Meeting of the State Committee.

The Union State Central Committee, of which Hon. SIMON CAMERON is Chairman, is called to meet at Philadelphia to-morrow at four o'clock, p. m. We embrace the opportunity to urge upon all members of the Committee residing within the limits of our circulation the duty of being present at that meeting. The plan of the campaign will then be determined upon, and other matters of vital importance to the cause will be considered. Every part of the State should therefore be well represented, so that the fullest information of the exact political situation and wants of even the backwoods districts may be obtained.

As we have said before, "forewarned is forearmed," and we have had ample warning that our foes mean to beat us if they can. They are determined that they shall not fail of success because of lukewarmness or indifference, or inactivity. They are working like beavers, and are not discouraged by the most formidable difficulties. Their cause is bad, and they know it, yet they work away as if none were holier. We, on the contrary, have thus far been as meek as lambs or sucking doves. We have acted as if we did not intend to make a fight—as if, indeed, there was no fight in us. It is high time that this policy should cease. It is suicidal, cowardly, and, when the great issue is considered, it is criminal. Henceforth our policy should be action, action, action. And that this action may be methodical and productive of the best results, it is important that those who are intrusted with the management of the Union canvass should be fully awake to all the requirements of the situation.

We say again, therefore, that there should be a full meeting of the Committee at Philadelphia to-morrow evening. And let a vigorous, an intelligent and an enthusiastic campaign be there inaugurated. We hope that the State will be thoroughly "stumped," and that every voter will be furnished with printed reasons why he should vote the Union ticket.

The Proposed Armistice—What the Rebel Press say About it.

The delegates to the Chicago Convention seem to be unanimously in favor of an armistice with the Rebels. It is the burden of all the speeches thus far made. An armistice may be a plank in their platform. But it takes two to make a bargain. How can an armistice be made unless the rebels consent? What assurance can the Convention give the voters that an armistice can be effected, except on terms wholly unadmissable? Read the following on the subject from the leading Rebel organ:

THE ALLEGED ARMISTICE.

From the Richmond Examiner, Aug. 17

It seems to be nearly certain that a proposal will soon be made to us from some quarter, either from Lincoln or the Chicago Convention, to assent to an armistice, or simple cessation of hostilities, to allow of negotiations "for peace and reunion," and that alone A New York paper most urgently advises Lincoln himself to take the initiative in this, in order "to disarm and silence the demoralizing peace faction at the North;" because it shrewdly guesses that such armistice and negotiations would be refused. This is merely a move to take the wind out of the Democratic sail.

Whether Lincoln is to make such a proposal now, or whether the Democrats are to carry in their candidate expressly to be may make it—from whomsoever it may come, it is wholly unadmissable. If the North desires to have negotiations for reunion entered upon at all, let all her troops and blockading fleets be withdrawn and the right of a session formally acknowledged, and then negotiation would be at least possible. If they invite us to negotiate on any other footing, our only rational answer would be another blow at the heart of Pennsylvania. We are not likely to consider the question of reunion with a sword hanging by a hair over our heads; and if such a proposal be made, we shall only conclude that it means war, and endless war, until one nation or the other shall be subjugated or extirpated.

Pennsylvania and the Draft.

The New York Tribune credits the Pittsburgh GAZETTE with the statement that, up to the 22d inst., more than thirty thousand soldiers had been mustered into the National service under the new call, being more than half her entire quota. This statement did not appear in our paper, nor would it have been true at the time named if it had. But we take pleasure in informing the Tribune, and all others who feel an interest in the matter, that the statement is true to day. Pennsylvania's quota is about sixty thousand, and, judging from the best evidence in our possession, in the absence of definite information from Harrisburg, we are satisfied that more than half that number of volunteers has already been enlisted. In many parts of the State the utmost enthusiasm prevails, and every effort is being made to fill the quota with volunteers. This is especially the case in large towns and cities. The ten regiments authorized by the War Department will be filled. Philadelphia will almost fill her quota of nine thousand. The quota of the 22d and 23d districts, composed of Allegheny, Butler and Armstrong counties, is about five thousand two hundred, and from present indications these districts will send four thousand volunteers into the field. We hear of similar progress having been made in other districts. By next Saturday night we confidently expect that our State will be entitled to a credit of forty thousand volunteers under the last call of the President. What other State will have done better?

GRANT'S ARMY in front of Petersburg will soon be largely reinforced. It is stated that, for some time, reinforcements at the rate of 4,000 per week have been going forward to the Army of the Potomac, and for the next two or three weeks it is expected that 1,000 per day will be forwarded. Let LEE beware. He may recall EARLY from the Valley, and trust to the Copperheads of the North to resist the draft, but both resources will fail him. The force required to end the war victoriously for the Union will be on the way to GRANT before the draft takes place.

IT is rumored that General BUTLER is to be assigned to duty at New York, displacing General DIX. BUTLER is just the man to control the Rebel element of the city which holds so many of Gov. SEYMOUR'S "friends," who may be as troublesome in a week or two as they were in July, 1863. The country would feel some confidence that the draft would be enforced in New York if he were in command of that department. Let him be transferred, if GRANT can spare him.

The Late Gen. McPherson.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN GEN. GRANT AND THE GRANDMOTHER OF THE DECEASED.

The Fremont (Ohio) Sentinel publishes the following letters, which explain themselves:

CLYDE, Ohio, Aug. 3, 1864.

TO GEN. GRANT—Dear Sir:—I hope you will pardon me for troubling you with the perusal of these few lines from the trembling hand of the aged grandma of our beloved Gen. Jas. B. McPherson, who fell in battle. When it was announced at this funeral, from the public prints, that, when Gen. Grant heard of his death, he went into his tent and wept like a child, my heart went out in thanks to you for the interest you manifested in him while he was with you. I have watched his progress from infancy up. In childhood he was obedient and kind; in manhood interesting, noble and persevering, looking to the wants of others. Since he entered the war others can appreciate his worth more than I can. When it was announced to us by telegraph that our loved one had fallen, our hearts were almost rent asunder; but when we heard the Commander-in-Chief could weep with us, too, we felt, Sir, that you have been as a father to him, and this whole nation is mourning his early death. I wish to inform you that his remains were conducted by a kind guard to the very parlor where he spent a cheerful evening in 1861, with his widowed mother, two brothers, only sister and his aged grandma, who is trying to write. In the morning he took his leave at 6 o'clock, little dreaming he should fall by a ball from the enemy. His funeral services were attended in his mother's orchard, where his youthful feet had often pressed the soil to gather the falling fruit, and his remains are resting in the silent grave scarce half a mile from the place of his birth. His grave is on an eminence but a few rods from where the funeral services were attended, and near the grave of his father. The grave, no doubt, will be marked, so that passers-by will often pause to drop a tear over the dear departed. And now, dear friend, a few lines from you would be gratefully received by the afflicted friends. I pray that the God of battles may be with you, and go forth with your armies till rebellion shall cease, the Union be restored, and the old flag wave over our entire land.

With much respect, I remain your friend,
LYDIA SLOCUM.

Aged 87 years and 4 months

GEN. GRANT'S REPLY.

HEADQUARTERS ARMIES OF THE U. S.,
CITY POINT, Va., Aug. 10, 1864.

MRS. LYDIA SLOCUM—My Dear Madam:—Your very welcome letter of the 3d inst. has reached me. I am glad to know that the relatives of the lamented Maj Gen McPherson are aware of the more than friendship existing between him and myself. A nation grieves at the loss of one so dear to our nation's cause. It is a selfish grief, because the nation had more to expect from him than from almost any one living. I join in this selfish grief, and the grief of personal love for the departed. He formed for some time one of my military family. I knew him well. To know him was but to love him. It may be some consolation to you, his aged grandmother, to know that every officer and soldier who served under your grandson felt the highest reverence for his patriotism, his zeal, his great, almost unequaled ability, and all the manly virtues that can adorn a commander. Your bereavement is great, but cannot exceed mine.

Yours truly,
U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

From Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29, 1864, 2 P. M.

Editors Gazette:—The great Copperhead conclave meeting convened to-day at noon. As regards numbers it is very respectable, every hole and corner is, apparently, occupied, while the enthusiasm is unbounded. Among the prominent Cops present we notice ex-Gov. Wickliffe, Leslie Coombs and James Guthrie, of Ky.; A. C. Dodge and H. Clay Deane, of Iowa; Hons. H. M. Rice and G. L. Becker, of Minn.; Vallandigham, Cox, Pendleton, and old Bill Allen, of Ohio; the two Woods, Gov. Seymour, Jno. B. Haskin, J. C. Van Allen, of N. Y., and many others of lesser light.

The cry is for "peace, peace," from every direction, while this "cursed war" is bitterly cursed, and the Administration denounced in such terms as to make it impossible to tell whether the speakers are from Richmond or New York city.

The "wigwam," where the meeting is in session, is in the southeasterly part of the city. It is a round building, capable of holding 20,000 persons.

There seems to be a diversity of opinion as regards the unfortunate one to be selected (and of course beaten) by the "unterrified" as their nominee for the Presidency, but everything points to "Little Mac" as that individual. The Pennsylvania delegation, with Hon. G. W. Case, of your city, as Chairman, are struggling in favor of "Geo B." We noticed the "Keystone Club" bore with banners this morning, headed by a brass band, and on them inscribed, "Pennsylvania's choice for President—Major General George B. McClellan." While the opposition to his nomination is, comparatively, strong, there seems to be a disposition to yield to the majority, which is for "Little Mac."

Every Northern State is fully represented, while Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Texas send the full number of delegates. The opposition to "Little Mac" comes mostly from the Western States.

But little is said concerning the nominee for Vice President. Hons G. W. Cass, Geo. W. Pendleton, and James Guthrie are among the most prominent names mentioned.

The city is alive with bands of music and banners, and "the Cops" are doubtless feeling much better to-day than they will after the November election.

Wallace Bigham, J. Van Allen, of N. Y., and H. Clay Deane, of Iowa, hold forth from the balcony of the Sherman House this afternoon, expressing the most disloyal and treasonable sentiments that one could imagine.

The weather is fine and the Copperhead[illegible]. Much bad whisky is being destroyed. More anon.

Yours, &c. R.

Release of Farragut's Fleet—Value of the Ram Tennessee.

The surrender of Fort Morgan, at the entrance to Mobile Bay, gives us entire control of those waters to within a few miles of the city itself. Admiral Farragut's shot-riddled fleet is now free to act wherever it will best serve the interests of the government. A few small vessels can prevent the enemy from doing us any harm. The iron-clads can now be ordered to duty elsewhere. Admiral Farragut, by his splendid naval tactics and the capture of the Tennessee, has furnished our navy with the finest iron clad afloat—a vessel which withstood, comparatively uninjured, a fierce cannonading by ten times her number for over an hour, and but for the disarrangement of her steering gear, she might have fought for hours longer.

We have always favored casemate ironclads, and the naval fight in Mobile Bay confirms our oft expressed opinions. The Tennessee was reported ready for service under the Stars and Stripes, in a short time after her surrender. She has no turrets upon her to refuse to revolve, no delicate machinery to get out of order, and carries a battery capable of making an impression upon works of any description, and if the Navy Department is as all impressed with her value, it will not be long before we shall hear of her thundering at the gates of a rebel seaport city which has thus far denied admittance to our Monitor fleet. Our naval officers feel proud to think we have added to our navy list such a powerful and invulnerable craft; and we regret that, with all the money we have expended in building an iron-clad navy, we have not had the wisdom to construct some vessels like the Tennessee:
