

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 17, 1864.

NATIONAL UNION NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT:

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, of Illinois.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:

ANDREW JOHNSON, of Tennessee.

UNION COUNTY TICKET.

FORGERS—22 DISTRICT.

JAMES E. MORRISON, Auditor.

THOMAS WILLIAMS, Allegheny.

THOMAS J. SHEA, Lower St. Clair.

JOHN P. GLASS, City.

R. L. COVINGTON, Beaver.

HANS R. HERZON, McKeesport.

GEORGE H. HICKER, North Fayette.

ARCHIBALD FILLION, Indiana.

FREDERICK JACOB.

WILLIAM CLAYTON, City.

POOR DIRECTOR:

H. E. DAVIS, Beaver.

Now and Then.

If any one will look back four years, and call to mind who were scaling out us, that year, and their present position, he will see that those who then battled nobly against us now for us, will we have fifth reason the Confederates have for their safety notwithstanding carrying the State.

Lincoln carried this State in 1860 by nearly 60,000 majority. How many of those who helped to swell that vast majority will now vote against him? Look around you and compare your neighborhood, and have been to the polls. There are some. We do not know where they are. There are always a few change going on from one side to the other, and the power is always in danger of losing those whom expectations may have been disappointed; but we never know at what time the difficulties as now to note such changed opinion.

On the other hand, consider the large number of those who voted Douglas in 1860, who are now for Lincoln. We do not attempt to comment here by laying their names into print, but they can be counted by scores on every hand. We may, however, in this small town in this country, Hon. P. C. Sargent, Dr. A. H. Gross, Dr. Geo. McCloskey, Dr. O'Neil, Dr. B. Bishop, Roberts, Esq., Asbury Moulton, Esq., and so on, alreadly with our side.

And also throughout the State. There are W. M. Hinsdale, who was Governor Pierce's Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Hon. J. C. Knox, His Attorney General.

Thomas Cunningham, Esq., of Beaver.

Dr. Wm. W. Morrison, and Gen. R. C. Morris.

C. H. H. Miller, of McKeesport.

Gen. D. S. Duxbury, of Philadelphia—but we must stop. Our Coopershead friends, etc., may cry out in alarm—"What will the like stretch out the crack of down?"

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.

It is by their country; and their efforts will be followed throughout the land.

Every exponent of McClellan was against us in 1860; while thousands of whom who opined him, are against him now.

Enough to know that the adhesion of such men—and their names are known throughout the State—shows clearly that a long and determined effort is to be made to hamper him—the leader of the Confederates.