RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The proceedings of the Presbyterian General Assembly (Old School) still in session in this city, so far have been pretty fully reported for both our daily issues. We propose to give a brief synopsis of the doings of the New School body which met at Brooklyn, N. Y., on Thursday, the 18th, and is now in session, until the fourth day. The Assembly was opened with a sermon by Rev. Thomas Brainard, D.D., of Philadelphia, the Moderator—text: "He that winneth souls is wise." The following passage from the discourse has interest at this time in view of the proposed union of the two bodies. The doctor says: "the coming ministers must run a right line between high-toned ecclesiastical organisms and a rampant independency. Care must be taken not to precipitate organized union between rival and opposing sects. The desire for union must go before; else the result will be three denominations instead of two. We never desired to be separated from our Old School brethern. We could tolerate them, but they could not tolerate us. A union between us brought about, after fierce discussion, by bare majorities, would be to come in one way and go out seven ways. We have also many points of concord with our Congregational brethern; but we judge that individual churches should be governed. Christ has ordained government in His Church." Immediately after the re-assembling of the Assembly in the afternoon, the Rev. James B. Shaw, D. D., of the Presbytery, of Rochester, was chosen Moderator by acclamation. After the transaction of some merely routine business, it was determined by a large majority to hold the next General Assembly in the First Presbyterian church of St. Louis, Mo. At the close of the customary time spent in devotional exercises on the morning of the second day, the Moderator announced the Standing Committees, also on Synodical Records. Reports were then presented. The report on Foreign Missions, shows that 720 churches, with a membership of 36,885 contributed nothing to the cause. It was stated that 723 churches had contributed to the cause $97,629 14 with 101,169 members, an average by each of ninety cents. There are 58 members employed in the Foreign work. From the report on Education we learn quite a number of students for the ministry have been aided. Contributions were received from 345 churches to the amount of $23,263 33. Dr. Kend all, formerly of the Third Presbyterian church of this city, Secretary of Home Missions shows in the report presented by him that the aggregate labor of the 321 missionaries employed during the year was equal to 255 years. The receipts for the year, with the balance in the treasury at the beginning of it, come but little short of $100,000 Among the overtures reported was the question—"What shall be done with applicants for admission to our Presbyteries, who have during the past four years proved traitors to the country?" The reply of the Committee defined the sin of treason, and the guilt of those ministers of the Gospel who have stirred up, encouraged and sanctioned the awful enormities of this great struggle. The question comes up for discussion hereafter. Other questions of less interest were before the body during the day. In the evening a meeting of Ruling Elders was held. This novel measure just inaugurated is likely to be a feature of the meeting of the Assembly from year to year. About two hundred elders was present. The main object of the conference is to promote the efficiency of this arm of the Church. Stirring addresses were delivered by prominent laymen. Another meeting was appointed to be held during the session of the Assembly. The proceedings of the third day's session, immediately after its opening, was in reference to the application of Presbyteries in East Tennessee desiring to be restored to the fellowship of the Church. Provision was made for reconstructing their Presbyteries, and it was specially enjoined upon them not to recognize any minister known to be disloyal to the government of the United States. Addresses were delivered by two ministers, Messrs. Sawyer and Lamar, and by others ministers. The remainder of the day was devoted to matters of not much general interest, and partly of a local character. The fourth day was largely spent on the subject of Foreign Missions, and on the guilt of those ministers and others who had been engaged in the Rebellion. We may give further details of the actions of this body hereafter.

——An important feature in the Wesleyan body of Great Britain, besides the usual Educational institutions, is the day-schools, under its direction. Thirty-three new day schools had been opened during the past year, at an outlay of £20,000, and providing accommodation for five thousand five hundred children. The number of children taught in Wesleyan Sunday-schools in Great Britain was 533,519. Of this half million about one-sixth attended day-schools.

——A late number of Evangelical Christendom regards French Protestantism in a critical condition, from the fact that the most active enemies to the cause are of their own number; they even fill the places of pastors; they are laboring to demolish the Church, by allying themselves with free thinkers, deists, pantheists, and even atheists, as well as with demagogues.

——The Western Christian Advocate says the entire expenses of the missions of the American Board to the Sandwich Islands has been less than the cost of the exploring expedition to the Pacific Ocean, under Commodore Wilkes; less than that of a first class ship of iron.

The Presbyterian General Assembly. ...EIGHTH DAY. ...The Assembly met at nine o'clock, Friday morning, and spent the usual time in devotional exercises. ...

After the minutes had been read, Dr. Perkins, from the Special Committee, to whom had been referred the complaint of the Seventh Church of Cincinnati, reported that the Committee had carefully considered all the facts and heard all the testimony in the case, which was the more complicated and difficult owing to the fact that the parties in question were supposed to be laboring under a species of monomania. It appears from the report that the session of the Seventh Church of Cincinnati had tried certain parties upon five several charges, and found them guilty upon the first, second and fifth, and adjudged them worthy of serious admonition on the ground of the first and fifth, and suspension upon the second. That the Presbytery of Cincinnati, declining the case upon appeal, affirmed the decision of the Session. The Synod of Cincinnati, also acting upon it under appeal, reversed the decision of the Presbytery and Session. ...

The committee, while they find in the proceedings of the Session and Presbytery no evidence of other than a kind and conscientious desire to do justice to all parties concerned, recommend the adoption of the following resolutions: ...

1. That the decision of the Synod reversing the action of the Presbytery and Session upon the first and fifth charges, be itself reversed, and the Session instructed to administer the serious admonition of which they wisely judged the parties to be guilty. ...

2. That the decision of the Synod reversing the action of the Presbytery and Session upon the second charge be sustained in part, on the ground that the suspension of the parties accused was too severe in the case, and that the Session be recommended to revoke the suspension and admonish the parties. ...

Pending the motion to adopt the report, Dr. Barnard addressed the Assembly, alluding to the darkness and gloom which had been experienced by the Board in the past. The reverses to the national arms, the high rate of exchange, and the fear that the operations of the Board would be seriously affected. Finally the Union armies were triumphant, the churches most liberally responded to the calls for aid, all claims were met, the missionaries were kept at their work, and at the close of the year a small surplus remained in the treasury. ...

Dr. Lowrie, Secretary of the Board, (Dr. Wood in the chair) next addressed the meeting on behalf of the Board of Foreign Missions. He alluded to the vast field opened up in the South for domestic mission operations, and to the fact that the condition of the poor whites and the emancipated blacks was a subject of the utmost sympathies. He apprehended that, in view of these things, the important work of spreading the Gospel in the heathen world might be overlooked or neglected. While every effort should be employed to redeem the people of the south, and bring them into the fold of the church, the great and important work of evangelizing the heathen should be presented with equal energy and activity. More men should be employed, and increased liberality exhibited by all the churches in the United States. God was calling upon the Presbyterian Church by His spirit, to go forward in this work, and discharge their whole duty to the perishing heathen. ...
