Fall of Atlanta!

A dispatch from Louisville, last night, brings us the joyous intelligence of the fall of Atlanta. It states that Brigadier General EWING, commanding the Western District of Kentucky, had received a telegram from the front announcing that SHERMAN's advance had entered Atlanta at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. No further particulars.

McClellan and Slavery.

Having, a few days ago, given General McCLELLAN's record on arbitrary arrests and the draft, we turn now to his record on the slavery question. It is mainly contained in that celebrated Harrison's Landing letter, written on the 7th day of July, 1862, immediately after the completion of the disastrous "change of base" movement. The tone of the whole letter is impertinent in the extreme, as in it General McCLELLAN assumes to lecture the President upon his duty in regard to the civil as well as military aspects of the crisis—a crisis which General McCLELLAN had himself largely assisted to produce. But curses (for the latter contained curses, albeit they were sugar-coated), like chickens, come home to roost, and the words which General McCLELLAN wrote in 1862, in a fit of anger arising from disappointed ambition, will serve to weaken him now in the hoaxe of his friends. We quote only so much of the letter as contains the General's opinion of the mode necessary to be observed in dealing with the troublesome slavery question.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
CAMP NEAR HARRISON'S LANDING, Va.,
July 7, 1862.

* * * * * * *

Slaves contraband under act of Congress seeking military protection should receive it. The right of the Government to appropriate permanently to its own service, claims to slave labor should be asserted, and the right of the owner to compensation therefor should be recognized. The principle might be extended upon grounds of military necessity and security to ALL THE SLAVES WITHIN A PARTICULAR STATE, THE WORKING OF MASCHINERY in such State in Missouri, perhaps in Western Virginia, also, and possibly even in Maryland, the expediency of such a measure is only a question of time.

* * * * * * *

Very Respectfully,
Your Obedient Servant,
GEORGE B. MCLELLAN,
Major General Commanding.

Mark the fact that General McCLELLAN here distinctly asserts, months before even the preliminary proclamation of emancipation was issued, that the "right of the Government to appropriate permanently to its own service claims to slave labor should be asserted." He also recommends the emancipation of "all the slaves within a particular State," "upon grounds of military necessity." Now, we ask the fair-minded Democrat if ABRAHAM LINCOLN has done more with regard to the negro than General McCLELLAN recommended fully two years ago? He has armed able bodied slaves that they might fight for the Union. That was merely asserting "the right of the Government to appropriate permanently to its own service claims to slave labor" He has declared the slaves of certain rebellious States to be free. What is that but extending the principle of appropriating slave labor to "all the slaves within a particular State, thus working maximize-on in such State?" And all this has been done by ABRAHAM LINCOLN, as recommended by General McCLELLAN, "upon grounds of military necessity."

Two months after the Harrison's Landing letter was written, the President issued the preliminary proclamation of emancipation, and at once the whole Democratic party snuffed danger ahead. "State Rights" were about to be invaded; "niggers" were to swarm throughout the entire North; and the war was to be perverted into an "Abolition crusade." That party to day no wields argument more vigorously against the Administration than that which is afforded it by the arming of negroes and the freeing of the slaves of Rebels. And yet every act of President LINCOLN in relation not only to the slaves of Rebel but also of Loyal States, is endorsed by the terms of General McCLELLAN's letter, who is now the candidate for the Presidency of that same Democratic party. The author of the principal arbitrary arrest of the war, the first official to recommend a draft, and the advocate of negro emancipation—such is the candidate of the Democracy who are opposed to all these acts of "tyranny and usurpation!" Verily, if ever there was a party in this country that has compl'etely stultified itself, it is the Copperhead Peace party of 1864.

THE Post attempts to excuse General McCLELLAN for ordering the arrest of the Maryland Legislature, by charging the Administration with having "instructed" him to issue that order. This is the merest quibbling, and is worse than the text of the order itself shows. "After full consultation with the President, Secretaries of State, War, &c" the order begins. Who consulted with those officials? General McCLELLAN, who was the evidence that he was sent for to consult? General McCLELLAN himself effectually disposes of the Post's quibble. On the 29th of the same month in which he ordered the arrest of the Maryland traitors, (the order was dated the 12th) he sent the following dispatch;

To Mes. Gen. Banks:

Have you any more of our friends to send from Frederick to Annapolis? Please answer at once. I wish to know on account of ordering off boat. Maj. Gen. MCCLELLAN.

We expect to hear from the Post in a day or two to the effect that "LINCOLN" "instructed" the American NAPOLEON to write that dispatch.

GEN. WM H. KOONTZ, of Somerset, was on Monday nominated for Congress in the district composed of Somerset, Bedford, Fulton, Adams and Franklin counties. The district is at present represented by the Copperhead Corrector, who has been renominated by his party, and who was elected over Ex. McPHERSON in 1862 by a paltry majority of three hundred. KOONTZ is personally popular, and one of the best stumpers in the State. He ought to win by a handsome majority.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY said, an army of stags led by a lion is more formidable than an army of lions led by a stag. On the Peninsula, in 1862, a lion-hearted army of Union men was almost destroyed because their leader was a stag. At Chicago, in 1864, this leader is nominated for the Presidency—by an army of stags. According to SIDNEY, such an army with such a leader is not formidable at all.

A Pittsburgh Copperhead at Chicago.

On our first page this morning we give an abstract of a speech delivered during the sitting of the Chicago Convention by a certain Captain KOUNTZ of this city. Below we give a fuller report of that speech, which we take from the Chicago Tribune's report of the doings of the Convention:

"Captain Kounts, of Pittsburg, was next introduced, and, if anything, exceeded his predecessor in villainy. He denounced the present Government in unmeasured terms; in blasphemous terms damning Mr. Lincoln as a thief and a leader of thieves. Lincoln, continued the elegant orator, was now playedout, the opposition to him was going to be bold and powerful, there must be no underhand work, and if Democrats catch any of Lincoln's b—y satrap spies among them they must cut their d——d throats, that's all. [Applause.] It is the duty of every American to vote for a peace candidate. For seventy years the Democratic party safely guided the Ship of State through all dangers; but now, in less than three years, the shoddy despotism has deluged the country with blood, destroyed all national institutions, broken up the home circle, and changed the most glorious country under the sun into a garden of discord, where brother lifts up his hand to slay brother. [Applause.] Shall this state of affairs last? [No. No.] Shall more wives be made widows, and more children fatherless, and greater hate be sitred up between children of the same glorious constitution? If not, we must put our foot upon the tyrant's neck, and destroy it. The Democratic governmeat must be raised to power, and Lincoln, with his Cabinet of rogues, thieves and spies, be driven to des ruction. What shall we do with him? [A voice—"Send him here, and I'll make a coffin for him, d—n him.'] Yes, continued the speaker, d—n him and his miserable followers. I do not propose, continued Capt. Kountz, to give to you to night the platform of the Democratic party, for as yet it is unborn; but I should like to see the noble George B. McClellan as President (cheers) and that great Democrat, Horatio Seymour, should occupy the position of Secretary of State. In the Cabinet I would see the name of Voorhees and the brilliant galaxy of gentlemen statesmen who cluster round the Democratic banner. Such a government would bring peace to the country, and would tend greatly to render nugatory the evils of the present corrupt administration. What has Lincoln done for the poor man? [Applause.] Abolitionists say he has flooded the country with money and caused the scale of wages to be raised. P haps so; but all the money is in the pockets of his partners, the shoddy contractors, and the rates in wages is twenty times worse than nothing. Under the Democratic rule of purity, a man could purchase with his day's earnings eight pounds of good coffee. Under the present dynasty he wo.ks harder for a pound and a quarter. Then good sugar was five or six cents a pound, now it is forty or fifty. If such is the remedy, give us the disease. [Cheers.] True, Lincoln sells coffee by the bushel, a dollar or so a pck, but what but the depraved taste of an abolitionist can stomach it. They say it's good; but all I have to say then is, that the worst I can wish of Mr. Lincoln is that he may be poisoned with his own coffee. After going on in this strain for a short time the speaker concluded, and the meeting dispersed, with some really excellent music by a Boston band."

The Campaign in Indiana—The Dispute between Gov. Morton and Mr. McDonald—Specimens of Gov. Morton's Style.

Correspondence of the New York Times:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug 27, 1864.

As the debate now going on between Gov. MORTON, of Indiana, and his opponent in the canvass for Governor, has assumed a national interest and importance, I send you a "specimen brick" or two of the Governor's style. Speaking of the constitutional right of the President, in time of war, to issue any proclamation or appeal with intent to injure the enemy, he said:

"The reduction of the walls of Jericho by the blowing of rams' horns, was certainly a novel and unprecedented method of assault, yet I have never learned that any cavalier has denounced it as illegitimate or ungodly on that account. And if it were proper that Jericho should be reduced and conquered in that way, sparing the effusion of blood, should it be objected that the President of the United States has attempted, by proclaiming freedom to the slaves of rebels, to weaken the power of this rebellion, and thus aid in restoring peace, and stopping the effusion of the best blood in our land? It is, however, highly probable that if there had been Copperheads in the days of Joshua, they would have taken issue with them on the ram' horn question, and insisted that it was a violation of the Ten Commandments." Again, on the subject of a certain class of peace men: "These men, with a few mild phrases, profess their devotion to the Union, and their condemnation of the rebels and the rebellion, and rush on with an indecent haste to stigmatize, without qualification, their opponents as abolitionists. In their minds the whole duty of the Government is summed up in the protection of Slavery at all hazards, and under all circumstances. Unlike other institutions and other property, they are unwilling that Slavery shall run the chances of War However other interests may suffer, commerce be prostrated, horses and cattle, lands and goods be confiscated to pay the penalties of treason, Slavery must be insured against all violence, from all loss by the contingencies of war. To preserve Slavery he unless is to observe the Constitution in all its parts. To injure it in any respect is to infract the Constitution in every member." Once more on the matter of arrests: "These arrests have been made a pretext for a combined assault upon the government, while the multiplied executions and, in many cases, needless, unparalleled horrors of the rebellion are silently ignored. No tears for Union men languishing in southern dungeons as victims to horror at atrocities practised by the rebels in this war, fill the eyes of which the heartless of American savages and of Chinese warfare whiten and brighten. Men hung like dogs upon trees and sign posts; their bones shamefully denied sepulture; and worn as horrible ornaments!"

Gov. MORTON is a man of superior ability, of wonderful energy, adroit, vigilant, cool, and an admirable debater. He is earnest, resolute, honest, patriotic. The masses have confidence in him, and there is no reason to doubt his success over his opponent. His heart and soul are in the cause. I regard him as among the MEN who have loomed up in these times.

A PUBLIC MAN at this hour should be a living epistle known and read of all men. A patriot will not keep his light hid under a bushel, when the people need light so badly. It is not in a loyal politician to keep silent. He cannot refrain from crying out against treason. It is doing violence to his nature to be still while the wounds of his State and of the nation bleed at every pore. Professed Unionists who have not lifted their little finger to help the Union cause, but who embrace all opportunities to abuse the Government, encourage Copperhead sentiment and foment discord among the people, are the worst foes we have to encounter.

SHOCKING OCCURRENCE.—The Canton (O.) Repository, of this week, states that on Saturday morning last, Mr. John Shalmo, who was engaged in digging a well near Massillon, went into the well and was immediately smothered by the foul air with which it was impregnated. His son, who was assisting him, was immediately let down, and, shocking to relate, shared the same fate. The bodies of the father and son were drawn from the bottom of the well as soon as possible, but not until it was too late to render the slightest aid. Both were dead.

NEATNESS people know little of the terror of Confederate conscription. A Southern Unionist says he has seen a small farmer driven into one of the country towns of North Carolina with his wife and two children in his one-horse wagon, and be pulled out of it with scarcely a word by the conscripting officer, and hurried off to the conscripting camp with hardly a chance to say good bye to his family, who may never see him again.
