Thanksgiving Day.

In accordance with the proclamation of the President, to-day will be observed throughout the land as a day of general Thanksgiving; and circumstances indicate that it will be much better and more heartily observed than any similar day in previous years.

For almost every one feels, just now, like giving thanks, and is glad of the opportunity of publicly doing so. The nation has passed through a season of peril, and it is meet that it should be grateful for its escape from threatened danger; The war has progressed favorably, and is evidently drawing to a close; victory has crowned our arms and cheered the hearts of the people; the harvest has been abundant and the nation prosperous; and all together, there has not been a time since the war broke out when all could so cordially join as now in devout thanksgiving and praise to the God of nations, who has blessed us so abundantly.

There is a hearty Anglo Saxon smack about the name of THANKS-GIVING day; and the observance of such day is an institution that comes to us from those old liberty-loving, God-fearing Puritans, who laid so strongly and firmly the foundation of civil liberty in this country. It comes to us from a good source, then; and in perpetuating its observance in the right spirit, we are contributing efficient aid to the permanence of the noble principles which actuated its founders.

Sherman's Movements.

At the latest accounts General SHERMAN was approaching Macon. On the 19th (last Saturday) he was within thirty miles of that city. Milledgeville, the capital of Georgia, is only about 25 or 30 miles north-east of Macon. Andersonville, where so many Union prisoners have been confined since last spring, is but a mere railroad station, some 40 miles south of Macon. It is believed that there are very few, if any, prisoners there now.

Augusta, the largest depot of military stores in rebeldom, is situated on the Savannah river, which is the dividing line between Georgia and South Carolina. It is about 120 miles north east from Macon.

But from the fact that Sherman has taken Macon in his way, we think it is probable that he intends to secure Savannah, and establish a permanent base at or near Hilton Head. The railroad between Savannah and Charleston crosses Broad River, which empties into the ocean at Hilton Head.

That point secured, he is safe, and may operate at his leisure against Augusta, Charleston and other places in the centre of rebeldom.

There are many things which indicate that the State authorities of Georgia are not very much opposed to Sherman's invasion. The inconsiderable but not unfriendly correspondence between Mr. STEPHENS and Gen. SHERMAN, some weeks ago, indicates it; and still more do the bitter strictures of the Richmond press upon Governor BROWN, accusing him of disaffection towards the Confederacy, warrant the same surmise. The leading spirits of Georgia are not so crazy as those of South Carolina, nor so savagely desperate as those of Virginia. They were, to be sure, willing enough to secede and rebel when they supposed that they could do so successfully; but now, when they see that the Confederacy is an abortion, they will be glad enough to find any reasonable pretext for quitting fossil from it. Moreover, the Georgians feel that they have been badly treated; for nearly all their fighting men have been conscripted and dragged away to defend Richmond, while their own borders have been left almost defenceless. Wherefore we think Georgia will be easily conquered, and it is not very improbable that there is a secret understanding between Gen. SHERMAN and Gov. BROWN. But be this as it may, it is now out of the power of JEFF. DAVIS to maintain his authority in that State. If the authorities of the State refuse to obey the authority of the Richmond concern, and yield to that of the United States without a struggle, so much the better for themselves and for their people; but if not, Gen. SHERMAN is abundantly able, to compel them to do so; for they have no force with which to oppose his victorious march, and the Richmond authorities have none to spare. Should they attempt to impede his progress by destroying bridges and felling timber, as the Richmond editors exhort them to do, so much the worse for themselves; for a great and exasperated army, compelled to stop to build bridges and clear roads, would desolate and lay waste a vast breadth of territory.

We are not without hope that the Georgia authorities will gather up and deliver over to General SHERMAN all the Union prisoners within the borders of that State. Of course, they will not permit a government, whose authority they repudiate, to make their State a prison house. We think General SHERMAN ought to require this at their hands, and that he will do so.

The Freedmen

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Freedmen's Aid Association last night was a gratifying proof of the interest taken by the people of this State in the alleviation of the colored race in the South. What has been done for the improvement of the Freedmen is astonishing. The transformation of thousands of embruted slaves into self-supporting, money-saving, educated, and progressive men and women, has been effected in less than two years in the sea islands of South Carolina, almost entirely by their influence from bondage. The schools and churches established have been but subordinate agencies; the opportunity has been given to the black man, and he has used it. We agree with Mr Reuben Tomlinson, one of the speakers at the meeting, that the problem of reconstruction of the Union, upon a basis of entire freedom, is not to be solved without the education of the freedmen. Education in its highest sense—presupposing schools, labor, possession of land, and responsibility—once begun can never be stopped; and the race, once educated, can never be kept in slavery. —Editorial of the Press, Nov. 22.

In a few days a similar meeting will be held in this city, which will be addressed by Rev. PHILLIPS BROOKS, who is said to be a man of rare eloquence, by WM F. MITCHELL, Superintendent of Freedman's School in Tennessee and North Alabama, and by Rev. J. MILLER M'KIM, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Relief Association. Notice of the time and place will be given in the next issue of the GAZETTE.

As the subject of the amendment of the of the Constitution of the United States is now claiming much thought, and eliciting much discussion, we print the 5th article of the Constitution, which provides for its own amendment:

"The congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to the Constitution, or, on application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing amendments, which in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by Conventions in t ree-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress."

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of a visit in our sanctum yesterday from our young friend, J. H. YOUNG, Esq., Editor-in-chief of the Philadelphia Press, who has been making a tour for the last two weeks through the oil regions of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

General Grant in New York.

(From the New York Herald of Tuesday.)

The complimentary serenade to Governor Fenton at the Astor House on Saturday evening last, as reported to the Herald of Sunday, was a most interesting and enthusiastic affair.

It soon became known in the hotel that Lieutenant General Grant had arrived in the city and taken his quarters at the Astor House. Great anxiety was expressed by those present to see the General in Chief of the Armies of the United States, and as the news spread from lip to lip the crowd increased in proportion.

The serenade took place in the large dining saloon of the hotel, which was decorated in fine style in honor of the occasion. At the farther end of the room from the entrance, and just in the rear of the reporters' tables, a dias was erected, on which two chairs were placed. Before the Governor elect made his appearance one of the Lieutenant General's aids came to the reporters, and stated that it was the desire of General Grant that no mention should be made through the newspapers of his presence in the city, for reasons of his own. To gratify a great number of gentlemen who had expressed their desire to see the General he would accompany the Governor elect into the room and hear the music of the band. The aid added that if the press desired to mention that Gen. Grant had been in the city they could do so on Tuesday (this) morning.

At about eleven o'clock the band arrived and marched into the room playing the popular air of "Rally Round the Flag." In a few minutes after Governor Fenton and General Grant entered and preceded to the dias already mentioned. The gentleman's company, which completely filled the room, at once broke out into loud cheers for Grant. These were repeated over and over again. The enthusiasm was immense. The Lieutenant General having seated himself beside the Governor elect, General Sickles made a speech, and was followed by Governor Fenton.

Loud calls were then made for Gen. Grant, but he did not seem disposed to speak. The people, however, shouted all the more for him. At length he had a quiet conference with some of the gentlemen present, when it was received that General Sickles should address him.

Subjoined is the report of his remarks:

Gentleman—Lieutenant General Grant desires me to thank you for this enthusiastic welcome. He cannot postpone until a future occasion the pleasure of calling you, yielding, as he does, to a reserve imposed by his official responsibilities, the propriety of which you will appreciate. You will agree, I am sure, that if any man can afford to be silent it is General Grant; his deeds speak for him—deeds more eloquent than the words of any orator. [Applause.]

The "sovereigns" then, being desirous of getting a good look at the chief, proposed that he should rise. This the Gen immediately did, and bowed three or four times to all parts of the audience. Hereupon there were new cheers for Grant—three times three, and three more.

Shortly after General Sickles's speech, responding for General Grant, the Lieutenant General arose and retired.

The only visit the General made on Sunday was to the family of Colonel W. S. Hillyer, one of his old staff. Soon after taking his seat in one of the Fourth Avenue cars a lady got in who was unable to obtain a seat. The General immediately rose and gave her his, while a dozen gallant New Yorkers sat stolidly in theirs.

While at the residence of Colonel Hillyer it became known that the Lieutenant-General of the Armies of the United States was there, and quite a throng of neighboring citizens paid their respects in person. He returned to the Astor in a close carriage at half past two o'clock.

The Lieutenant General, we learn, also made a visit to Lieutenant-General Winfield Scott. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Van Vliet. The two Lieutenant-Generals of the United States armies had a short but most interesting conference. When General Grant was about to take his departure, Gen. Scott arose, took a copy of his autobiography, which he has just published, and wrote on the fly leaf:

From the oldest to the ablest General in the world. WINFIELD SCOTT.

This he presented to Lieutenant-General Grant. No comment is needed on such a compliment.

Yesterday morning Gen. Grant breakfasted in a quiet manner with Colonel Hillyer, at his residence in Fifteenth street.

The Lieutenant General left for the front at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Proclamation of Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Oct 22, 1864.

By the President of the United States of America.

PROCLAMATION.

It has pleased Almighty God to prolong our national life another year, defending us with His guardian care against unfriendly designs from abroad, and vouchsafing for our humble piety and rigid self-reliance signal victories over the enemy who is still our own household. It has also pleased our Heavenly Father to favor us with our usual health, to bless the labors of our husbandmen in their homes as our soldiers in the camps, and our sailors on the rivers and seas with unusual health. He has largely augmented our population by emigration, and by immigration, while he has opened to us new sources of wealth and has crowned the labor of our workingmen in every department of industry with abundant reward. Moreover, he has been pleased to animate and inspire our minds and hearts with fortitude, courage, and resolution sufficient for the great trial of civil war into which we have been brought by our adherence as a nation to the cause of freedom and humanity; and to afford to us reasonable hopes of ultimate and happy deliverance from all our dangers and difficulties.

Now, therefore, I Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart the last Thursday in November next, as a day which I desire to be observed by all my fellow-citizens, wherever they may then be, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God, the beneficent Creator and Ruler of the universe; and I do further recommend to my fellow citizens aforesaid, that on said occasion they do reverently humble themselves in the dust, and from thence offer up penitent and fervent prayer and supplications to the Great Disposer of events for the return of the inestimable blessings of peace, union, and harmony throughout the land, which it has pleased Him to assign as a dwelling place for ourselves and our posterity throughout all generations.

In testimony thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this 3d day of October, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty ninth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President:
WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

"The Haschish Eaters."

A terrible affair has just come to light in Paris, which is causing a great deal of sensation. A celebrated physician, desirous of ascertaining and minutely recording the effects of the "haschish," or Indian hemp, upon the human mind, induced three young men to look themselves up in a room with him, and partake of it. The servants were all sent away, but after waiting twenty-four hours, and the inmates not coming forth, the doors were demolished, when a horrible sight presented itself within.

On the floor lay the doctor, insensible, and bleeding profusely from a wound in his head. One of the young men was extended beside him groaning in agony, his left arm and leg both broken by the fall of the chandelier, which by some extraordinary accident, had slipped from its chain, and lay scattered in fragments all over the carpet. Another of the experimentalizers was seated on the floor, close beside the doctor, grasping one of the brass candelabras from the mantel-piece, with which it was evident the victim had been wounded—he was found to have become a raving maniac, while the third was lying quietly beneath the table—in a stupor, from which no medical skill has yet been able to arouse him.

The doctor, whose wound is not serious, and whose insensibility proceeded from the loss of blood, gives a vague, confused account of the scene as yet. The revelations made in the pages of his pocket-book, are said to be extraordinary, and to have caused the greatest excitement among the medical men of Paris.

THE rebels have advertised for sale Monticello, the home of Jefferson, and Rock Island, formerly belonging to President Monroe, as the property of alien enemies of the Confederacy. Monticello was given by the will of the late Captain Levy to the United States for a home for the widows and orphans of seamen.

☞ GEN. SHERMAN is described by a Captain "as a man who has a gaunt look—about as if he got hungry when a boy, and never got over it. A nervous man, never quiet, pulling his whiskers or buttoning his coat, or twisting a string, or rubbing a finger—never quiet, but with a kind look in his face that reminds one of a panther, if he gets angry, fiery, keen, powerful, and a genius.

[From the New York Evening Post.]

At Last Our Native Land is Free!

BY HORACE P. STURAT.

Land where the exiled pilgrim came,
across the stormy sea,
This day we sing thy lasting fame,
The anthem of the free!
This day our banner is unfurled
Without one blot or stain.
And proudly floats across the world,
And rules the rolling main!

Again the strife that goes the deep
Shall flash with purer glory,
Than e'er they lit the rocky steep
Of Plymouth long ago!
Once more the dark old woods that fling
Their arms within the blast,
And with the wreath and tempest sing
Our triumph o'er the past.

Our land is free! free as the air
That sweeps her mountain height;
Fair as the gems that stud the stars,
Upon the brow of night!
And who is the day God's rosy blush
Finds rock and river o'er,
Or bathes them in his farewell flush,
'Tis Freedom's evermore!

Aye o'er hill and dale and flood
A mighty voice hath spoke,
That this broad land, twice won in blood,
No tyrant foot shall tread!
No fetter'd race shall toil for me,
Crushed to the galling dust;
No proud lash flashed shall sway
The people's sacred trust!

Bright banner of the starry fold,
Today the sky is won!
And shades of error back and rolled
Lie prone before the sun!
The day God sent the fair old flag,
And shook the tyrants throne
And to the new reign pass o'er things
The right to rule alone!

EASTERN AND WESTERN ABOLITIONISM.—When our Democratic friends are inclined to talk about fanaticism and abolitionism in New England, we trust that they may be so fair to that portion of our country as to recollect that the West has outstripped her in that respect. We think that there are no six Western States that have not given a larger "abolition" majority of the popular vote for President than New England has. Such are the States that Governor Seymour and his factious confederates attempted to hound into secession.

WM. MCKEE, D. FAWCETT, (Pres.)
J. H. LYDAY, Capt. JAS. GORDON,
Capt. J. P. SMITH.
Capt. J. P. SMITH, Superintendent.

This Company owns the property known as the Mingo Coal Works," together with the "Stevens farm" adjoining, and containing in all about 700 acres. The property is situated on the west bank of the Ohio, opposite Steubenville, about seven miles from that city, and is the "third pool," on which are located the miners' dwelling houses, store houses, shops &c., together with a railway running to the river with suitable abutment and all necessary arrangements for shipping coal.

The mines are already opened, drained and ventilated and in good working order, with entries driven, and rooms turned, and all necessary facilities for working eighty to one hundred men, and the coal is well known to be one of the very best quality. The "Mingo" is believed to be one of the most valuable coal properties in the Monongahela Valley.

The Company now proposes to increase their facilities for mining by the construction of an additional railway, and have set apart $50,000 in cash for the purpose of making the requisite improvements and providing a working capital for the new organization.

With facilities which the Company will possess, the Directors confidently believe that the "Mingo" will prove to be one of the most substantial and remunerative stocks in the country.
