SCIENTIFIC CLASSIFICATION, CLEAR AS MUD. We have been desirous to bring our neigh bors of the Commercial down to something definite and precise, in relation to the much debated question of re-construction, and the supposed policy of the President, which they have professed to support in opposition to the platform of the late Republican Convention of this State. We are now favored with an exposition of the several shades or differences of opinion, which are supposed to divide the friends of the administration throughout the country, which we quote for the purpose of showing just .how much these new public instructor who have been so roundly rating the party and its doctrines, have understood the subjects of which they talk so confidently and oracularly. To be fully and easily understood, we will specify some of these plans. There is the plan of the President, which is admit-

Redly experimental. It proposes to trust the Southern people, under the sanction of the cath of allegiance, and under the unalterable condition of the abolition of slavery, with the rights and privileges of citizenship, At the same timely reserves to the Government the right to punish the leaders of the rebellion, and the right to annual and reverse any action of the people which may conflict with the above conditions. This right has already been exercised by annualling individual contracts, municipal regulations, and State elections, which contravened the conditions above named. The plan of the more radical portion of the loyal people is to extend a lenient policy to the mass of the late rebels, to panish the leaders, and to admit the emancipated slaves immediately to the right of suffrage. The plan of the admit the emancipated slaves immediately to the right of suffrage. The plan of the great body of the party which is now in the ascendancy, agrees substantially with that of the Administration at Washington, reserving, as the Administration does, some details of future measures—that of megro suffrage among them—for the consideration of Congress and for further discussion among the people. Another plantis to regard and treat the States and people of the South as conquered provinces divested privileges.

Now, these plans, with the exception of libe isst named, which is directly exclusive of the idea of Union, and so is destructive to it, are not so materially different from each other that they may not coalesce. It seems then, that the plan of the President proposes to trust, or in other words re advidual contracts, municipal regulations and State elections, which have contravened it endereserving also "some details of future measures—such as negro suffrage—for the consideration of Congress, and further discussion among the people."

Now, as the Commercial proposes to speak for the Administration, we have a question or two to put just here, which is essential to a proper understanding of the case We would hise to know, in the first place. how, and by what authority, these reservations are to be made and enforced, unless those States are now in the condition of conquered provinces, or in other words, subject to the law of the conqueror? If they continue to be States, as they were before the rebellion, it is of course impossible for either the President or Congress to annex any condition whatever to their remodus operandi, and how is that condition to be enforced? We are informed that it is to be in the same way as has been done already in cases of contracts, municipal reg tilations and State elections, by reversing and shipping their scis. But how are these extraordinary powers of sovereignty. ese acts of which only a conqueror could perform, to be exercised, without invoking tam them? And are they to be exercised ofer these States are re-admitted or before Insuruch too, as the "plan" does youchsale some of the minor details—such as negro suffrage, for the consideration of Congress and the people, for which I trust we are all duly grateful. we would like to know further whether we are to be allowed to discuss them now, or whether Congress and ourselves are to wait until these States are admitted before we undertake to interfere in these matters? Is it ex pected that any of them will come back with Constitutions allowing negro suffrage? If they dont, will Congress be allowed the privilege of excluding them? But how are they to do this without a recourse to that inable, conquered province doctrine And if they are to admit them, what then becomes of their own jurisdiction over the question of suffrage, which is conceded on all hands to belong to the States exclusively, when they are once in! If they were never out, moreover what on earth will Dongress, or the people of the loyal States, have to do with the consideration of the subject at all?

The next plan, which is described as that people, is to punish the leaders and admit the emancipated slaves immediately to the right of suffrage. Well, this is our plan, if we have env, and, of course, is not the President's. But is it his plan to admit them eventually? If it is, how does he propose to accomplish it? Is it by leaving hoguesting to their late masters? And bencialt expected that they will take the negroes into partnership? There is another Plan, however, which must be, according to the Commercial's classification, that of the radicals who are not loyal—and that is, "to regard and treat the States of the South power of protection, and of all rivil privi-Teges?—and this the Commercial says "is of citizenship of all their people." With directly, exclusive of the ides of Union, this radical qualification, we see no oband so is destructive to it? - meaning, of transcendent incapacity of the conduc-

have it just here. When they the of the IN OR OUT HEE REAL DIFFER. conquered provinces doctrine it is perfectally obvious that they have not the slightest noeption of its true meaning, as they show in the same paper, by quoting approvingly from a speech of Judge Kelley, in which that doctrine is asserted in its broadest and most vigorous sense, as we know it to be held by that gentleman, in common with ourselves. It never yet seems to have entered into their noddles, although we have tried to cudgel it therethat all the several plans which it describes, and every other imaginable one to boot, that looks to the imposition of terms in the shape of conditions or otherwise, upon the seceding States—whether relating to eman-cipation or negro suffrage—must necessarily rest upon the hypothesis that they have orfelted their rights in the Union, and be ing now conquered by our arms, are subject to our law .- which is one of the conse quences that always follow a condition of war, resulting as this has done. If they had only looked into the Proclamations for of the soversion land to the court of the soversion land to the part of the soversion land. so much of the President's plan as is disclosed there, they would have discovered that in assuming the forfeiture of the elective franchise by the whole white popula-tion of those States, appointing Provision. tion of these States, appointing Provisional Governors, calling conventions and deciding who are to compose them, and who and the same ting compose them, and who and others dissenting or indifferent. All to vote—he was actually exercising such and others dissenting or indifferent. All the nowers of surrefigure as middle and are agreed, we believe, as to the question high powers of spreading us nothing but of the abolition of slavery. But wherever the law of conquest could confer. Some the question of terms or condition enters inbody has put it thin their heads, however, that the theory of the President is that, these States were never out and have been made independent of our rule by their sub mission to our arms a curious consequenc by the way of a victory-and thus it is that in their zeal to defend what they sup posed to be his doctrine, and did not really understand, they have blundered into absurdities of which any school boy should have been ashamed.

To make this ignorance more transper zent, however, we give further extracts from the speech of Judge KELLT: Ido not demand universal confiscation, or to dufranchise error rebel. I am for mercy and conciliation, so far us they are consistent with the safety of the nation. But I believe with President Johnson that treason is a crime that must be punished, and I hope he will soon quit pardoning leading traitors that a few may be brought to punishment. I believe that at the close of so bloody a rebellion the law of treason, and the heresies of State sovereignty and the right of secession should be seitled by judicial decision, and that the fact that the people of the United States are citizens of a nation should be sealed and sanctified by the blood of a few distinguished traitora. For the southern masses, ist us have amnesty and pardon: for the laws and honor of our country, assertion and vindication, and for the peace of the country and the freedom of its humblest citizen the sures; guarantes. To secure these ends we must have no restoration of the past, no hasty and ill considered reconstruction. The work of erronstruction must, when done, be I do not demand universal confisc of reconstruction must, when done, be perfect; and, in accordance with the Con-

of reconstruction must, when done, be perfect; and, in accordance with the Constitution, secure to each State a republican form of government, und to each citizen of each State the right to trayel in safety throughout the wide national domain, be his opinions and complexions what they may. Reconstruction must be had. No man wishes to hold the South as a subject man wishes to hold the South as a subject of the people, and will exert my utmost powers to bless-them. Let us restore to them as rapidly as we can all the benefits of law and government. Let us rapidly as we can with safety to the honest Union people of that section, confide to them local self-government, whether it be under the name of States or Territories. But may we not be justified in declining, at least for the present, to invite them to govern us; to grovide for our pensions and National debt and establish by the aid of the free trade Democracy of the North, a system of revenue that would close our factories and overwhelm us in National and iddividual bankrupter. Let us say to them, govern yourselves, gentlemen. Do it wisely and well, and proposes to trust, or in other words read mit those States, on the wood condition of the abolition of slavery, reserving the right to annul and recerse any action of the people which may conflict with this condition.

"as has been already done in cases of full." decline to restore to you those rights you refinquished when you overthrew you State Governments and made sanguinary war on the nation, until you shall give us

lequate security to keep the peace and be good behavior.

Now mark the italics It is a good point hey think that the Judge does not demand universal confiscation or universal disfern chisement." Neither does the Platform TEVERS, or anybody else. They do do not see that this language recognizes the propriety of a partial one. It is another ood point with them, moreover, that "no nan wishes to hold the South as a subject rovince," and they italicise it also. Well that is true, and indisputable, but has nothing to do with the question whether they are in that condition now, except to affirm it—as is done in all his subsequent temarks, wherein he treats their ultimate restoration as a matter of mere grace on ou part, and says to them that "they hold their property, their liberty, and their lives at our mercy." Strange stolidity ! that condemns a doctrine by the silly reiteration of a parrot phrase, without knowing what t means, and then almost in the same breath, indorses that identical doctrine to its broadest and most offensive form of presentation! Hadn't the Commercial bett turn its attention to the markets and let olitics alone ? Such zeal without knowledge, as it has been displaying, will only unnoy and disgust those whom I supposes i self to be serving.

The Party to be Defeated by its own Doc-THE Commercial of Wednesday morning says;

"The Pittsburgh Gazette is doing its ut-most in defeat the Union party in this State. Feeble as its efforts are, this is their direct tendency. It is not the first instance of unfalthfulness, &c." The Gassie maintains no other than the loctrines of the party as enunciated at Harrisburg, and that the Commercial has not yet had the hardihood to deny. It is the party doctrines therefore, that in the opinon of that paper are threatening to destroy it. But how any newspaper that denounces them, can hope to maintain its confidence or respect, is a question that the Commercial. Will have an opportunity of solving. It will find out, by and by, that t is not a brazen face that can carry it sucessfully through such a trial.

If we have been unfaithful in any part cular to these doctrines, we call upon the Commercial to show it. And this is a deand that it cannot evade. 'It must eithe meet it, or make up its mind to stand branded before the public with the double crime f hypocrisy and falsehood. No Albany lodge will answer here.

THE NEW YORK PLATFORM SCOMS to be compromise between the Radical and onservative Republicans. It approves the dministration of President Johnson, and ndorses his initial steps towards reconstruction, but adds that "whenever it shall be deemed compatible with the public safe ty to restore to the States, lately in rebellion the renewed exercise of those rights, we trust it will be done in the faith and on the basis that they be exercised in the spirit of equal and impartial justice, and with a view to the elevation and perpetuation this radical qualification, we see no ob-jection to the platform, The Convenin immediate on said interesting at it, arcti restoration. but prefers the postponement o it until it is "compatible with the public safety"—a postponement, we venture to tors of that newspaper, even to comprehend' predict, that will put it off for a considerable season.

We have elsewhere observed upon the Commercial's classification of the Union party on the question of reconstruction. Our own views on this subject are that there are but two phases of opinion upon the general question—one assuming that the Rebel communities having destroyed their own government, have lost their status as members of the Federal Family and forfelted their rights under the Constitution. and by the law of war to which they themselves, appealed, have fallen under the dominion of the conqueror, and are really at his mercy, in rights, persons, and estatesto be restored only on such terms or conditions not inconsistent with the spirit of our metitutions, as that conqueror may prescribe and the other, insisting that these states have forfeited nothing, and still remain in their original condition; subject only to the constitutional liability on the part of of the sovereign, for their treason against the government, under the Constitution the divisions of sentiment and laws of the United States. These are everything turns. There may be differences, the question of terms or conditions enters into the case, the disturbance of the old relation and the forfeiture of Constitutional rights is always admitted—the power to impo new terms-whatever they may be-always implying that the old bargain is at an end, and that the conqueror has a right to say what he will choose to exact for his own future security. And this is the heretical and damnable "conquered province doctrine, which is held by every body in the country, with the exception of the rebels and their Northern allies, and even by the Commercial itself, and all others who support the policy of the Proclamation hough sometimes as in the ins ance of that paper-without knowing it.

The other doctrine, that these States were not out, and stand now as before upon their original rights under the Const tution, subject only to such penalties as have been incurred by the treason of their people which is the universal idea of the Rebels and the Copperhends, and which our Republican President is very strangely supposed by them to favor, even when he is dealing with these States as a conquerer disposes of the whole question of reconstruction, by affirming the right of these States to come back whenever they choose, without any condition whatsoever, and leaves all the rights, franchises, and proper. ty of the traitors, unimpaired and unaffectad by their rebellion and deleat, except so far as they may be resched by the process of trial and judgment in the Federal Courts. In that view, however, no man in these States is yet legally disfranchised, and no right of property in slaves has been directed either by proclamation or war. If the law of war has not unsettled their relations and brought them into our power, but lest all their constitutional rights unipaired, it has equally falled to disturb their property in slaves, which is one of them. If the President now can insist on the surrender of that institution, it is on the same ground only on which he or Congress might insist on negro suffrage or anything else, and that is, as Judge KELLY well remarks-because they are now at our mercy, and can only receive back such privileges, as we may accord to them, as a matter of grace. All this is well understood by the copperheads and rabels, if it is not by the Commercial and its readers, and therefore it is that they are so united and so camorous in the support of what they understand to be the President's policy, in precisely as they were. "MUST BE PUT DOWN." The old slave drivers cannot forget their plantation manners, and the moment of an opening for a return to power, they feel an resistable impulse to crack their plantatio whip. Thus the Richmond White whose edit is a candidate for Congress, makes a furious as sault upon the North, charges it with incendiar ism and with formenting strife, and adds :

"These formentors of continued strife may be few, but they are dangerous and should be put down. The work of subduling the rebellion is not thoroughly done till these rebels against the peace and welfare of the country are crushed and quieted." And so, every man in the North who is not eady to bow the knee, as of old, to the majesty of the South, must be put down! This is the sound of the slave-drivers' whip, as it used to to heard in Congress. Slavory was the very ssence of intolerance, and its devotees are to this hour as bigoted and proscriptive as ever. They cannot bear discussion, nor tolerate free speech. The man who opposes them must be put down." It is not enough to outvote him, as must be crushed out. The gag rule, adopted n Congress when Anti-Slavery petitions first egan to pour in, was one of the earliest manistations of this spirit, and it was naturally followed by ransacking the malis under federal authority, and by all possible attempts to suppress free speech and free press. From that hour to this, every Southern politician has been laim'cal to anything like a free discussion of Southern institutions. To open the doors of Congress to these fel lows is simply to bring back the reign of terror hat prevailed in past years, under their sway, bready we hear them clamoring that the Radieal Republicans of the North must be "put getting back into power, and smack their lips with gusto over the anticipated revenge upon white gates over the anticipated revenge upon their enemies.

A few months ago the country was decided and emphatic in its demands that such traitors as this editor of the Whig should be punished. lines then a more kindly spirit has prevailed t ward them; many o fthem have been pardoned; and now we are trying the experiment of restor-ing them all their ancient privilege, and are waiting to see what will be the effect of Arusting them implicitly and treating them magnant mously. Well, the result is seen in such extracts as this from the Whige The north is to be ! put down !" The old elaveholders! rule is to be relabilance. Instead of traitors being punished, it is the level men of the country, who are to b treated as criminals. All that we have to do, to bring back the good old times when Bully Brooks was cock of the walk, is to open the loors of Congress when the editor of the Richmond Whig applies for admission, and bag him and his friends to take the Government out of our unworthy hands. If we are to be topu own," let us anticipate our irretrievable fate and place our necks voluntarily under their feet.

If their hands are foul with the slaughter of our hethren at Libbey, Held Islo of Audersonville, what need secared I is our place to be alayed, and theirs to rule over us.

If the folly of trusting the political power of the South exclusively to rebels was not before the South excusavely to rebels was not before apparent, it must begin to be so now. Every day's experience contributes something to confirm us in the faith of the Pennsylvania Republican platform, "that the mild and generous iican platorius, suas sao suito and generous method of re-construction offered by the Frest-dent to the people-lately in rebellion, has not been accepted in the spirit of honest loyalty and gratitude, but with such evidence of defiance and hestility as to impel us to the conviction that they cannot be safely intrusted with the political ri. which they for telled by their treason."

This is not true, We have not discussed directly, this subject at all, whatever may be our opinions, which we shall be ready to give at large, whenever we shall find a little leisure for that purpose.

As the Commercial is, however, obvious y in want of information in regard to the Harrisburg Resolutions, we have no objection to furnish it when asked for We refer it therefore to the third of the series already quoted by us-where it s asserted that the rebel States "cannot be safely intrusted with the political rights they have forfeited by their treason, until they have proved their acceptance of the results of the war by incorporating them in Constitutional provisions, and securing to all men within their borders their inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of hap-Will this do? Will the Commercial inform us if this was not intended to mean that they should voted THE Commercial says that "the Gazette maintains that the rebel leaders can pro-perly be treated only as prisoners of war." We said no such thing. All that we remarked was that it was idle to talk of pun-proper after having been compelled to acknowledge their belligerency. It asserts, moreover, that we discourage confidence in the President. This is not true either. We have no idea that the President is by any means as unworthy of trust as the Commercial would represent him. It is the Commercial, and not the President that we have been cautioning the people to distruct. If that caper speaks his mind—as it professes to lo-it will ruin him in the estimation of everybody that is loyal-neither it nor the Post, however, are to be considered as authority upon such questions as these.
