with the army. On the way to Staunton a Court martial was called in the case; and Crea upon being brought up for trial made a s'full confession of the murder. Staunton a Court martial was called in the case; and Crea upon being brought up for trial made, a full confession of the murder. The sentence's of the Court was that he be hung by the need was dead, and that all his combustible property be destroyed. The deadful sintenee was approved by General Crook, and put into execution the day after the army left Staunton, at a little place called Recommony in the presence of a large number of soldiers.

place in Patrick street, opposite the City Hotel, between them and the rear guard of the Confederates, who were moving out towards the Washington turnpike. Bullets flow thick and fast, creating the greatest constemation in the city. The Confederates were repulsed, leaving fire or six of their dead behinfu them. The Union troops pursued them as far as Monecary Junction, where the enemy forded the river, the water being very low, and followed their main force on the Georgetown road.
