THE PROBABLE INCREASE OF REV It is a prevalent impression among those who have not looked into the matter, that the present mently kept up in order to meet the demands after the machinery of tax collection gets t working satisfactorily, is shown by the fact that is levied elips through the fingers of the co

Let us compare the amount levied on a single product, with what is actually realized. The number of gallons of liquors distilled during the year ending June 1, 1860, according to th census returns, was as follows:
 New England States

Aggregate in the United States 88,003,985 The present consumption of the whole Unio s fully as great as in 1860, and if the excise o $3,00 per gallon could be collected, the revenue would amount to $176,000,000, or enough to pay the interest on the entire nation al debt when all the legal tenders are reduced t the revenue actually derived from this source is not one-tenth of this amount. All the rest lost by illicit distillation, smuggling, and con supt and unfaithful conduct of revenue officials to prevent this immense loss, the Secretary of the Treasury has taken measures for a more officient collection of the revenue derived from the liquor business, among others that of appo an Assistant Assessor in every District in which there is a distillery, whose attention will be give en solely to that object.

. This is but one instance, although the most notable one, out of many, of enormous losses of revenue which have been the result of inefficient arising mainly from inexperience in levying taxes such as were unknown before the war. I being fast evercome, is evident from the vast increase in the revenue for the past over that of especially of the West, it is threefold. Should this improvement continue we may look for an increase in the aggregate receipts in this and coming years, which will enable the government to materially lighten or remove some of the more odiona taxes.

POREIGN SHIPPING.

The N. Y. Times has an article headed Our Merchant Marine-Grave and Significant Facts," in which it is stated that a large proportion of the merchant vessel in that port are foreigners. Its list may be tabularly stated thus:

The Times then remarks with its accustomed vigor of expression:
"This state of affairs should no longer exist. It behoves us as a nation, and it is our duty as Americans, to retain our own carrying trade, and it is not just to ourselves that we permit ships of foreign na-tions to monopolize this most important branch of our national greatness." Why not? Cannot we as well afford to let foreigners do our carrying as our manu bis father in the pulpit. He had one of the ingrest and most fashionable, certainly the wealthiest congregation in the city of his sect, reprisenting from five to six millions of dollars. They showed on him every favor, benefit and good office. His salary was seven thousand collars a year, and the gifts of his parishloners, together with church fees, would probably amount to as much more. He was belong and his cored by recrybot. Two years are his together with church fees, would probably smount to as much more. He was belovel and hotored by everybody. Two years age his father died and left him, his only son, sixty thousand dollars.

"Two years and a half age, the Rev. Mr.—was induced by a friend to purchase a few slarres in railway stocks, in Wall street. He was lucky at the outset; was induced to dip farther; was again lucky; and luck led him on to rain. From that time up to about a year age, he kept his Wall street broker employed, with varied success. From dealing in stocks he went into gold gambilag; the end of that need hardly be related. He soon found himself not only handrupt, but he had sacrificed all his mother's estate, had knowled thousand dollars, and had rendered two or three of his wealthy parisoners liable to the loss of sums varying from one hundred and fifty thousand to forty thousand.

"He new found himself but little better than a beggar in the world. The proper ecclesiastical authority interfered, took the mister up, and manifested great indignation. He resigned, took his family to a sequestered retreat in a facturing ? If they make our iron, and cutlery, and clothing, why not allow them to bring them to us? Is there less national greatness in manufacturing a ton of iron, or a cask of cutlery, or a piece of cloth, than Is not carrying a part of the much-vaunted system of free trade as anything else? Or does this formidable array of foreign flags around the wharves of New York detract more from our national greatness, or militate more against our true national indepennce, than do the cargoes which many of them cover of foreign frabrics which we ought to make cursolves? With legitimate commerce we have no quarrel; but we do New York encourages foreigners to pour upon our shores are more destructive of ou national greatness and of our natoinal prosperity than are the vessels which bring them, and in the language of the Times we say of both-"This state of affairs should no longer exist."

TRINITY CHURCH, NEW YORK. This is decidedly the wealthiest eccles astical corporation in the world, the real estate with which it is vested being estimated at $20,000,000. In 1697 WILLIAM III., of England conferred upon this church a charter and a grant of a piece of property known as "the King's farm and garden."

This property, now in the very heart of the city, was divided into 2008 lots, of which 218 have been given away since 1748, 1053 have been sold, 601 remain. Of the remaining lots, 386 were leased in the year 1766, at 75 cents each, which lease has long been in possession of the Aston estate, upon which Mr. Aston pays an annual rental of two hundred and sixty nine dollars.

They are covered with houses and stores of great value. In 1866 the leases expire. Of great value. In 1866 the leases expire. Of great value. In 1866 the leases expire. Of the church.

What the Chivalry Think of Labor.

The Richmond Whip, discoursing upon the probability of the young chivalry being obliged to resort to the sail necessity of labor, indulges in these dolorous romarks:

labor, indulges in these dolorous remarks To Europe in a Week.

It is stated that a company of the leading ship-owners of New York have under consideration plans for binding four magnifecent vessels of eight thousand tons each, to be propelled by regimes of two thousand five hundred horse-power, working two paddle wheels, of the usual kind, and two screw propellers—so that, in ease of derangement of citizer set of machinery, the other set shall continue working without material impediment in the speed of the vessel.

These vessels are to be capable of carrying 2500 passengers at the variable fares of $35, $50, and $75, according to the smount, of accommodation required, between that city, and Bristol, England. Meals are to be farmished on board the same as at any restaurant, and passengers can either set or left is alone, as it may please them. The passengers to Europe, it is policyed, at eighteen miles as hom, will be made; in seven days, while the great length of the vessels (nearly six hundred feet each) will overreach or materially control the waves, and prevent that terrible pitching motion that is more or less the dread of alleas going travelers.

The Eric City Disputch says: Dickson's eteam labor, indulges in these dolorous remarks:

We are far from believing in the so-called nobility of labor, for if our memory serves us, labor is but the primal curse. In the days of our first innoceacy, twe read of no such thing, as eating one's bread in the sweat of one's brow, and it would take more than the tumid platitudes of helorical parsons to convince us that there is any dignity in toll. Still, while holding to the Beripture doctrine that labor is a curse, we can readily see that the highest manhood may be displayed in the cheerful, stoutheacted performence of any responsibility Providence may see fit to cast upon us. hearted performence of may responsibility

The Febel Fugutives in Mexico.

We understand that the Americans, 1ste of the Confederate army, who have rezeatly gone over the border into Mexico, do not propose to take service with either beliggerant of that country. They will make their way, directly to the interior, and thence through the porthern states to the Pacific coast. There some of them will engage in mining, and others settle down as colonists on lands already prepared for them. The trip across the country will probably take most of the summer, but the party is well fitted out for even a longer time. In all probability many of them will aftimately find their way to Colifornia, there to settle in new homes among their own people again. We are informed, moreover, that most of the prominent leaders of the party, especially those from this State and from Kentucky, leave the homes of their childhood with sad regrets, and with the hope of soon returning without being molested. They only leave now because, "excepted' from the amnesty, they would be liable to arrest and incarceration, at least till their own trials or those of The Febel Fugitives in Mexico. cause, 'excepted' from the awnesty, if would be liable to arrest and incarceration

A PRIVATE letter from a Well informed and intelligent gentleman, a resident of Mississippi, states that there will not be more than twenty-five thousand bales of cotton raised in Mississippi the present year. The overflow of the rivers has almost destroyed the entire crop in that region, and in the interior the demoralization of labor consequent upon the war, has prevented planting except to a very limited extent.

THE Green Bay Advocate learns that on Wedneeday of last week, as three fishermen, nan.ed James Lowe, Frank Wolf and Edward Warren were-returning to the island with a fishing boat loaded with tackle, etc., the boat capelzed, and all three were drowned. They were all married men, the last named having a large family. From Louisiana and Texas. From Louisiana and Texas.

In Louisiana corn, cotton and sugar were never more forward than they are this year.

On the Red river the crop of corn will be "immense," so says the Shreveport Neus.

In Texas corn is beyond the reach of accident, and is very abundant. The wheat has suffered from rust in some of the lower counties of the State, but the crop is nevertheless large. Certificates of Indebtedness.

The carpings of certain sore-headed journals at the course of the Secretary of the Treasury in eatisfying the large claims sgainst the government by the payment of 25 per cent in cash and 75 per cent. in certificates, is entirely unjust in view of the facts of the finuncial condition. In the first place the Secretary has no anthority to borrow money beyond the $600,000,000 asked for by Mr. Fessenden, the last of which is now being marketed by Jay Cooke; secondly, the government is disbanding an army of eight hundred thousand men, and paying every man in full—a thing without a precedent in history—and it is for the satisfaction of the claims of the soldiers that the receipts of the government, from loans and revenue, are now being used. These demands will all be promptly paid, so that the soldier who has received an honorable discharge may go home with a respect for the government that has so faithfully fulfilled its obligations to him; thirdly, the closing up of the accounts of the army calls for a larger amount of money than was anticipated, and as the Secretary can get no relief until Congress meets, he does not propose to have the treasury entirely dried up, and therefore resorts to the only alternative left him—the issue of certificates of indebtedness to the larve creditors of the government.—Cor.
