The law allows that discretion, and it has been freely used. Now, the following distinct ga-sourcement is made: Sourcement We had been ander the impression, usill re-cently, that stock-raising in this State was not a paying business for farmers. But facts come to light occasionally which do not bear out this imresaion. For example : Mr. James McKelvy, residing near Wilkinsburg, in this county, (who, by the way, has some reputation as a stock-breeder,) the other day sold some of his stock breeder.) the other day sold some of his stock to the butcher at such figures as these: A three-year old helfer brought $235,00.; ten fat sheep throught $185,00, and a calf $30,00. These look like enormous prices, even, for these high times, and our city consumers will perhaps exclaim, "No wonder we have to pay twenty-five to thirty cents" a pound for boof-steaks." But the secrets of the matter is, that Mr. Ketry keeps none but choice, thorough bred stock. The helfer was a full-bred short-horn, or Dunham ; weight, 1,550 lbs. The shoep, weigh-lag together about ,550 lbs. The shoep, weigh-deses of encellent wool, as for their sayory intion-chops. civily and criminially, to the extent autoorized by law.
