There is considerable inquiry for Mingo Coal Stock and some three hundred shares were sold on Saturday at 16. The stock, we are informed, is now held at an advance of 17½.

Thurston's Exchange was again crowded last evening, and, while there was a fair amount of business transacted, the sales, as compared with Friday and Saturday evenings, show a slight falling off. A good deal of stock was offered, but the operations were restricted somewhat by the difference between the views and feelings of buyers and sellers. The following are the particulars of the operations:

A correspondent writing from Attica, New York, under date of November 22d, says:

Great excitement has reached this place, on the discovery of petroleum near Yorkshire Cattaraugus county, about 20 miles from this town. Two wells are now going down on what is known as the Morgan farm, joined to the Cattaraugus Oil Company of New York. This farm and some 6,000 acres are owned by L O & C Scott, of New York. Large tracts of land have been taken up by New York, Philadelphia and Oil Creek parties, who are now engaged in putting down wells. The oil is of a very superior quality, and the prospect for a large supply are very good.

On the 10th instant the bank of England reduced its rate of discount from nine to eight per cent; money was more abundant, no considerable failures had been reported, and the price of consols, which on the 18th October was 87¾, has risen 2a3¼ per cent.

The menacing gloom of the past few weeks seems to have almost disappeared. Not, however, until four joint-stock banks had failed, and a large number of business houses in London and Lancashire had become bankrupt, some of them for unusually large amounts. Even the failure of one of the most important banks had not yielded more than 10 cents on the dollar, and the aggregate of the liabilities being reported at from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

The European financial difficulties, though abated, are not yet over, but they have far less interest to the United States than would have been the case under ordinary circumstances, since we have our own nations nothing. If they want gold to buy cotton they must pay the gold first. It cannot be obtained here by calling in outstanding credits, because those credits have mostly ceased to exist. A dollar now will not "hold" twice, because it cannot be more freely exported, because more goods must be given for it; but gold is an article that we have to sell. The Government, (says the Philadelphia Ledger) has thought fit to dispense with its use as a currency, and there remains only to get the most for it. Its departure would be a relief, if the Government parted to appreciate if the quality of person did not exceed the quantity. When we refuse the Government reverses its policy and restores the constitutional currency, we shall be compelled to buy back the gold at a dearer rate. That is, we shall have to give much more greenbacks for gold than we gave new sterling for the identical gold. Take one item from the imports. We are giving $42 per barrel for Rosin that are immediately sold for 30 cents. We shall have to give forty barrels of Rosin to get back the gold we now give for one barrel.

The following extract is from an excellent article in the last number of the Philadelphia Commercial List, entitled "Flowing Petroleum Wells and their Brief Career":

Within a few weeks it has been ascertained that some of the most noted flowing wells in the country have ceased, or diminished their spontaneous contributions, and great is the effect upon the stocks of the companies which own them. The "Keystone Well No 4," upon Oil Creek and Egbert Farm," is announced as having stopped its flow. The "Maple Shade Well," from a supply of eight hundred barrels a day, has diminished to some thirty barrels daily. The "Duquesne Well," recently bubbling forth at the rate of twelve hundred barrels daily, has now come down to five hundred barrels. The stock of the "Noble & Delamater Oil Company has recently declined from $18 to 6 per share, in consequence of a report of the giving out of the famous flowing well, which has given it so much celebrity. Other flowing wells have ceased, and the pump is now the only wise appliance. These are facts in oil history which is of consequence to "operators" dealing in oil stocks to know, and it may have the effect to temper his rashness, and cause him to look before he leaps into all investments.

With the immense stimulation given to this production by the demand for oil for business purposes, the excitement, the cupidity, the formation of many new companies, and the consequent development of new fields, it is not unlikely that the yield of oil for 1864 will exceed that of 1863, in proportion equal to the efforts which have been made to secure the vast increase. It is estimated, upon good authority, that the present production of the oil region will not exceed 4,000 barrels a day; of which Oil Creek yields one half, and the rest of the Allegheny region about 1,000. From Virginia the estimate of production is made for 1,000 barrels daily. This would give an average of 5,000 barrels a day, or about 2,000,000 barrels or crude petroleum. Assuming, however, that the yield of 1865 will be reduced to 1,500,000 barrels, or 4,000 barrels a day, and 2,000,000 barrels, or $1,500,000 gallons of refined oil. The exports up to November 1st were 38,000,000 gallons, being an increase over the same length of time in 1863, when the export was 24,000,000 gallons. If we estimate that the trade export will reach 40,000,000 gallons, there would be but 21,500,000 gallons left for home consumption. The demand from this country ought to be greater, and it is probable, therefore, that these estimates are under rather over than the actual production.

Some Facts About Whisky.

(From the Cincinnati Gazette, Nov. 26.)

Officers connected with the internal revenue department, are now collecting information in regard to the stock of whisky in the country, we suppose, to furnish the Secretary of the Treasury some basis for recommendations in his forthcoming annual report. The mode adopted is to make personal inquiries of holders. This information, when collected, will be valuable, and reliable. Parties called upon will report according to their interests, and try to make the stocks appear small or large, as may be their object. Inferences will be drawn from this information. The statistics of the trade of Cincinnati, probably, will throw some light on this question, and will, therefore, afford a basis. The annual sales of the stock on hand more reliable than what is called an actual count. As bobbins into these figures, we find the imports and exports at this port, from July 1st to Nov. 24th, in the last two years, were as follows:

Imports.		Exports.
gals 39,428	69,291	77,264	46,766

It is there seen that there has been a falling off in the exports this year, since July 1st, of 30,700 bbls, or nearly one-fifth this year, and a falling off in imports of 30,137 barrels. It is also seen that the exports since July 1st exceed the imports only 5408 barrels, while in the same time last year, the exports exceeded the imports by the small amount of 1036 barrels. The manufacture of whisky ceased on the 1st of July, consequently the imports since that time are so much drawn from the stock in the interior. The stock now in the city is the same as was the 1st of July, 1863, after sales, and the annual consumption within the city since that time. The seller or dealer is that the present stock in the West is equal to about four months' consumption. The great bulk of the stocks are now concentrated in Cincinnati and Chicago. If these should be no change in the tax law, and manufacturers do not, prior to the 1st of the February tax, the impression is that distillers will be started about the 1st of April. Previous to that time government will realize but little from the tax on whisky, unless a duty should be laid on stocks on hand. This will hardly be attempted. But for the wrangling about this matter last winter the revenue from whisky would have been largely increased. There is no doubt but that if the duty on whisky would be increased to 60 per gallon, and that this would be adopted immediately on the reassembling of Congress. Men of experience, however, believe that 50 is full enough, and that the revenue at this rate would be more than 30 per gallon to the government. The temptation offered by high duties to smuggle and sell swindlers. Heavy change is made; it should be, toward lower duties, but the better way is to let the tax stand until the productive capacity can be tested. This will prove the government's friend in the end. The accumulated stocks will be pretty well worked out by the 1st of April.

Hogs at Burlington, Iowa.

From the Hawkeye, 24th.

Hogs are coming forward in unprecedented numbers. A railroad man informed us yesterday that one hundred car loads were in Fort Madison that could be sent forward. We are sorry to see so many hogs coming in so early in the season. At the present price corn is worth more to feed to hogs than for any other purpose by twenty-five per cent at least. Farmers who have corn ought by all means to feed it. The crop in the lower tier of counties is no doubt short. But in this vicinity and the interior of the State the crop is fine. It will pay better to feed it to hogs than can in any other way we are aware of. It is worth $1,50 per bu to feed it, to hogs—not more than $1,00 for any other purpose. Pork may go down, but probably not. The pork packers are well posted and know what they are about. They are not giving, probably, more than they can afford. It is, therefore, good policy to feed heavily and sell late in the season.

Pork Packing in Des Moines, Iowa.

[From the Des Moines Register.]

The pork season has made a magnificent commencement in Des Moines. Droves of splendid hogs are coming in daily, all of which are grabbed up at stiff prices by Murphy & Co, Hollins & Winter, and other packers. We shall report more at length on this subject hereafter. We were told yesterday that buyers are paying $7,50 per hundred on foot. All this bodes case the farmers will have a deluge of greenbacks pouring into their coffers. Within the last three years, dressed pork has sold in this city as low as $1,50 a hundred.

DAILY REVIEW OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

MONDAY, Nov. 28, 1864.

There was a fair business done to-day, taking everything into consideration, although there is still plenty of room for improvement. The receipts of Flour, Grain and produce generally, are increasing, but with a good home demand, the general markets rule steady, and, with but few exceptions, prices are firm and fully sustained.

GRAIN—There is but very little Wheat offering from first hands, and, in the absence of sales, we continue to quote at $2 for Red, and $2,10 for White. Sale of 200 bush Red from store at $2,00; and 2 cars do at same figure. Oats carce, in good local demand and higher; sale of 3 cars, to arrive, at 82; 500 bush, on wharf, at 90; and small sales from store at 92a93. MILL FEED—Is in better demand and prices are looking up. Sale of 1 car Bran and Shipstuffs, at $1,50 for the former, and $1,70 for the latter; 2 cars Seconds at $2,10; and 1 car Middlings at $2,60.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Is in fair demand, but unchanged. We continue to quote at $4,50a4,75 per cwt, from first hands, and $5,50 for small lots from store.

CRANBERRIES—Selling at $24 per bbl.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

MONDAY, Nov 28.

The market for Crude in the early part of the day was dull and weak, and some holders to effect sales, seemed disposed to make concessions. As soon however, as dispatches came in from New York reporting Gold at 220, there was a better feeling among holders, and the market was firmer, although the demand was limited and the supply comparatively large. Prices, as compared with Saturday, show some irregularity, although on the whole, there was but little change, and we continue to give the ruling rates at 26c, bbls returned, and 40c, bbls included. Sale of 100 bbls at 35c; 100 at 29; 19 at 40; and 230 "Franklin Oil" (26 gravity) at 27, bbls returned. For Refined, in bond, there appears to be quite a demand, and we note sales of 100 bbls, straw color, at 72; 50 do prime white, at 81; and 100 do do at 82½. In Naphtha or Benidum there is nothing whatever doing, and prices remain substantially as last quoted.

The receipts of Crude by the Allegheny river since our last report, are as follows:

Fisher & Bro	170	Hitchler & Baxter	400
Ashworth & Benn	370	McKelvy, Miller & Co	44
J W Wilkins	220	O Reymer	191

NEW YORK, Nov. 28, 1864.

There is a slight improvement in the demand, and the market is firm with sales on the spot at 47. For Refined, in bond, the market is very firm, and holders, generally, are asking higher rates; sales on the spot at 63. Free Oil is steady with a fair demand at 81¾. Naphtha is firm with a moderate demand at 62, for Refined, free.

NEW YORK STOCK AND MONEY MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA STOCK MARKET.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 28.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE NEW YORK PETROLEUM MARKET.

Reported for the Pittsburgh Gazette.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26, 1864.

Petroleum has been in unusually small request during the past week, and the sales have been lighter than for any consecutive six days for many months. But holders have nevertheless exhibited a wonderful degree of firmness, and the market has for the most part been very buoyant—in consequence of the greatly diminished supplies, (especially of Crude) and the continued light receipts. Several of the Refiners are threatening to close their Establishments, as soon as it appears probable that they will be constrained to pay a higher price for Crude, as the long navigation in the oil regions becomes better before long; at present it is represented as very difficult. Certain it is that nearly all the oil goes to Erie, Pittsburgh and the Western Refineries very little finding its way here in the Crude State.

The sales of Crude oil for the week foot up about 7000 barrels—all told, nearly all at 46a47c on the spot, and 47a48 for next month. The market closed dull but firm at 47.

Of Refined in bond the sales are about 6000 bbls principally at from 67 to 68c—also some 15,000 gals in tin at 68a69c. The market closed dull at 67.

Of free the sales are confined to 2000 bbls at 86 to 87½—closing dull at 87.

Of Naphtha the sales are confined to 600 barrels at 60c, for Refined, 63a65 gravity, free, 22c in bond and 26 for Crude.

New York Dry Goods Trade.

(From the Commercial List, Nov. 26.)

The market has ruled quiet during the past week and prices are nominally unchanged, though a shade off from 250 to about 225, and the fall of cotton to about 81,90 per pound has created a downward tendency previously mentioned, but holders are not pressed for sales; any concession with stocks run lower than are seldom known, and the general probability of augmentation. The idea which was given out a week or two ago, that new sources of cotton supply were to be closed by the government had the effect to render the market for cotton goods less buoyant, but the impression is certainly one under the delay and uncertainty of success attending the undertaking. Very little business has been done during the past week, either over the counter or under the hammer. At the auction sales the bidding was quite very spirited, and prices were in some cases unsatisfactory. At the Assistant Treasurer & Co's sale of cloths, cassimeres and vestings, (on Monday last) the attendance was small and the bidding tame. Long lines were peremptorily sold at very close rates, in most cases, were disposed of. Broken lots, of course, brought full prices. Union flannels, 16c; superb diagonal cassimeres, 85; black Mackows, 62,65; black Chinchillas, 87,95; satin goods last week, sold for $2,35; Alix; Chapelle Chinchillas, $4,87½; fine Exquimaux beavers, $6,87½a $7 a $8; $9,75. Since the same goods brought $4 and upwards. Fine all wool flannels were sold at 55,57½; heavy black Belgian castors were sold at 80. The following small lot was sold for cash: Oxford jeans, 40,42½; Kentucky jeans, 38,40; Waterford jeans, 45; Highland plaid Linseys, 25. At Providence the cotton printing cloths ruled quiet, with a little better feeling, but the clothiers have bought no goods yet. When they come to buy their spring supply goods must advance. The following are the sales for the week: 1200 pieces, 56,58; 1000 pieces, 64,68, 28c; 4000 pieces, 64,66, 27½. Total 6000 pieces.

RIVER INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVALS.	DEPARTURES.
Fisher, Graham, Gaines'v	Minerva, Wheeling
Columbia, St Louis	Hartman, Cincinnati
	Echo, Oil City
	Advance, Oil City

The river was about at a stand last evening with full seven feet in the channel by the pier marks. A rise is looked for to-day, however, as the recent rains appear to have been general, and a dispatch received from Oil City, yesterday reported a good rise there. At that point with twenty-eight inches in the channel.

The weather is damp and cloudy, and pedestrianism is anything but a pleasant occupation.

The Argonaut, Capt McCarty hauled up to the wharf yesterday, and is now receiving for St Louis and intermediate ports. As she has already engaged about half of her tons of government freight, she will positively leave this evening. Shippers and passengers will please take particular notice.

The Pilgrim was to have left St Louis for this port on Saturday last.

The Armenia, Capt McCallum was announced to leave St Louis for Pittsburgh, on Monday or Tuesday of this week.

The Key left the Allegheny wharf last evening for Oil City with a fair trip of freight and passengers. The Advance also left for the same point.

The Emma Graham arrived yesterday from Zanesville with a fair trip, she will return again this evening at 4 o'clock.

Yesterday was blue Monday, but notwithstanding this fact, a pretty fair business was done at the wharf. The boats unofficially state that the seating no doubt checks operations somewhat, but we think that if it should clear up, there would be a visible increase in business.

Among the many of our steamboat friends now in the city, we notice the familiar face of Captain Wm B Donaldson, and Mr Walter Scott of the handsome steamer Spray. Whenever we see their faces, we feel pretty sure that a new boat will soon make its appearance, and we learn upon inquiry that they are building a splendid side-wheel boat at Freedom, which will be out shortly.

The Anna, Capt J H Marratta, has been overhauled, repaired and painted, and is now ready to receive freight for Cincinnati and Louisville. She will leave this evening or to-morrow morning.

We learn from the Evansville Journal that on Tuesday night, the Katie, bound from Evansville to Nashville, when entering the chute at Diamond Island, met the Des Moines, from Memphis to Louisville with some 400 soldiers of the 7th Pennsylvania cavalry on board. The Des Moines blew her whistle for the larboard shore. The Katie answered the signal by two distinct whistles, and kept on her way.

Capt McConnell hearing the signal, stepped out on the guards and saw the Des Moines steering up shore. Not imagining any difficulty, he went below and hastily got on the lower deck when he heard the pilot's signal to stop the Katie. He ran forward and saw the Des Moines coming square across her starboard bow, and had only time to reach the boiler deck when the boats struck, the Des Moines hitting the Katie on her starboard bow, at the after shock, cutting her down below the waterline and in to the capstan.

Capt McConnell seeing that the Katie would instantly sink, rushed above to rescue his wife and lady passengers.

The Katie signalled for assistance, and the Des Moines ran alongside and towed her to within one hundred yards of the island, when she listed over so much as not to allow the water in the boiler or pilot house, setting the fires out. The fire was speedily extinguished, and the boat settled down by the bows, and sunk in fifteen feet water, the after half of her cabin being visible.

The pilot of the Katie, Geo McEllen, stood to his post until the boat was fairly sinking, believing the boat was about to capsize, he left the wheel and jumped overboard, making his way to shore.

The officers and crew of the Katie, leaving with the passengers, transferred to the Des Moines, except one colored deck hand, who was lost.

The Katie had on board 125 head of Government cattle, only nine of which escaped.

The Katie lies in deep water, and can be raised.

Captain Conrad of the Des Moines, made a statement to the effect that the Katie did not answer the Des Moines' whistle, and that she ran into the Des Moines, sinking herself.

The Katie will be raised at Pittsburgh as soon as the necessary preparations can be made, and will be ready for service in a few weeks.
