PITTSRURGH.

FROM YESTERDAY'S EVENING GAZETTE. Dead Body of a Child Found-Singula Case of Infanticide. On Monday night, as some workmen were en aged in cleaning out a privy on the premises Jacob Grimm, on Cherry alley, one door from the corner of Seyenth street, they discovered th ody of a child, in a perfectly rude state, and evidently but a few days old. The fact was c ormed the Coroner of the circumstance thi morning, but as that officer is lying sick the Alderman proceeded to hold an inquest. Being unable to find any witnesses, he adjourned the avestigation until the afternoon.

In the meabilms, Mayor Lowry was informed in the finding of the body of the infant, and he tonce put officers Thornburg and Culp at wor of the saming of the leftant; and he at once put officers Thornburg and Culp at work to investigate the case. Officer Thornburg visited the house of Mr. Grimm, and found one of the daughters. Elizabeth Grimm, in rather delicate health. He informed the old lady that he wished to see her daughter slone, and when the mother had left the room he informed Elizabeth that he was a physician seet if the second of the contraction of the oad lets the room he informed slixabeth that he was a physician, sent to ascertain the cause of her illness; that if she told him the truth he would be satisfied; and if not, she would have to submit to a personal examination.

The girl at first hesitated, but finally confessed that she had become a mother just a week ago, and had throws the child into the cesspol. The most almuse fort concerted with the fifth. and had throws the child into the cesspool. The most singular fact connected with the affair was that the girl had been living all the time at home, and that some of the family, not even het mother, was aware of her actual condition. She stated that when she became ill ahe renaired to the yard, and after the child was born she throw it into the cesspool. On being asked whether it had been born alive, ahe stated that it cried once or twice, but was dead before she finally disposed of it. of it.

She also made a full confession in regard to the paternity of the child. From her statement it appears, that she had become enamored of a vout g man named Philip Staffler, and sought an introduction to him through a female friend and young man named Philip Staffler, and sought an introduction to him through a female friend and confident named Maggie Berry, who resided next door to her. Philip's coustn had been paying attentions to Maggie, and it was thought an acquaintanceahlp between Lizzie and Philip would be mutually agreeable. They were introduced at a time when Mrs. Berry was avent, and their acquaintanceable soon resulted in criminality. In a short time after, these artent lovers quarreled, and Lizziu was left to look sut for herself as best able could. Philip had promised to marry her, it necessary to save her frem digrace; as nost she could. Philip had promised to marry pher, it necessary to save her frem disgrace; but she had never made known her condition to him, on account of their quarrel, and had kept her fearful secret in her own breast. She states that she removed the widences of her confinement with her own hands, and although quite ill was not couldned to bed.

Dr. Rogers was arthrighed by the Newschild of the confinement with the work hands; and although quite ill was not couldned to bed. Ill was not confined to bed.

Dr. Rogers was authorized by the Mayor to examine the bedy of the infant, and found it to be that of a fully developed male child. The lungs, however, had been so distended by gas that he could not determine whether the child had breathed or not. He decided that the girl could be removed, and she was accordingly taken to the Mayor's office.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Philip Staffler, and he was found by officer Culp at work in Hammer & Danler's furniture establishment, where he was employed as a variabler. He was amazed when he learned of the causes which led to his arrest, but did not pretend to deny the paternity of the child.

Mais Grimm is of very respectable parentage, and her character is good among her neighbors and acquaintances. She is twenty years of age, but fartless and simple in her manner. She seemed to feel very keenly the situation is which she has been placed, and wept long and bit. she has been placed, and wept long and bit-she has been placed, and wept long and bit-tely. She will be committed to jail to answer a charge of murder, as the offense of in-femicide is not one which admits of ball. If she had not confessed as to the vitality of her off-spring, it would perhaps have been impossible to prove the fact, as there seems to have been no withnesse present.

The Fourth and Fire Crackers. There will probably not be so much noise fro mes past, owing to the high price of those an ticles. Fire-crackers are seven dollars a box wholesale, and retail for twenty-five cents a pack. The celebrated Chinese crackers a even more expensive. A dollar a pack is the price of the huge crackers that make a noise like a pistol. A pack of them contains just ten. Double-headed Dutchmen, the great eracker used before the war, are now obsetts. Four years ago they were freely purchased for two cents each; now they would be twenty five. Pinwheels are it wo cents, and large ones are three times the price of last year. Roman candles are two dollars land a half for a dezen, and all other fireworks in proportion. lreworks in proportion.
