WILLIAM CLAWSON, CIT.

POOR DIRECTOR: Exchange of Prisoners. A voluminous correspondence on the subect of the exchange of prisoners, between adge Osup, on the part of the Rebel authoriiss, and Gen Burtus and Major John E. FORD, on that of the Government of the United States, has just been published, from which it appears that the former are now demirous of exchanging on the terms proposed by our Government eight months ago, to wit:

officer for officer, man for man." The only discoverable point now in dispute colored soldiers who had been slaves in the Confederain States. Gen. BUTLER contends that they are slaves no longer, and that the Government of the United States is bound in Monor and good faith to accord to them the same prefection that it throws around all

On the other hand, the Rebel authorities hold (although it is not insisted upon, or even minitosed, in the correspondence before us) that under the laws of the Confederate States, colored soldiers are released from the dreadful condition in which Rebel poverty and druelty have reduced them ? We have p'enty of rebal prisoners in our hands to exchange every one of our white and free colored prise oners, and still have enough left to offset every ex-slaye soldier in the hands of the enemy.

Under the circumstances, the taunt contsined in General Bailer's letter, that it was not humanity, but a desire to fill up the depleted rapks of the armies of the rebellion that moved the rebel authorities in making this protocal to:exchange, b-trays alike bad faste and inhumanity. Does General Butler wish the country to infer, that he would not give a stalwart rebel in exchange for one of our own poor fellows, who was equally stal-Wart when he went into the service, but who, through starvation and expense, has become too feeble and emanatel to be able to render further service? Or does which that place of property less in value than five thousand dollars in Confederate money, which is believed to the the price of an able-bod ed negro in the insurrectionary States.

Tracting that I may receive such a reply to the agustions proposed in this note as will lead to a speedy resumption of the negotiations for a full exchange of all prisoners, and a delivery of, them to their respective anthorities. I have the honer to be, very respectively, your obedient revent, Bass. F. Buyler,

Maj Gen. and Commusioner of Rachange.

Address of the Union State Central Committee. To the People of Pennsylvania; FELLow-Cirizzers:-The result of the recent election on the amendment to the Constitu-tion of the State, allowing soldiers in the field to vote, is gratifying, inasmuch as it shows is as to what disposition shall be made of that the great heart of the commonwealth is right, in the fearful, and bloody struggle going on to preserve the great republic, and that these brave men are worthy to help govern these brave men are worthy to help govern the country for which they make so many sacrifices and suffer so many privations.

The friends of the Union have brought about this result, while the opposition have used their powerful organization to prevent it with the evident object of weakening the Union armies by disfranchising the soldier, and thereby strengthening themselves at the approaching Presidential election; and in connection with this election let us reason to get er.

that, under the laws of the Confederate States, shares are property, and that property recaptured from an enemy in war reverts to its event, if he can be found that property recaptured from an enemy in war reverts to its event, if he can be found that he property recaptured from an enemy in war reverts to its event, if he can be found that he can be found that it is considered. The enemies of the context of suthorities justify the distinction they make between those soldiers and others.

The dispute therefore, is based upon principles which each party holds to be fundamentally opposite.

Were our government to yield its assent to this doorine or assumption, it would be an abandonment of the proclamation of emandipation of their hard for a government pation, a breach of faith towards those men whem it has made free and accepted as soldiers in its service, and a direct recognition of their hard for a government for the proinciple of property in man.

On the other hand, were thorebel authorities to recognize the rights of these fightes from the substantion of the parties to the Presidential contest gives to recognize the rights of these fightes from the substantion of the parties to the Presidential contest gives to recognize the rights of these fightes from the substantion of the parties to the presidential contest gives to recognize the rights of these fightes from the substantion of the parties to the presidential contest gives to recognize the rights of these fightes from the substantion of the parties to the presidential contest gives of any which can engage the attention of the parties to destroy it before it grows to recognize the rights of these fightes from the decided and to overthrow. The attitude of the parties to the Presidential contest gives to recognize the rights of these fightes from the decided as soldier, a recognizing of the property in band to recognize the rights of these fights are the whole fabric of allowery. They cannot do it and still preserve their darling institution. Nort for an hour ould the principle of property in human firsh be maintained were trey to recognize at the two parties, and also the two principles of freedom and clavery—a gordian kinot, which the substantial preserve their darling institution in the firsh property in the formation of the process of the firsh the substantial preserve their darl the decisis a. a. informal lutino less weighty, (because rejutanted and univarying,) of the ribid chiefa, that the Southwilf not trest for praces awe upon the basis of a recagnition of is independence. It will be very to show the futility of such hopes, if it has not already been done. It will no be addiffind task to show that such a belief doe not take root in conviction. The leaders of the opposition are men of great ability and more than ordinary eagenity. They cannot therefore, be ignorant of the facts which are of public record. Those facts calculatly preclude the possibility of prece and Union through any compromise, unless the terms in solve representation; and that would be disminish.

until obliged to do so by the sheer force of such iron circumstances as control the results of war.

There is no ground, then, for the hope of peace through compromise; no hope of permanent peace. There is no such discharge in this war. Those who go before the country upon such vicious pretexta, are not decived themselves! however much they may deceive the ignorant and unsuspecting. To charge self-deception upon them in a matter so unmistake by clear, would be equivalent to charging them with imbecility. They do not deceive themselves! The pretext of secting the defeat of Mr. Lincoln that peace may return to our borders covers a sinister purpose. If they wish peace they can have it but in two ways—in a cowardly abandonment of the etruggle, followed by disunton, or by a more vigorous (if possible) prosenution of the war.

Thus the true issue upon which the compaign is to be made becomes sharply defined. None can depresate the horrors of war or desire the return of peace more than do the warmest, supported of the National Union nomines. But they sat for and will acquicton in no peace that is not founded upon the integrity of the Union and established upon the placiples of the Boolaration of Ind-pondeaca. They recognize greater evils than war, such as this is in which the nation is plunged. Divide the nation grographically, and to what end do we inevitably gravitate? With the precedent and justice of secession established, who can preaume to say this we shall not repeat the hundilating history of Mexico and the S. uth American Siates? United the common danger was, and would continue to be, our common security. Divide, the land would groan with the wreaking out of individual vengeauce. Divided, the torch and beand would groan with the wreaking out of individual vengeauce. Divided, the torch and beand would groan with the wreaking out of individual vengeauce. Divided, the torch and beand would more less to be dreaded than an amed peace.

As an example, a little more than a wear since, when Lee, with his rebefariny, as med peace.

As an example, a little more than a yer rairce, when Lee, with his rebel army, invaded P. nnsylvania, and when the fate of the Repu'llio was decided by the battle of Gettyre burg, how prompt welted and designing men were to inaugurate the insurrection in New York city, trusting in the hope that the Government was not able to maintain the curpremacy of the Constitution and the laws. It will be long before the blackness of the orimes committed by that conspirary will be obliterated.

As another example, take the recent conspiracy discovered in the northwest—the banding together in secret of a large number of men, the concentration of thirty thousand stand of arms and affarge supply of ammultion. The repers of the of men, the concentration of thirty thousand stand of arms and allarge supply of ammunition. The papers of this conspiracy which were seized, evidencing too clearly that their design was, and is, the overthrow of the Republic, trusting that division and anarchy would shield them from harm, but in utter disregard of the concomitant wrongs to the people—murder, robbiery, aron—in a word, desolation for the time.
