THE MAR WHO FELL ABONG

All the world, Christian and Inside, admissible beautiful and instructive parable of the Good. Samaritan. Everybody who will feed this article knows the story, so we need not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not rective it. A man was waylaid by most not step bere and consider a little. However, more fully exemplified than in the history of the West. Always a borrower and ways a dependent, always a borrower was a long, but he did nothing; then a Levite, but he felt that he had nothing to do in the case.

Now let us step here and consider a little. This incident, as he purables tells us, happened on the road form Jerusalem to Je him the first recovered a little strength and was able to journey on, although still week, nearly blind, and reduced to utter poverty. As we said, other men fell into the hands of the same thieves, who woun ded them, shut them up in dungeons, star red them, and such of them as escaped they ged with dogs and deadly weapons But now for the first time the Good Samar itan appears. And who was he! The same poor man who first fell among the thieves. Unlike the one in the parable, he had no oil or wine; but he did what he could. He gave the hungry fugitives such food and shelter as he had, and he did it at the peril of his life; and he guided them as

Richmond on the 20th, although but ten days of the term for which the members the subsequent action of the loyal government and people of Virginia, the seat of which was at Alexandria, abolishing slavery.

But he has not a word to say in favor of the education of these well-behaved people, who, by centuries of toil, and by bravery in defence of the country, certainly entitled: themselves to some consideration, something more than empty landation. Towards the close he says.

"The subject of negro suffrage is excling great interest at present all over the country; but as neither, you nor I have con trol over that subject, it will, of course, not be a subject of your deliberations. I would recommend the passage of an act to legalize the marriage of persons of color; and, for my yiews on the subject, I refer you to my last message."

Well the trace much. If the marriage the close he says-

Well, that is so much. If the marriage of persons of color shall be legalized, that will fift them one step above the brute creation. Let them be thankful.

CARADIAN ANNEXATION.

A Montreal correspondent of the New York (Tribers) speaks thus of the prospect, ive agregation of the British dominions in North America to this country.

I cosmol avoid a sentence in the interest of manifest destiny. Before this visit I melther thought nor cared much about Canadian americation, but I now see it plainly written in the sky. Public sentiment here its rapidly crystalling in its favor, and a few years will give us the peaceful command of the magnificent valley of the St. Lawer weeks with the Horth Pole for our boths dary. The prize is not to be messed at a great country wat lakes and forests, incomes mines of copper and lead on Lake Superior, and of gold hear. Que'ec; no European cruleurs on the great lakes. CANADIAN ANNEXATION.

WESTERN MANUPACTURES. We read the following editorial article in the Chicago Tribune with great pleasure. Let the people of the great North-west, derich in natural resources of every kind, foltow the sovice here given, and they willbring about a state of prosperity to which they can never attain by raising products of the soil for distant markels:

enormonaly high prices and ready markets, for all that our farmers could produce, have had their legitimate effect. The country is comparatively rich in accumulations of capital. There is money for investment at reasonable, but still remunerative, rates of interest; new banks have been started with money that belongs to the stockholders, and on every side the inquiry is now heard, "What offers the best chance for investment?" Government sourities have their place; and where safety and ease are consulted by men who will be content with the interest that they pay, there can be no securities better. But there are many other channels in which capital may most profitnannels in which capital may most profit-

THE purchase of Ford's Theatre at Washington by the Young Men's Christian Associations of our country, is announced. It is fitting that the site of the martyrdom of our departed President should be come henceforth hallowed ground. Our religious organizations concurred in this view, for several church societies endeavored to obtain it. The successful competitions will, we presume, construct a national institution, where they exagglical denominations of our whole cointry, will be always welcomed. The increasing unity of our Protestant sects is one of the significant features of this era, and it will doubtless receive a new inspettins of the capital, and indirectly throughout the land, from this recent to veneral.

The Phenic declares that there is no other prospect before the people but absolute faminic and stairstion. It says: There are no less than 10,000 people here daily receiving rations, who have no other means of getting bread or themselves and children. See these unhappy destitutes at the ration house, daily clinging to its porches, eagerly waiting for the doors to open and give them that daily bread for which they are authorized and required to pray. The Executive Committee of Relief has given notice that their resources are nearly at an end; that, they will, in a short time, be compelled to close their doors—all supplies schausted, and no means left them any longer to supply the citizens with food: What remains? The prospect before us is too terrible for contemplation. We shall lave need to make away from a community, which, thus plundered by man, may be fairly assumed to be abandoned of God. Exents take another turn. The thieves are overcome by armed force, and compelled to deliver up sign of their abused captives as survived their barbarous treatment. That was well. But that is not all. Peace was made between the kinsmen of those rescuid captives and the thieves. But what became of the Bamaritan who had done so much for them? Well, it is a sad story. He was left among the thieves, to get along as well as he could, and have just as much liberty as it suited them to give him; but it was agreed that he should have no vice in their society, or anything to say in the framing of rules and regulations for his own government. days of the term for which the members were thosen remained. The message of Gov. Personer is a calm and sensible document, one which will neither delight nor offend, anybody. For that very reason, perhaps, it is indicious. It is very clear, however, that Personer has not the qualities that make up the character of a reformer or, a bold leader.

He recites the issue of the two emancipation prolamations of President Lincoln, and the subsequent action of the loval govern—which was at Alexandria, abolishing slavery.

He then remarks:

"You know the result. The proclamation-was issued. Negro troops were put into the field by the Federal Government. By bravery in battle they vindicated their manifested, by acts of representative bodies at Washington and Richmond. These acts settle the status of the African race in the United States for all time. The whole nation was represented by two bodies—one representing freedom; the other the idea that plavery was a divise institution, each contending for national existence; each, in the darkest hour of its peril, called upon the slave to bare his arm and expose his breast to the shaft of death; each offered freedom at the greatest inducement to herole action. Thursdavery is disposed of by the logical events of war.

"The conduct of the American slave with in the Confederate lines during the period through which we have just passed is one of that reparkable features of history. Not as inhunce of insurrection against than masters occurred during the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom, and attend the derivers of the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom and the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom and the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom and additive the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully informed of the proclamation of freedom in the strife, though fully inf

Far Fetched Dear Bought.

There is an investrate opinion abroad that the profits of labor and the resulting wealth of a nation can be realized only through order itself, that a State grows rich only upon the profits of its traffic with some between them the better. The doctrine strengthens in proportion to the size of the community. A nation must bring its wealth across a sea, and a fortiori, we must infer that the only chance the globe has for growing rich all over, is by a trade with the moon, or some other outlying provinces of meon, or some other outlying provinces of the solar system. The folly of this decirine has only to be stated to be fully realized. Wealth cannot stated to be fully realized. Wealth cannot be created by carrying property around. All transportation of it beyond the nearest attainable market, is a waste of time, labor and machinery. It is the business of true Political Economy to establish markets those by Production. The Plow, Loom and Anvil should be brought together. The blast-furnace should be moved up close to the barn—the cloth mill should clatter with.

blast-furnace should be moved up close to the barn—the cloth-mill should clatter with-in hearing of the respera—the machine shop should rattle its bread-carning song to the bread supplying threshing machine. Ships are useful things to bring tea and coffee scrose occans—they are awfully wasteful institutions to carry wheat to be exchanged for cloth and iron. Farmers, insist on having the swap made at your own doors! You command through Congress. Jeff. Davis' First Secretary of War asking Pardon—Freedmen's Affairs in Missour

Pardon—Freed and Arkansas. and Arkhasas.

Warnington, June 22.—Mr. Walker, Jeff. Davis Inst Secretary of War, is expected here in a few days with an application for parion for himself. Walker is the individual who boasted in a speech delivered in Mostgomery, in 1861, on the eccasion of the insuguration of the Provisional Fresiden of the Conference; that Inless than three months the flag of the rebellion would wave bot only over the dome of the Capitol, but over Fancull Hall.

General Howard to day received a letter from General Fisk, Commissioner of Freedmen for the States of Arkansas and Missouri, visting that the affairs of the freedmen, particularly in the latter State, are at present in a very prospections condition. Laborers are in good demand, and fair wages are offered. There are only 250 colored people in Missouri, dependent upon the Government for support while there are 4.43 whites who graw their daily subsistence from Uncle Sam.—Special Disprich to the Chicago Tribuse.

THE stereotype medical requisition, "Let me feel your pulse," is possibly to be superseded by the demand, "Let me see your breath." An English physician has been making experiments with the impressions left on glass by the breathing of a number of persons, and has found that different figures were made by different breaths, when examired by the microscope. Drawings have been made of these impressions, and on a magnified dise there appear, through the medium of a magic lanters, an almost infulte variety of shapes, and combinations—some like daggers, others medouling stars, others in flow-daggers, others medouling stars, others in flowriety of shapes and combinations—some like-daggen, others resembling stars, others in flow-er like forms, and so on. It is opined that ob-servations scientifically made on these different forms of emitted breats from the lungs will be an extraordinary discovery that a diagnosis on the state of one's lungs might be given from a microscopical observation of the particular form assumed by the breath, as deposited on a sheet of giass, on emission from the mouth of the pa-tient.
