Rebel Hopes.

The evidence accumulates daily that the Rebels base their main hopes of success upon the ascendency of the Peace party at our coming Presidential election. They know full well that, with a united North, their Confederacy would not have the ghost of a chance of ultimate success. If they had expected that the North would be united against them, they would never have commenced the war. But Northern doughfaces encouraged them to think otherwise. FRANKLIN PIERCE, for instance, assured JEFFERSON DAVIS, once his Secretary of War, that the streets of Northern cities would run with blood if the Government should attempt to coerce the South. Upon the strength of these and similar assurances, the Rebels seceded from the Union and fired upon Fort Sumter. For a time, contrary to their expectations, they met a united North, but today the North is divided, and a year has passed since the prediction of FRANKLIN PIERCE was fulfilled in the city of New York.

In his recent interview with Col. JAQUES and Mr. GILMER, JEFFERSON DAVIS manifested great incredulity when told by these self-appointed negotiators, what was not the fact, that there were twenty millions in the North determined to crush the Rebellion. The Rebel President knew better than the ignoramuses who were addressing him what was the true state of feeling in the North toward his Government. Well might he shake his head in unbelief. But there have been recently more distinct utterances than those of JEFFERSON DAVIS concerning the faith the Rebels repose in the ability of their Northern sympathizers to effect a diversion which will end the war in their favor. We copy a couple of the boldest of these declarations. It is only a few weeks since the Atlanta (Ga.) Register exhorted Northern Copperheads to persist in their hostility to the Government, and added:

"We can gain nothing by denouncing them. We may lose much by presenting a bonfire front to their pusillanimous forms. Live with them, endear the same Government we never will. But, in the meanwhile, if they will use the ballot box against Mr. Lincoln, while we use the cartridge box, each side will be a helper to the other, and both cooperate to accomplish a the greatest work which the country and the continent have witnessed."

That should be exploit enough to be understood by all who know the meaning of the English language. But a still later Rebel utterance points with yet more distinctness to the agency which is relied upon to insure the "independence" of the Southern Confederacy. Speaking of what may happen within the next six weeks, the Richmond Sentinel of the 20th inst. says:

"Within that time it is almost certain that the approaching Chicago Convention will have thrown its apple of discord and destruction into the already distracted and discordant ranks of the North. It may suggest terms of honorable peace. * * And in that event, it will be, sure to endeavor to make rather than premise the peculiar war policy of Lincoln, because it believes that his war policy is equally directed against the liberty of the North and the independence of the South. Let us await patiently the results of that convention before finally committing ourselves to any specific terms of peace; for they have much to fear from that result, we nothing to apprehend from it. It may impede, thwart, embarrass the plans and purposes of the war party at the North. It may make their situation worse, but cannot effect ours."

So, here we have it! The South is to be saved, if saved at all, by the Chicago Convention. It is relied upon to throw the "apple of discord and destruction" into the ranks of the North. "It may suggest terms of honorable peace"—an honorable peace in Rebel eyes always meaning the recognition of their Confederacy. And this article in the Sentinel, from which we clip, has for its caption these words—"The Critical State of the War." Throughout the whole of that article the writer shows that he is impressed with the conviction that the real crisis of the Confederacy has come at last. Naturally enough, he looks to Chicago for help—"help, or we perish." Let all loyal men make a note of these things.

Playing the Devil.

Some of the Copperhead papers have had the coolness to deny that the Order of American Knights had an existence. They have been loud in the assertion that the confessions of CHARLES L. HUNT, Grand Commander of the Order in Missouri, and DANIEL B. SMITH, the Secretary of the treasonable organization for the same State, were extorted from them under threats, that they were not reliable, that the details they gave of the organization and purposes of the alleged Order were pure fabrications, etc., etc. The recent developments in Indianapolis have, however, silenced the whole Copperhead party. There comes no response from their organs. Those revolvers and boxes of ammunition, and the letters to DODD and VOORHEES, have proved the declarations of HUNT and SMITH to be true. The following letter to DODD, from JOHN E. HUSLEY, law-partner and brother in law of VOORHEES, We have not heretofore published:

NEW YORK, Aug. 6, 1864.

H H Dodd, Esq., Indianapolis:

MY DEAR SIR—Hunted Company have played the card, according to report. Does he attempt to implicate any of our friends, and does it affect our people in any degree?

Can Morton overawe our people by the military organization? I have read with deep interest the meager newspaper reports of affairs in our State, and am anxious to learn more. Write to me if you can find leisure.

Direct to care of Thomas P. Akers & Co., 49 Wall street. Very truly yours, has a new novel in press, to be published in September, entitled "John Godfrey's Fortunes, related by himself; a story of American life."

JOHN E. HUSLEY.

NEWS ITEMS.

News Paragraphs.

THERE is a strong probability that by the 1st of September, if not within a further advance of the time, the leading daily newspapers of New York city, in concerted argument, with that end in view, is already underway, and the probable result will be, that six cents instead of four will be charged. And don't be surprised if, in the course of a brief period, one or two of the weeklies should suspend operations till this "cruel war is over." So says a New York letter writer.

COL. PHILIP HERBERT, of the Seventh Texas cavalry, died at Kingston, Louisiana, on the 27th ultimo, from the effects of a wound received at the battle of Mansfield, April 8, 1864. This is the former member of Congress from California, who made himself notorious in the winter of 1857 by killing one of the waiters at Willard's Hotel, in Washington. At the outbreak of the rebellion he cast his fortunes with the rebels and joined a Texas regiment, in the command of which he received a wound at Mansfield, which finally proved mortal.

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican, writing from Chicago, says: "This city is thoroughly loyal. In no town between this and the Atlantic coast have I heard such earnest commendation of the President, and such decidedly expressed determination to prosecute the war to a successful issue. The peace-on-any-terms party, who are so soon to meet here, will find but little sympathy."

As Louis Napoleon's health is said to be failing, European journals are speculating upon the probable consequences of his death. His only son is nine years old. There are two rival influences to contend for a regency; Count de Chambord, grandson of Charles X, declared in 1830, and Count de Paris, grandson of Louis Philippe, overthrown in 1849.

THE grave of Stonewall Jackson is described as a little mound, with a wooden head-board, and nothing to mark it from the common-save a pine flag-staff, upon which can't floating at daybreak the calico elevate the Confederate flag, and remove it at dark, each ceremony being accompanied by cheers from their band.

A Wail from Richmond.

Recent issues of Richmond papers take a gloomy view of the Rebel situation. The Examiner of the 22d says that "the days that are passing over our [their] heads are truly days of crisis and perhaps of peril." The action of GRANT and SHERMAN, and of our forces at Mobile and in Florida, alarms its editors greatly. In reviewing the prospects for peace at the hands of the North, it says: "One material Yankee success now, and that Peace party at the North which our soldiers have created, and now sustain, would sink overwhelmed, abashed, and silenced, under a renewed and universal shriek for war."

THE CHAMBERSBURG REPOSITORY reappeared on Wednesday after a suspension of several weeks, caused by the burning of the office at the time of the late Rebel visit to Chambersburg. The paper is somewhat reduced in dimensions.

What Will be Done at Chicago.

Editorial Correspondence of the Albany Eve. Journal.

WASHINGTON, August 22.

What will the Democrats do at Chicago? is a question which will become more pressing if not more important as the time approaches for the meeting of the Convention. The honor and future of that party was never presented with a finer opportunity of establishing itself upon the immovable basis of practical loyalty. And if leaders shall determine, it will be made or ensured. Suspicious patriots would take advantage of this opportunity, and secure to themselves a good name, the confidence of the people and the gratitude of the friends of free government throughout the world. Have those who will constitute this Convention this sagacity and patriotism? Some of them may have, but the indications now are that they will be overruled.

The Convention will be composed of three classes: First, those who are for an immediate armistice and a Convention of the States to form a new government. Second, those who are for an immediate peace, and any concession which the rebels may exact as an inducement to remain in the Union: and thirdly, those who are for peace if the Rebels will return to the Union on the precise footing they stood before the War.

The first class will follow Vallandigham and Wood. They are the "Peace" men, par excellence, or the Democratic party, and will constitute a leading party in the Convention. Indeed, it is claimed here that they will control the Convention and compel the adoption of their platform or a bolt. They will be eminently opposed by two classes, viz: By those too proud and too patriotic to succumb to rebel intrigues, and by those who are actuated by no higher motive than political expediency. To do what these desire will not only disgrace the North but inevitably destroy the Democratic party.

The second class are in close sympathy with the first, and will act with them if the issue is presented of: "peace on any terms," or "the whole Union or it was if we have to continue to fight for it." This class prefer "Union," and if they believed it could be had without further struggle, they would insist upon it. But they believe the South never will submit unless material advantages are conceded them; so they are for purchasing peace with the Union, conceding to the South all it ever claimed in regard to slavery and state rights.

The third class are War Democrats. And they are such. They too are for peace; but they are for the Union first; and will have the Union, if they have to fight for it. These men would be profusely liberal on all just sectional matters. They would open negotiations with the Rebels, professing the profoundest reverence and respect for them as old fellow-citizens and useful allies. They would promise forgiveness and forgetfulness of the past, republican confirmation, sermons at once the debt of both parties, denounce abolitionism and all affiliation with it, but insist upon the old Union, and the old Constitution, as expounded and received by the Democracy, North and South.

Humiliating as such a platform would be in its liberality, it will not be satisfactory to the ultra peace men of the Convention. They will oppose any terms or any proposition which involves the idea of compulsion. They wish, first, to stop the war, and secondly, to stop it in such a manner as to give assurance to the South that, in the end, they will get all they can desire.

The struggle in the Convention will be both protracted and bitter. Recent movements have made the Vallandigham wing of the party hopeful and insolent. The Democracy have been gradually drifting toward them—not intentionally, to the extent they suppose, but from their attitude of opponents to those who encountered with the prosecution of the war. The antagonism will develope itself when the discussion of peace and the terms of peace shall come up at Chicago. G. D.

Treatment of the Union Prisoners in Georgia.

A memorial from the Union prisoners at Andersonville, Georgia, has just been transmitted to President Lincoln, giving an account of their treatment in the rebel prison at that place, and their general condition. There are thirty-five thousand Union prisoners at Andersonville, confined in a field of about thirty acres. Upwards of thirty thousand are wholly without shelter, without shade, exposed to the sun all day and the dews all night, lying upon the earth without any other protection than the clothes on their backs. Upon entering prison every man is deprived of his money or other property. Hundreds are without pants and hundreds even without even drawers to cover their nakedness. Each man receives three-quarters of a pound of bread or meal and one eighth of a pound of meat per day. The meal is often smutted and sour, and the meat such as in the North is consigned to the scrapmaker. Such are the rations upon which Union soldiers are fed by the rebel authorities, and by which they are barely holding on to life. Contrast this with the treatment of the rebel soldiers confined in the North, comfortably clad, well sheltered, plentifully fed, and their general appearance of good health and physical comforts, and one may have some idea of the inexcusable and shameful barbarity exhibited towards our prisoners by the rebels. State trees cost nothing in the South; shade, clothing, and medicine do, and to keep men exposed in mid-summer to a burning, scorching sun, without any means of protection, is an act the Algerines would be ashamed of. The exposure and privations of the prisoners cost the lives of one hundred men per day, or more than the ravages of the yellow fever epidemic in the same amount of population. But all who die are an many taken from the Union armies, and those who, broken down constitutions, from this treatment, will be exchanged just as well for bold and hearty rebel prisoners when the exchange is resumed.

SPECIAL NOTICES

We have learned not to be astonished at anything. Years of experience and a correspondence extending throughout all nationalities of the habitable globe, have turned theories into facts and established a basis from which we need not err. We are no more surprised at such facts as the following—although the persons who write them are. We know the persons and circumstances, once feel a liberty to indorse their statements:

"NEW-BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 24, 1863.

"Dear Sir: I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, side and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicines failed to relieve me. While visiting some friends in New York who were using Plantation Bitters they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glassful after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the cold, numb and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep all night through, which I have not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters. Respectfully, JUDITH RUSSELL."

"BERKSHIRE, Wis., Sept. 16, 1863.

* * * I have been in the army hospital for fourteen months—speechless and nearly dead. As Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters. * * * Three bottles restored my speech and cured me. * * * C. A. FLAUTE."

The following is from the Manager of the Union Home School for the Children of Volunteers:

"PLAINFIELD, Conn., 57th Street, New York, August 2, 1863.

Dr. Drake: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs with most happy effect. One little girl in particular, with pains in her head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical skill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commenced with but a teaspoonful of Bitters a day. Her appetite and strength rapidly increased, and she is now well. Respectfully,

Mrs. O. M. DEVOE."

"Iowa much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

Rev. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N. Y.

* * * Then will send me two bottles more of the Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefited by their use. Thy friend,

ADE GUERIN, Philadelphia, Pa."

* * * I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me.

Rev. J. S. CAYTHORN, Rochester, N. Y."

* * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effect.

Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, O."

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of Liver Complaint, of which I was laid up prostrate, and had to abandon my business.

H. S. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, Ohio."

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.

C. O. MOORE, No. 254 Broadway."

&c., &c., &c.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are the greatest blood purifier ever. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras, Roots, Herbs, &c., all preserved in purified pure St. Croix Rum.

S. T.—1860—X.

Persons of sedentary habits, troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., desire to suffer if they will not try them.

They are recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, an harmless.

NOTICE.—Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk by the gallon is a swindler and imposter. It is put up only in our cable bottles. Beware of bottles refilled with imitation deleterious stuff, for which several persons already in prison. It is fast becoming the favorite remedy, sniffs and the cork counterfeited, and our signature on steel plate is also taken. Sold by respectable druggists and the habitable globe.

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR, Esq.,
au27:1m Bedford, Kings county, N. Y.

TO NERVOUS SUFFERERS OF BOTH SEXES.—A reverend gentleman having been restored to health in a few days, after undergoing all the usual routine and irregular expensive modes of treatment, without success, considers it his sacred duty to communicate to his afflicted fellow creatures the means of cure. Hence, on the receipt of an addressed envelope, he will send, free, a copy of the prescription used. Direct to Dr. JOHN M. DAGNALL, 154 Fulton street, New York.
