In replying to a question put by the New York Commercial Advertiser a day or two ago-"How can impediments to exchanges by way of illustration to the Croton water works, by which that great city is supplied with abundance of .good water, which ben eficent object is effected by placing an imediment (a dam) in the channel of the Oroton river, and thereby causing the water to flow directly into the city. To this the Pittsburgh Post takes exception, and says The friends of protection about here had pelicy, or he will spoil it. Being favorable his illustration. The means of processing contend that tariff duties do not, in the id, increase the price of the article taxed, and here the Gazette knocks that argument to a large cocked hat, by its illustration of and here the Gazette knocks that argument into a large cocked hat, by itsillustration of the Croton Aqueduct, a structure which cost many-millions of dollars. It might as well allude to the "impediments" in the Monongahela river—called slack water navigations with the transfer of the control of the contro igation—which taxes overything that de-scends its bosom for the benefit of a select orporation. The people of New York, like those of other cities have a right to tax themselves as they please for their own comfort and convenience; but in what does that municipal regulation resemble a tar, which the free traders say is levied upon poor consumers for the benefit of wealthy poor consumers for the benefit or woman manufacturers? The Gazette will plea

The cost of the aqueduct, reservoirs, &c., has nothing whatever to do with the question or with the illustration; because the "impediment" -the dam in the river commerce-in other words a good protective tariff-so far from being an expense, is a profit to the national treasury ; for observe, we make a distinctio n a protective tariff and a prohibitery tariff The first, while it will not stop the them pay a good round tax into the nation al treasury, and at the same time give our own people some chance to compete with the cheaper labor and capital of the richer and more densely populated countries of Enrope. The second would stop importations altogether, and dry up that important source of revenue. We advocate the first.

The Post says we might have found as good The Post says we might have found as good an illustration in the Monongahela Slackwater. So we might; but the Croton water works suited us better the other time. That slackwater does furnish us a very good illustration. But the Post objects, that everything which descends that navigation is taxed "for the benefit of a select corporation." True enough. That corporation threw impediments across that river in the shape of dams, and they are authorized to imposed the navigation still, further by disease and filth, with the delails of that caravamsary of horrible; onterior last caravamsary of horrible tion." That corporation throw impediments across that river in the hape of diam, and they are authorized to impedic the analysistion eatility forther by the impedition of folis, which hap rightly or, act off "everything that descends its bosom", as the Fost clegantity expresses it. Very well; it is all true; but from the way the Fost talks about it, we might infer that it regards it as all wrong. But the question is, what effect have these impediments upon the price of cord ir this city? Well it because it, what effect have these impediments on the Monogashel? material weath has been exhausted. Our fields are laid waste, our towns and cities, our railroads and bridges, our schools and colleges, many of our private dwellings and public edifices are in rulna Silence and desolation reign where once stood the comfortable home which resounded with the joyous laugh of childhood and innocence.

Untold sufferings have been and are still endured by thousands of our women and children and the aged and helpless of our land.

There is no longer a slave in Alabama. It is thus made manifest to the world that the right of recession for the purpose of establishing a separate Confederacy, based on the idea of African slavery, has been fully and effectually tried and is a failure. Yet, amid all the ritin, suffering and death, which have resulted from it, every political right which the State possessed under the Federal Constitution, is here today, with the single exception relating to slavery.

day, with the single exception relating to slavery.

The life-boat of the Union is still within our reach. The flag which our fathers established with their blood, among the nations of the earth, still floats at her musthead. On her quarter-deck, despite the bullet and dagger of the assassin, still stands a helmsman at h's post, surrounded by a crew who, for the most part, with outstreiched arms and in cordial tones invite us to come on board, and share equally with them the prosperity, the danger and the glory which may fail to the lot of those whose fortunes are united to her.

Friends and fellow-citizens shall we not do it? There is no other sail in sight. England and France often seemed to be bearing down to cur relief, but they have tacked, nay, they have put square about, and are nay, they have put square about, and are now hull down on the distant verge of the nay, they have put square about, and are now hull down on the distant verge of the eccan. But the ablp which our fathers built has backed her engines and her sails, and is lying to, ready to receive us. Her commander says come. It is your right. Her crew are looking over her sides ready to lend us a hand. And if they who fell at Lexin. ton and Bunker Hill, at the Cowpens and Yorktown, could speak to us, would they not say "go on board the ship which we built and hunched for all of you; brethren be at peace and dwell together in unity; you have fallen out; you have had a dreadful family quarrel, as children too often have, after the parents are dead and gone who acquired the estate; but be thankful to God that the great principles of civil; and religious liberty, of free government, and man's capacity to govern himself, still survivo amid the ruin you have wrought. You will all be once more integral parts of an empire which contains within itself the elements necessary to secure all of peace, proservits and harminess which fall to the let. ments necessary to secure all of peace, pros-perity and happiness which fall to the lot-of men and nations. There is not a friend to the principles of government which we bequeathed you, among the Kings and des-pots of the earth. You have had, during all this death strugglo, but one real friend in Europe, the Emperor of Russia." We ask particular attention to the nautical Great Britain and France for tacking square off, just at the moment the Confederacy was sinking, and leaving the poor Confeds no alternative but to crawl into the Yankee life boat, or sink and be drowned. There is an unmistakable intimation that either of the other two would have been preferred: but as they both made off, there was nothin for it but to get into the Yankee boat. A Combination of Misfortunes.

One of the most remarkable instances of cumulative misfortune connected with the war, one so singular as to merit publication, is the case of Mrs/Maria E. Pyle, of Avoca, Wis. Her husband, Amos M. Pyle, Company K., Thirty-sixth Wisconsin Volunteers, was c-ptared at Gaines' Mills about the 1st of June, 1864. On the 6th of that, month he wrote to his wife from the Libby Prison, the last word she has been able to hear of him. The same night the letter reached her, the lightning descended the stove-pipe, killed her two sins in one bed, and set the house on fire. She escaped with two infant children, with whom she is now living at Avoca in a state of great distress. Any one who can give information respecting the fate of the bushand is requested to transmit it to Miss Clara Barton, Washington, D. C., and sny newspaper, particularly in the South, will do a kindness to the afflicted wife by copying this notice.

Consumption is a local disease, generated and fed by the blood in a sertain chemical condition, and can only be removed by local chemical means capable of altering that coaddition through the medium of the diseased organ. To accomplish this purpose, as we cannot apply dudies to a servity designed only for the reception of air, we then reduce them to a volatile condition, and from an appropriate in strument inhale or breather the vapor. By the inhalation of vapor, we can produced all the boundicial effects capable of keing produced by the stomach. MOST EMINENT TESTIMONIALS. From Sir Charles Endomore, M. D.—In consump-tion, evan despirate cases, I recommend the use of Irhsistion as the only possible cure. In chron-to bronchitis the benefits are so well proven by the speedy alteration in the quaiity and quantity of the expectoration, that no doubt of the value of the remedy can be reasonably outertained. It gives relief to the asthmatic patient, proves cur-ative in case of philisis mulmonits; it those ex-tire in cases of philisis mulmonits; it those ex-treme advances which bid denance to the ordinary rules of practice.

From D J. Corrigan, M. D.—Even allowing most rolly for the exagerated encomiums of some of the extilest advocates of Inhalation, enough remains to satisfy me in saying, that remedies in the form of vapor exert a powerful influence over diseased action, and it is only in this way that we can administer remedies to act locally unon the diseased tiesues of the lungs. The exhibition of remedies in this form merits the confisence of both physician and patient.

Remarkable Cure of Consumption. My son, William Waltz, had been afflicted more or less for about two years, when he was taken down in consuspilon, and during his confinement tendance, with the abreto's skillin midsel attendance, with the abreto's skillin midsel attendance, with the abreto's skillin midsel attendance, with the store of skillin midsel attendance, with the store of the skillin midsel attendance to the store of the surge gene, and that he was in the last stage of consuspilon, and after exhausting all their medical skill on him, he continued to grow worse, and they finally gave him up to die.

In this hopeless condition, Dr. J. Fistery was seen the selection of the selection in the selection of about two months he became restored to pricot health.

For more definits information of my son's most deplorable condition during his affiction, I invited all interested to give me a call. SALONE MARKHAM, late Hrs. Waitz, No. 8 Brook street, between Ceary and Market and Bupens and Kenry, San Francisco.
