THE NATIONAL ADDRESS.—We call attention to the excellent address of the National Committee on our first page. Read it. It is short, but clear and to the point.

Who Commenced the War?

GEN. MCCLELLAN, in his letter of acceptance, writes: "The preservation of the Union was the so'e avowed object for which the war was commenced."

We have always been under the impression that the war was commenced by the Rebels and it is marvellous if they commenced it with the sole avowed object of preserving the Union. The Copperhead candidate clearly appears to think that the government of the United States and the administration of Mr. LINCOLN began the war; whereas all the world knows that the cotton planters began it, and their "avowed object" was, according to the general belief, not to preserve but to destroy the Union. Not only did they begin the war, but not less than thirteen separate and distinct acts of war were committed by them before the inauguration of Mr. LINCOLN. We reccommend the following list to Gen. McCLELLAN'S attention:

December 27, 1860.—Capture of Fort Moultrie and Castle Pinckney by South Carolina troops. The revenue cutter Aiken was also captured.

January 3, 1861.—Capture of Fort Pulaski by the Savannah troops.

January 5.—The arsenal at Mount Vernon, Alabama, with $9,000 stand of arms, seized by the Alabama troops.

January 4.—Fore Morgan, in Mobile Bay, taken by the Alabama troops.

January 9.—The steamship Star of the West fired into and driven off by the South Carolina batteries on Morris Island.

January 10.—Forts Jackson, St. Philips, and Pike, near New Orleans, captured by the Louisiana troops.

January 14.—Capture of Pensacola navy yard, and Forts Barrancas and McRae.

January 12.—Capture of Baton Rouge arsenal by Louisiana troops.

January 31.—New Orleans Mint and Custom House seized.

February 2.—Seizure of Little Rock arsenal by Arkansas troops.

February 4.—Capture of the revenue cutter Cass by the Alabama authorities.

February 18.—Colonel Waite, U. S. A., and Gen. Antonio command the Colonel Ben McCulloch and his Texan rangers.

March 2.—The revenue cutter Dodge seized by the Texan authorities.

Gen. M'CLELLAN must have a very convenient memory if he can forget these things; and the American people may well distrust the capacity of a candidate who, through defective memory, or from some other cause, makes such a frightful blunder in the formal letter of acceptance as to lay the blame of beginning a costly and bloody war upon the government of the country, instead of upon the enemies of the Union who did begin it. It is the commonest sang of the pop-house orators of the Copperheads, that LINCOLN began the war; does M'CLELLAN mean to degrade himself to their level by taking up their lying strain, or is he really so ignorant as not to know the plain facts that have grown into undisputed history?

How to Secure Peace.

The young statesman of singularly mature mind" tells us what ought to be done to secure peace. In his letter of acceptance he says:

"So soon as it is clear and even probable that our rebel adversaries are ready for peace, upon the basis of the Union, we should exhaust all the resources of statesmanship practised by civil societations, and taught by the traditions of the American people, consistent with the honor and interests of the country, to secure such peace, re-establish the Union, and guaranty for the future the constitutional rights of every state."

As soon as it is clear that the Rebels desire peace, it will need no statesmanship to receive that result. They have it all in their own hands. If they desire peace, they can have it to-morrow by simply laying down their arms and submitting to the government. If the forces under LEE and HOOD will only disband and return to their homes, there will be peace at once. They have only to stop fighting and go home, and so long as they respect the laws, honor the flag, and violate no provision of the constitution, the supreme law of the land, they will live—as they did before the war—in quiet and prosperity.

What need of exhausting all the resources of statesmanship" to bring about a result which, if the Rebels "desire." if they can bring about so easily without the least display of statesmanship?

The truth is, that neither you nor I, nor the democrats themselves, can tell whether they have a peace platform or a war platform; a peace ticket or a war ticket. Perhaps it may be explained in this way; that it is either one or the other, or both, or neither; but upon the whole, it is both peace and war, that is, peace with the rebels and war against their own government. It seems to have been thought necessary that Pendleton should be put on to balance McClellan, and McClellan to balance Pendleton. I know nothing at all that is like it, unless it may be the character of the fruit that is sold by an old lady who sits at the door of the Court House in Cincinnati. She is a shrewd old woman. A young sprig of a lawyer stepped up one day and said to her: 'You seem to have some fine apples. Are they sweet or sour?' The old lady tried to take the measure of her customer, and find out whether his taste was for sweet or sour apples. 'Why, sir,' said she, 'they are rather acid; a sort of low tart; inclined to be very sweet.' Thus when we come to their leader after this, and inquire whether that platform is for peace or for war, he will be compelled to say it is rather acid—a sort of low tart, inclined to be very sweet. It is neither peace nor war, and yet both—such a mixture as is intended to make it palatable as possible to democratic tastes all around, without turning the stomach of any of them. [Applause.] And if you believe that a compound of that kind is possible, why then in God's name, shut your eyes and swallow it But if you don't, I cannot understand how you and your leader, or any one, is going to be satisfied with the position in which you are placed?"

GEN. MCCLELLAN, in his famous letter to the President, says:

"In this contest, it has become necessary to crush a population sufficiently numerous, intelligent, and warlike, to constitute a nation. We have not only to defeat their armed and organised forces in the field, but to display such an overwhelming strength as will convince all our antagonists, especially those of the governing aristocratic class, the utter impossibility of resistance."

So far, so good. The above passage will be found on page 107 of Hillard's Life of M'Clellan. But on page 236 the same eminent civilian says of our great contest:

"It should not be a war looking to the subjugation of the people of any State, in any event."

We confess our inability to reconcile these two passages. One of them is (in substance) Gen McClellan's letter of acceptance; the other is the Chicago Platform. We know which of them Pendleton stands on; but who can tell us where to put McClellan?—N. Y. Trib

The Unanimity of the Chicago Convention.

The Copperhead papers boast of the unanimity of the Chicago Convention in making its platform and its nominations. It is just that unanimity which damns it most; for every element of treason, sedition, disloyalty, revolutionism, and scoundrelism in the country, was represented in it. The rebels of Kentucky, Missouri and Maryland had delegations in it. The traitors of Ohio and Indiana, who welcomed John Morgan, were represented in it. The traitors of Pennsylvania, who welcomed and guided Lee in his invasion, were represented in it. The insurgents and assassins of Coles county and Edgar county, in Illinois, were represented in it. The Sons of Liberty and the Knights of the Golden Circle were represented in it. Vallandigham, the Fernando Wood, and Powell, and Wickliffe, and Harris, and Long, and Pendleton, and Voorhees, and Olds, and Tom. Seymour, and Bradbury, and all the leading secessionists of the North, were among its members. It is the damning fact of the Convention that it was capable of unanimity with these traitorous and villainous elements.—Buffalo Express.

The Breach in the Democratic Party.

The M'Clellan letter of acceptance has effected a terrible breach in the ranks of the Democratic party in this city and State. The out-and-out Peace men swear they would now as soon vote for Lincoln as M'Clellan. Col. Bogy, we hear, has been summoned to meet Vallandigham and other Peace men at Columbus, Ohio, and left this city on Sunday last to hold the conference. Christian Kribben—another apostle of the "Peace which passeth all understanding," and one of the Democratic electors of this State—has declared that unless there is some explanation of that letter, satisfactory to the Peace wing of the party, he and his friends will fly the track In the trunk and fire this revolt is open and violent.—St Louis Dem

THE CROPS IN CANADA.—The Montreal Gazette publishes detailed reports of the condition of the crops in Canada from which it appears that the very unfavorable anticipations formed in the course of last month are likely to be realized; and that the yield throughout the country is greater than commonly believed. In many parts of Lower Canada, the crops are unusually good. The dry term seems to have affected the yield of the West far more than of the East. In the upper province the crops are, on the whole, below the average, while in many parts of the lower province they are above. Coarse grain appears to have yielded pretty largely in both sections, fully coming up to the usual product. Tea root crops are below average.

THE PRESIDENCY.—Thus far, elections have been held in the States of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Oregon, Vermont, and Maine, each of which has been carried by the Union party by an aggregate increase on the majority of the preceding year. The four former voted before the two latter since, the rival nominations for President; but the result does not seem to have been affected by that circumstance. We may, with great confidence, assume, therefore—reasoning from absolute data—that the elections of this year will substantially reiterate the popular convictions expressed in 1863, with the probable exception of Kentucky.—N. Y. Tribune.

A WAR CANDIDATE WITH NO DANGER OF COERCION.—The Enquirer of yesterday at last concludes to accept M'Clellan's acceptance of the nomination. It says he stands on the Chicago platform, so far as it goes, but he has added another plank to place himself. That plank is coercion by arms in case negotiation fails to effect peace and Union. The Enquirer says it don't believe in coercion in any event, but it will not quarrel with M'Clellan about it, for it does not apprehend any danger that the rebels will be coerced if M'Clellan is elected. Our opinion exactly.—Cincinnati Gazette.

THE Democrats, says an exchange, used to berate the Whig party so unmercifully about the pernicious tendency of nominating successful generals to the Chief Magistracy of the nation, that to show their own sincerity they were compelled, on the first fitting occasion, to nominate an unsuccessful general.

We are assured by gentlemen who have travelled extensively through the State during the past few weeks, that the corn crop of Illinois will this year exceed that of any previous year. The corn is now also nearly beyond danger from early frosts, and the crop will not only be a very largeone, but of an unusually good quality.

THE Free Military School in Philadelphia is closed for want of funds. It has sent four hundred and sixty three students to Washington, all of whom have passed the Examining Board, three of them as colonels, seven as lieutenant-colonels, fifteen as majors.

LIGHT BREAKING.—One of our Democratic exchanges, speaking a few days ago of the cheering prospects of the Chicagoites, declared that "light was breaking in the East, even in New England." True enough; and the news from Maine betokens a "dead broke" Democracy.

A CANADIAN newspaper, referring to the influx of sneaks from the States who cross into Canada to escape the draft, says: "They are coming, Father Abraham, five hundred thousand more, but unfortunately for you and for us, they are coming the wrong way."

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Post, writing from Chicago, says that Gen. Singleton avers that the night before McClellan's nomination five and twenty thousand dollar checks were as thick as blackberries.

THERE are twelve newspapers in West Virginia, all of which support Lincoln and Johnson. There is not an opposition print in the State.

NOW AND THEN.—At the Chicago Convention the Democratic party was a party of peace. Now it is a party of pieces.—Phil. News.

"A Low Tart, Inclined to be Very Sweet."

General Schenck descri es the Chicago platform in a speech at Hamilton, Ohio, on Saturday, as follows:

"The truth is, that neither you nor I, nor the democrats themselves, can tell whether they have a peace platform or a war platform; a peace ticket or a war ticket. Perhaps it may be explained in this way; that it is either one or the other, or both, or neither; but upon the whole, it is both peace and war, that is, peace with the rebels and war against their own government.
