penilon, specie payments are resumed, all totoks and all prices immediately and largely decline, but Government stake no not senterially decline. This fact we assort on the ground of Austorical experience. It is true that in the War in 1812 15 Government stocks fell, at one time, to 70; but most of the banks were thou supported the transported of gold value of Government stocks were this day 70; (the lawest they were over till mow sold at,) the market value at the present that of gold would be 155, while it fast the stocks are 'felling below 105. Supposing, then, that the market price of Government recurities were, by the retumption of specie payments, to go down to 10 in July the decline would be 35 on 105, equivalent to 33' if per cent., while the decline on a railroad stock could be nearly or quite equal to the whole Epitoent difference between gold and paper. A vecument railroad stock, setting now at 105, would decline to 55, or in the best appossible case, to 60. This is illustrated by the history of every ampenion of specie payments we have had, and there are many business men who will recollect what the priver of produce, stocks and all saleable commedities were after the revulvitiens of 1857, and 1839-40. In 1811, '42 and '43, prices were reduced to a degree now searcely or, bible.' But Overnant stocks did not principle, deduced from all experience in Eaglland and this country, that Obserment wheels and do rote of interest, and accurry are all fixed and primanent. There may be some variations in the market price, owing to the greater or less balk of the entire our renoy, but there can be none in the intrinsic value; and hence it is, that historically the fluctuations in the value of Government stock have been comparatively small. In all the recent compercial fluctuations of Regland (in some of which there has been a complete protration of all, other property), the variation in British consols has not been over five or six por stock. Of railway and bank stocks the great variations and at times wonderful depreciation have reduced these stocks to one half ther measure, among other desperate measures, to embarrass the Government and to aid the Rebeilion, it offered some promise to the conspirators, in the hope, perhaps, that an appeal to the people of the West might be listened to which should hold out to them the bope of a great and independent Empire, with the Mississippi artheir outlets to the sea. But it was precisely her where, whether prematurally exposed or not, such a plot would fail to the ground—the people of the West would trample it under their fest whenever it became known to them. They are loyal to the Uhion, and no promise of a separate Empire, no appeal to morely settinh and local interests, would ever indees them, for an instant, to weave from that loyalty. Such a compiracy.

FROM PETERSBURG. The Operations on Saturd y.

Washington, July 31, 1654. Mr. C. A. Page, one of the correspondents of the New York Tribune, sends the following important intelligence to that journal from before l'etersburg :

Before Pet , dury, Salar lay, July 30, 9 a m .-After three days of manoeuvring, with marching and some fighting, the grand assault upon stersburg was made at half past four o'clock this morning, and is still progressing, it is henght, favorably.

The movement of Hancock and Sheridan to the left bank of the James was a feint to draw the tnemy in that direction, and was encoasful. Yesterday, to confirm him in his impression that Grant proposed to make the light there, trains were sent over from here, in his plain sight, the long transportation of the absent Sixth Corps being used for the purpose. Then at dark last night, Hancock began marching this way and before day light had his corps in close reserve. Gen. Hunt, Chief of Artillers, had ninety-four guns and afteen mortars, and the explosion of an immense mine in Gen. Burnside's from was guns and fifteen mortars, and the explosion of an immente mine in Gen. Burnside's from was signal for them to open. The main attack was to be from the centre of the 9.h. cyrpt, while the 18 h and Turner's division of the 10th corps should be massed in the right rear of the 9th grate of the 2d to take position on the line west of the river, but nearly all to support the 9.h. The mine had been pushed out four hundred fact, radiating into three branches beneath a rabel four gun battery. The powder exploding five its dity feet under ground, was equal to a chamber train fifteen inches in diameter and two hundred and fifteen feet long. The world shook when it was fired, and a column of yellow earth spouted into the air, as broad and as high as Bonker II.11 monument.

The ecbe of the awfin blast had not come back from the word behind, when the hundred guns opened from the rising ground in Warren's front. I could see the line of beiching fire, the great volumes of while make, and bear the noise of it all. The enemy anguly replied, the heavy nunkerry vollies in the centre only being heard in the momentary intervale between tre gins—heaviest just when the sun's tlood red disk wheeled into sight in the eart. The regular brigade is engaged at our left. A column of black smoke rises from Petersburg, and clouds in the sky show that the city is burning. A signal station, by a battery hard to the front, is waving merrily its little fleg that talks—I do not comprehend it.

Generals Grant and Monde are at Burnelde's beacquartera. There I learn that the mine as complished its purpose. The capitain buried three of the four guns above it, and many casa. While the carth rtill trembled, tha 14 h New York Heavy, Ardillery, and the 21 Brigade of Ledit's Division, rushed upon the spot and brike the sense we line. Over one hundred priscuers were taken. EURPHSION OF BUSINESS—To accordance with the proclamations of Mayors Lowry and Alexder, the business houses of the two cities were, with a fewerreptions, closed this morning; but learning during the day that a fasther suspension was not decimed accessive by the authorities, the stores were expended and business resumed as used. Our citiesns evidence a very commendable spirit in according to readily to the requested surpension of business, and it it to be hoped that the necessity for future suspensions will not again arise. A Word's special from Froderice, 31, save, No robel timenty, crose has yet crossed the Potenno.
