BRAVE WORDS. Hon. W. D. KELLEY, in his speech of construction, delivered in the House few days since, took strong ground in favor of enfranchising the negroes in the reconstructed States. We append an extract from it. There is no answer to the arguments he presents, except those dictated by cruel and wicked prejudices:

Let us meet the question fairly. Do our natitutions rest on complexional differences nautations rest on complexional differences? Can we cement and perpetunic them by autrendering the patriots of the insurgent district, shorn of all political power, into the hands of the traitors whom we propose to proplitate by such a sacrifice of faith and honor? Did God ordain our country for a single race of men? Is there reason why the intelligent, wealthy. loyal men of color single race of men? Is there reason why the intelligent, wealthy, loyal men of color shall stand apart, abased, on election day, while his ignorant, intemperate, gicious, and dialoyal white heighbor participates in making laws for his government? What is the logic that denies to a son the right to vote with or against his father, because it has pleased Heaven that he should partake more largely of his mother's than of that father's complexion? And is it not known to all of us that well-nigh forty per cent. of smore largely of his mother's than of that father's complexion? And is is not known to all of us that well-nigh forty per cent of the colered people of the South are children of white father, who, after we subjugate them, will with professions of loyalty only lip deep, enjoy the right of suffrage in the reconstructed States? Shall he, though black as change to life skin, who, by patient industry, obedience to the laws, and unvarying good habits, has accumulated property on which he cheerfully pays taxes, be denied the right of a voice in the government of a State to whose support and welfare he thus contributes, while the dide reckless, thriftless man of fairer complexion, shall two south who has periled life, and mayhap lost a limb, who has endured the changers of the march, the camp, and the bivouse in defense of our Constitution and laws, be denied their protection, while the traitors in the conquest of whom he assisted, enjoy those rights, and use them as instruments for his oppression and degradation? Shall he who, in the language of my amendment, may be able to read the Constitution of the United States, and who finds his pleasure in the study of history and political philosophy, whose integrity is undoubted, whose mems are ample, be voiceless in the councils of the nation, and read only to learn that the people of free and enlightened America, among whom his lot has been cast, sustain the only Government which unitales a race because God In His lightened America, among whom his lot has been east, sustain the only Government which punishes a race because God in His providence gave it a complexion which its unhappy members would not have accepted had it been submitted th their choice or volition? And can he who will answer these questions affirmatively believe that Governments are instituted among men to secure their rights, that they derive their powers from the consent of the governed and that

The recent escape of three newspaper cor-respondents from Rebel prisons two of them belonging to the New York Armune and one to the Cincinnati Gazette-reminds us of the different treatment accorded by the Rebels to correspondents of Copperient papers, when captured by them. They have several times captured reporters be-longing to the New York Herold and other Copporticad papers, but slways promptly released them . whilst those comm

Numerous efforts have been made to secure the exchange of the correspondents whose exchange of the correspondents whose excaps we have mentioned, but always with out avail; the rebels estreming the tarture of Republican correspondents; loo rate a privilege to forego. These fellows oridently know their friends; and they always send back a Heald correspondent as premptly as they do the bounty jumpers who desort to them for the purpose of being returned north.

The Philadelphians are agitated, jus now, on the subject of colored persons rid-ing in the street cars. The better portion of the community prefer that no distinction be made on account of color; but the rowdles, the men who, as Mr. B. H. Brewster said at a public meeting held on the subject, cat one and drink bad whisky, want them excluded because they are offensive! It is a matter of some astonishment that such a clives strongly attached to free principles as Philadelphia is should so long have adhered to this cruel prescription. In this city colored persons ride in the cars the same as r people, and no one thinks of attempting to exclude them. APPOLUTE electrical perfection is claimed for the Atlantic cable now being manufactured The amount completed up to the 30th of Do-cember was 750 miles. The cable is being man-sized ared at the rate of eighty miles a work, and will be finished by the end of the first work, in June. Two tanks on board the Great Rastorn are prepared for stowing away, the cable.

of Ordnance of the Navy Department. The extracts are as follows:

Boston, 13th Jan., 1805.

I have yours of the 8th. I am just recovering from a very severe attack of illness, which has kept me in bed most of the time, since Monday.

On Monday morning I was at the Court Room 2½ hours testifying. I then went to Fancull Ital, which was cold, and till my turn cames I sat in a draft of air. When I had got through, though I spoke but ½ an hour, my hands and feet were ice and my lungs on fire. In this agreeable condition. I had to go and pass 3 hours in the Court Room. This flaished me. I came home, sent for Hayward, and went regularly to work. I hardly left my bed next day. *

I have barely weathered an attack of pneumonia, which is an old-fashioned lung fever. Hayward comes twice a day. I have turned the corner, and as soon as I getaffittle appetite, and shake off my catifing cough, and get the kidneys to resumation, and subdue the numbness of my limbs, and get the better of a sharp neuralgic pain in the left shoulder, I, hope to do nicely. Everett behaves very well in the somewhat abnormal condition of the household. His new sled, the Kearsarge, behaves as well as its assessance. The Arago has got back to New York, so that I think we shall get news from Sid. to-night. Best love to husband and bables.

Captain Wise received this letter on Sunday morning, and was reading to his wife the words which we have taken the liberty xtracts are as follows:

Captain Wise received this letter on Sunday morning, and was reading to his wife the words which we have taken the liberty to italicise, when a dispatch was placed in his hands announcing Mr. Everett's death. "Everett" alluded to at the close of the letter, is Edward Everett Wise, son of Captain Wise, ten years of age, who was visiting his grandfather at the time of his death. "Bid," also alluded to, is Mr. Everett's oldest son, about thirty years of age, a Major in the volunteer service, and now at Beaufort, S. C., serving upon the staff of General Baxton. The first sad intelligence of his father's death will reach him in a dispatch forwarded yesterday by Acting Socretary of War Dana, granting him an immediate leave of absence.

Impregable Forts.

The experiences of this wonderful war of ours are such as to awaken i rquiry as to whether there are any fortifications in existence that can be successfully defended against a combined attack by land and water. Fort Fisher, which has just been captured, is one of scores of carefully built rebel forts that have not been able to withstand the guns and the valor of the Union forces. The only forts that we have not captured when seriously attempting it, are those where the army and navy could not combine in the attack. The works around Richmond and Petersburg can only be approached by land forces, and Fort Sumter only by the navy, and these have thus far resisted us successfully.

Fort Fisher was the most extensive of the works built on the coast by the rebels. Impreguable Forts.

Fort Fisher was the most extensive of the works built on the coast by the rebels. It stretched completely across Federal Point, a distance of about four hundred yards. It was constructed in the most scientific manner, and was armed with from fifty to excent of the best and largest guns that the enemy could procure. Its garrison was as large as could be desired, and it was regarded by the rebels as impreganable, especially since the late abortive attempt to take it made by General Butler. But a well directed pattack, with the army and fleet coperating harmonously, and both directed from the consent of the governou, and has it is the duty of a people, when any Government becomes destructive of their rights, to alter or abolish it, and establish a new Government! Sir, our hope for peace, while we attempt to govern two fifths of the people of one half of our country in vio. operating harmoniously, and both directed by able and valorous commanders, reduced it in one day. After this glorious success, it may be easely said that there is not a for tification in the world that can w. ustand a skillfully conducted attack of the joint land and mival forces of the United States.— Philadelphia Julietin.

A Mr. James Claffy, late of Rochester, N. Y., by will, left property valued at $10,000 to Bishop: Timon, of the Roman Catrolic Church; in trust for the benefit of St. Mary's Hospital and other Roman Catholic Institutions. The Bishop brought suit to recover possession of the property, and a long littigation followed, resulting in: the defeas of the Bishop's claim. catch followed, resulting in the deleas of the Bishop's claim.

The jury, on issues of face, answered that the will was destroyed on the night of shedeath by firs. Claffy, at the request of here husband. Such a request for its destruction, were not attraction, and its destruction, were not made in the presence of any one except Mr. Claffy, and his wife; that it was destroyed in the life time of the testator, and not franchiently, and that the circumstances under which said will was made and executed, together with the relative in Bhooks and Stherck.—During the exciting debate in the House yesterday, Mr. Jarkes Brooks, in reply to some taunt of Schöfield's, professed great anxiety to go Fouth. Or course they wouldn't lot hun, for even Montgomery Blair and his father couldn't go, but if they only would it would to the delight of his life to show the soothing effects of the olive branch he would carry upon the rampant rebellion.

While he was dwelling with such unction upon his desire to go South, Gen. Schenck ret' the Republican side of the House in a tear by exclaiming quite audibly, "If you'd keenin my department, you wouldn't have had any trouble about getting South." Presently a little epigram was circulating about among the lazy groups of members who were enduring Brooks' speech. I wouldn't say that Gen. Schenck wrote it, but whoever did, could forge his handwriting admirably.

Brooks mourns because he cannot get a 'ness,' Since to 'make peace' is deeply his concern; Ye'd send him couth with pleasure, but, alval "Fis fear'd he'd claim permission 'to return."

The following editorial notice appeared in the Retimonal Biopatch of the 14th inst.:

"The insuling letter of Mr. Soward, refusing to receive the amount raised at a fair in England for the benefit of the Confederate prisoners, and distinctly imputing to the English the crime of being the authors of all the troubles in America, is received by the London Tunes with commendable meckness. Not a spark of resentment or spirit lights up the singgish comments on that remarkable document. The British lion is padesignation which can hereafter be only ironicably applied to Great Britain. The king of because is not in the babit of being bearded in his den with impunity. The patient as would be a more appropriate embiem of a Government which bears anything that can be put upon it, and greatly prefers provender to battle.

There was a time when the sword of England would have leaped from its scabbard at the slightest of the provocations, now immumerable, which it has received from the United States. But that day has passed. Its chivalry has fallen into the sero and yellow leaf. Its people are as brave and manly as ever, but the spirit of trade and money-getting has deadened the sentiment of honor, and the canker of a long peace has eaten out the pith and vitailty of milliary pride. Ever alize the downfall of the Tory party, and the predominance in the national councils of the commercial interest, national chivalry has been dead in England. The Tories, with all their faults and errors, were the true representatives of the British Lion. The king of beasts disappeared with them. It is not possible that he is still in his old cage, when Brother Jonathan can poke the longest kind of a pole into it every day without eliciting a single roar.

We agree for once with W. H. Seward, when he says thas England is responsible for the present a continuous of the country to which all Americans were in the habit of loaking for lessons in civilization and morals.
