The Chicago Convention.

That there will be two parties represented in the Chicago Convention—a Peace party and a War party—is stating no new fact. This complexion of the Convention has been foreshadowed for some time. The only phase of the forthcoming event about which there was any doubt in men's minds was involved in the inquiry whether the Peace or the War wing would control the Convention and nominate the ticket. That question now seems to be settled in favor of the War faction. They will have matters their own way, but they will have matters their own way, but they will throw a tub to the whale. The Peace men, realizing that alone they can do nothing, will accept the best terms they can get, relying upon the chance, or rather the mischances, of the war to give them control of the party when it comes into power, if it ever does. But even if foiled in this, have they not their promised share of the offices to fall back upon? Depend upon it, there will be no division at Chicago—no "split" in the Democracy this time. We will have a fight, a powerful one to numbers and utterly unscrupulous as to means. In one part of the country we may expect a portion of our opponents, as in the case to day, to be honestly in favor of prosecuting the war with a Democratic President and Democratic Generals, while in another we may look for utterances like those of ALEXANDER LONG and the traitor HARRIS to be received as the only true gospel—the gospel of peace, of national dismemberment and national disgrace. Wherever it is possible, a weak kneed, a dissatisfied or a cheap pointed sn, porter of the present Administration will be coaxed or bribed into the support of the Chicago nominees. And there will be many such unfaithful Unionists.

It is clear to our minds that the Union party of the country must at once exert itself to organize victory at the polls in November, or there will be a change of Administrations on the Fourth of March next. Our opponents are confident of success, and they will be thoroughly united. We, on the contrary, are cursed with an apathy which is blighting to the fairest prospects, and, instead of being united and harmonious, we are making fools of ourselves and furnishing our enemy with means to work our destruction by issuing a "protest" against the President's veto of the Reconstruction bill, and by scolding that eminent official—the repository of all our hopes, if we knew it—because he does not turn JOHN SMITH out of office and turn JOHN JONES in, or because he does not do something or other that would gratify our own personal likes and dislikes, our whims and prejudices. Suppose Mr. LINCOLN should now be re-elected, will we better ourselves by having M'CLELLAN or some other pliable instrument of the double-headed Democracy in his place? But we will not argue so plain a question. We will say, however, that our childish bickerings, and lack of enthusiasm in support of the nominees of the Baltimore Convention, are daily producing mischief, and that it becomes all men, who sincerely believe that the country can only be saved through the re election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, to assist in creating a healthier and more harmonious state of feeling. There is no reason under the sun why we should lose the election next fall, and we will not if we are but true to ourselves and our cause.

"Edmund Kirke's" Peace Mission.

It is announced that the Atlantic Monthly, for September will contain Mr. GILMORE'S account of his visit to JEFF DAVIS last month in company with Colonel JAQUES. The interview will be described precisely as it occurred, with all the talk on both sides. Mr GILMORE has, however, somewhat anticipated the publication in the Atlantic by giving a lecture at Pawtucket, Rhode Island, on Wednesday of last week, in which he detailed many particulars of his visit to Richmond Most of his statements were merely corroborative of the account that has already been published, but the following we apprehend is entirely new, and as important as it is new:

"I went to Richmond with the Rev. Colonel JAQUES, and went with the hope of making propositions which might result in peace. I knew we should succeed; we thought that the same interest party recently created would help our expenses. It was only by letting the people of the North know what was the reason of our failure, for I went with propositions, on the basis of which I might have made an arrangement for peace with Mr. DAVIS, and if we were unsuccessful, it would be useful for the country to know what propositions were rejected."

* * * * *

"I then had a considerable conversation with Mr. Davis, in which I had indirectly offered him the terms which I had been authorized to suggest; but as he did not show any disposition to meet me, I did not state them explicitly. These terms will be given through the newspapers in a short time. They were, in general, entire abolition, a general amnesty, no confiscation, the debts of the South to be ignored, the debts of the General Government to be borne by all the States. Mr. Davis declared that such terms would never be accepted by the Southern people, and that rather than submit to them, they would find that rather than submit to them, they would take their whole property and their national existence."

The mission of Mr. GILMORE and Colonel JAQUES, it would appear from these statements, was not of so unofficial a character as has been represented. Those statements, if they are reliable, and we believe they are perfectly so, establish distinctly the fact that Mr. GILMORE went to Richmond as the bearer of certain authorized propositions looking to peace between the Government and the Rebels. The country will be anxious to know the precise nature of the authority with which Mr. GILMORE was vested, and the appearance of the Atlantic Monthly, containing the promised explanation, will therefore be looked for with more than the usual interest.

Pennsylvania and Her Maligners.

The Cincinnati Gazette of Saturday last contains an appreciative and eminently just article in review of the foul charges of cowardice and old-fogyism which the New York press has so freely heaped upon Pennsylvania and Maryland. We make room for the following full extract:

It is written, and the humorous idea is reiterated like the jokes of a negro minstrel company, that "Pennsylvania is enjoying her annual scare;" and upon this that state is assailed for not having a militia army ready for her defense. But is New York or Ohio any better prepared for their annual scare? There is nothing to boast of in the way New York has responded to the call for militia on this occasion. It is true Ohio had an organized militia force, ready for defense in sudden emergency, but it is now in the field far from our border. And does any one suppose that if Kirby Smith, or Forrest or Morgan should appear in Ohio with 20,000 men, he would not put a draft on our 35 000 militia in the dust as a fair offset, and would retire; and so if Pennsylvania had had a well organized, drilled and armed militia force of 50 000 or 100,000 men, the whole country would have called upon her to send this force to reinforce Grant, and to inflict one final, crushing blow on the rebellion. The clamor would have been kept up that in the field with Grant's army was the true defense of Pennsylvania and the very cries of writers who have now been heaping insult on her defenseless situation, and upon the suffering of the defenseless inhabitants, would have been loudest in this clamor, and foremost in throwing sneers and gibes upon the state for her selfishness in keeping a force at home for her own defense, which, if thrown into the field at that moment, would finish the war.

We in Ohio know something of the difficulty of overcoming an invading force, even when it is small and cuts loose from its connections and reinforcements, and when, too, it is pursued by a superior force. Morgan was never caught by the superior number of able-bodied inhabitants in the parts he passed through, but by a regular force. How could the inhabitants of the invaded districts of Pennsylvania and Maryland hope to resist a rebel army which had beaten our regular forces? And since the military authorities found it so difficult to learn the numbers of the enemy, or where they were going to strike—so that even now it is gravely discussed whether there were 300 or 20,000 threatening Washington, and grave responsibilities are made to hang on the dispute—how could the scattered inhabitants be expected to be any wiser in knowing the point of attack, or any braver in meeting it?

Pennsylvania has furnished her quotas to the national armies. She had once a force called the Reserve, which we think was organized for State defense, but this was taken into the field, where, as it was continually said, was the real defense of Pennsylvania. We suppose that like the other States, she has formed her military energies pretty well occupied in responding to the requisitions for the national army. Of course she can do more upon emergency, as the other States can. But they have not done it, because they took to the army in the field for home defense. So does Pennsylvania. Had she been advised that the course of operations would expose her to invasion she would probably have gone vigorously to work to prepare for it; but our military directors gave her no such warning and the public did not expect it.

Pennsylvania has the right to be protected by the National army. In the accident of invasion the other States are under the same obligations to help to defend her, and to be prepared for it as she is herself. Second children must be progressing when men in the North can talk of the defense of a State in a general way as a State war. And her mischievous feature in this matter is, that such attacks upon the people or characters of a State arouse jealousies, unfriendly feelings and hostilities between the people of different States, and thus foster those sectional animosities and divisions, which the Democratic party are striving to create among the free States, in order to carry out their plan to divide and subjugate the North.

News Paragraphs

THE LEGISLATURE.—The House, on Friday, adjourned over until yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. The Senate was in session on Saturday, but did nothing but adjourn over until last evening at half past eight o'clock. Only seventeen out of thirty-three members were present.

The Republican states that hospitals are to be erected in Washington for the separate use of the sick and wounded colored soldiers, having been charged that they do not receive the care and attention in some of the present hospitals to which they are entitled.

THE Union Congressional nominations in Illinois thus far are as follows: 1st district, Bobbs; 2d, Washburne; 4th, General A. C. Harding; 7th, H. P. H. Bromwell; 8th, Shelby M. Cullom; 9th, Hugh Fairtervay; 11th, E. Callahan; 12th, John Bark; 13th, A. J. Kuykendall; 14th, Isaac N. Morris. Several districts have not yet been heard from, but Colonel Arnold, Farnsworth and Ingersoll will probably be re-nominated.

During the past few days numerous counterfeit postal currency notes have been exhibited at the office of the United States Treasurer Spinner. These notes are so well executed as completely to defy detection. Their exact origin is veiled for by Colonel Detective Baker, who, on his other hand, many of the department officers, among them Dr. Spinner himself, unhesitatingly pronouncing them genuine.

At St. Louis, General Payne has levied a tax of one hundred and twenty five dollars on each hale of cotton, and twenty-five per cent. ad valorem on each horsehead of tobacco of disloyal men, to the credit of the families of robbed and murdered Union men. It is expected that this tax will yield three hundred thousand dollars in six months.

We have just had handed to us, says the Cleveland Plaindealer, a printed circular dated August 3, 1864, purporting to be "published by request of leading Whig and Democrats in nearly every State," recommending Millard Fillmore to the Chicago nomination

THERE is an excess of females over males in five states in the Union. Connecticut has 5,000, Massachusetts 37,000, New Hampshire 7,000, New York 11,000, Rhode Island 6,000. In Pennsylvania the numbers are nearly equal.

The British Neutral Service Again.

The ship Tallahassee, of London has appeared on our coast and captured the American bark Bay State, the American brigs Estelle, Sarah Boyce and Richard, the American schooner Atlantic and the pilot boat James Funk. Having done this she steered southward, for "fresh fields and pastures new."

The Tallahassee is a steamer, schooner rigged, carrying three guns. She was painted white, and has two screw propellers. Her hull is marked "Tallahassee of London, 1864." Her engines are marked "J. & W. Dudgeon, London." She carries the Mediterranean pass, and has a British register.

We hope the merchants and seamen of Great Britain will keep their eyes open the next time their government goes to war with some European nation, they find their ships captured by neutral American steamers. They must prepare themselves to take such losses pleasantly, for they are making the law of the seas. "Britannia rules the waves:" some of her rulings will make her subjects feel very unpleasantly one day.—N. Y. Post.

American and English Guns.

The London Times of July 17, after robosting the results of some experiments made at Shoeburyness with an Armstrong 600 pounder, concludes that this weapon is capable of smashing through the strongest sea-going armor clad that could be got to float at a distance of 4,000 yards or over more. It then informs its readers that "the American 9-inch 95-inch gun to throw a spherical shot of 1,000 lbs." It thinks the result of the experiments it reports proves that we are not "altogether wrong" in trusting to heavy shot at low velocities and frankly acknowledges that there is no charge of powder that could be expected to send the 1,000 lb shot out of its gun which would not at close range "be sure to ten with almost sticking effect on the very best of our iron-clads." That will do for the Times. Even Englishmen, it seems, learn wisdom by experience.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

The parties in St. Louis and Cincinnati, who have been counterfeiting the Mustang Liniment under pretense of proprietorship, have been thoroughly estopped by the Courts. To guard against further imposition, I have procured from the United States Treasury a private steel-plate revenue stamp which is placed over the top of each bottle. Each stamp bears the fac simile of my signature, and without which the article is a counterfeit, anonymous and worthless imitation. Examine every bottle. This Liniment has been in use and growing in favor for many years. Thousands exist—hundreds on this immediate place that can bear evidence of its wonderful effects. It is the best one liniment in the world. With its present improved ingredients, the effects upon man and beast are perfectly reliable. Sores are healed, pains relieved, lives saved, valuable animals made useful and untold life assured. For sale, wholesale and retail, by druggists, selling, stores, cabs, basket brushes, &c.
