ANFAIRS AT CUMBERLAND. The negligence at Cumberland, through which the rebels were enabled to penetrate into the town and capture two United States Generals, was exceedingly disgraceful t those officers; and as they permitted it there is but little reason to regret that they have been the principal victims.

. Such a surprise could not have been pos sible if the place had been properly guarded. Cumberland is military head quarters for the department of West Virginia; and besides being an important position on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the fact that it was head-quarters of an important military department, should have prompted the ut most vigilance in guarding it. A few pickets, which were kept out more for form's sake than for safety, appear to have been the only impediment in the way of the

A similar surprise, resulting in the capture of the entire garrison at Beverley, Va., happened a short time since. We do not hear, however, that they occur any where else; and the inference is therefore fair that the whole department has been utterly mismanaged, and that the Robels knew better than we seem to have done, that it was time to make a change.

Such an event, happening just at the moment when the whole nation is rejoicing at SHERMAN'S SUCCESS, proves more annoy ing than it would at almost any other tin In view of such facts we do not wonder that the Rebels talk of withdrawing from the field and resorting to guerrilla warfare. So far as West Virginia is concerned, the guerrillas would seem to have every thing their OWN WAY.
