RELIGNOUS INTELLIGENCE. The Pre-laterion of last week contains an editorial on "Congregationalism and Inde-pendency," which deals come heavy blows at the preputarities practised under cover of Congregationalisis, at which some of the strongest advarates if this species of independency are becoming alarmed. Hower. or unoble cifcitable some features of the system maybe, yet, with all the scening guards to H, the tendency is towards an indepentiency of the most alarming and objectionable kind. Reference is made to the admissions of prominent ministers of Congregational churches in England. Rev. Henry Allen, of London; in his opening address before the British Congregational Union at its late meeting, enumerates among the Upractical defection of Congregationalism an alarming "tendency ito inflividualism"-breeding cousentions in churches, and bringing many to wish for some "ccclesistical nower to co.

erco or to punish." The late John Angell James, one of the great lights of Independ-ency in England, within his exaited view of Independency, as it existent in his day, "would have infused a squeeze or two of ] Prest yterianism into his ideal church." The Presbyttrian thinks the same tendencies are perceptible in the Congregational churches in this country. The Congregationalist asseris that New England parties are "poison: ing Congregationalism with their Presbyterian views," and the Recorder of the same city (Beston) says that, for its part, it would 'al out as lief have Presbyterianism as bold Inderendency." Churches snap their fingers at ordinary councils, when the advice given docs not suit them ; an !, as in the late case. in Pottland, engage ministers to serve as acting rastors where a council refused to instal because of heretical continents very candlely arowed. This is out of the natunal fruits of Independency. Hopes however, are entertained that the National Council to be held next June, will correct the loose irresponsible way of doing things heretofore. Considerable attention is then given to what is termed, "Presbytarianized Congregationalism," growing out of the alliance in some interests of labor -It was estimated in 1801 that 200,000 persons of adult years, in Maryland, were reached by the ministry, out of a population of 700,000. -According to statistics of Romanism n Britain, in 1864 there were 21 bishops, 1,560 other priests, 1,132 churches and chapels, 58 religious houses of mon, 201 convents, and 12 colleges, being an increase since 1850 of 21 bishops, 562 priests, 449 churches and chapels, 41 religious houses of mcn, 148 convents, and I college.

-The Kirk Session's irnanimous opinion in favor of standing during the singing, and kneeling at prayer, in public worship, was read in the Canougate church, Edinburgh, on a recent Sunday. Both ministers on Madison avenue, Ballimore, was dedicated Sunday the 29th of January. Rev. ohn Chambers, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Henry Slicer, D.D., officiating on the occasion. This church has been built by persons who withdrew from the M. E. church on account of the anti-davery and loyal osition it assumed. Is Rev. John Chambers in sympathy with their Independency or dis'oyalty? Dr. Slicer is said to be a ocrat, or at test not very partic-Fence Deni ular about the question of what constitutes.
