The Federil party fifty years ago opposed a popular war ad disappeared. The Democratic party opposed a vital and inevitable and glorious war, and the a vital and increases and giorions war, and it is perishing before our eyes. In the State of New Tork it professes to hope for a little longer life; but it is the profession of despair. No well informed man believes for an instant in the recovery of so exhausted and worthings a frame and its own hope is based upon the fact that is has formally recented, eaten its own words, and confessed its own disgrace and defeat. It is only right that, the rabellion having been defeated, its great ally should be annihilated; and the character of the American people is shown as proudly in their steady union for the overthrow The Boston Transcript says: A corresponding of a false party as it was in the destruction of a dent sends us the following interesting remini scence:

"John Adams sought the hand of the daughter of the Rev. Mr. Smith, of Weymouth, and Miss Abigail was pleased to accept the proposal of Mr. Adams, much to the chagrin of the parson, the objection being that Mr. Adams was a man of humble origin and moderate ability, and could never aspire to anything more than the position of an humble village lawyer. His visits to her home were frequent and prolonged, but no hospitalities were tendered by the Rev. Smith, either to Adams or his nag; for while Abigail only had watthful care over him, his 'bay' passed the wears hours of night in feeling on the hitching four. Ohio, Iowa, and Indiana are the States that have thus far voted, and, like patriot soldiers when the roll is called, they answer one after another to the Union call, and even louiler than last year, "Here! here!" Even New Jersey, hitherto the perfect type of a modern Democratic State, begins to blush that she has so long fal-tered in the good race; and in the total route of the Chicago platform party at Newark gives hopes that she will not much longer be chained o the corpse of slavery or modern Democracy. The Democratic leaders are receiving the severest lesson of their lives. They thought they could trife with the national safety, and the propied on not forget it. They thought they could propose and thwart a war for national life, and when the indonitable patience and power of the people conquered, could turn round, throw up their hats, shout victory, declare that they had been heart and had in the war, and so bambooth the people conquered, could turn round, throw up their hats, shout victory, declare that they had been heart and had in the war, and so bambooth the people they had done their best to run. Do they suppose the people have returned from whipping rebels in the field to be fooled by Copperheads on a platform! Do they impose the people have returned from whipping rebels in the field to be fooled by Copperheads on a platform! They tried to thide the whole Chicago platform behind a General! They might remember the cyperiment of last year. They tried to hide the whole Chicago platform behind a General! They might remember the cyperiment of last year. They tried to contemptionally rejected.

The Democratic party was opposed to the war. Individual Democratic plarty was apposed to the war. Individual Democratic plarty was a man of a remember by the party was ruled by Horatio Sogmour, Vallandig. The Democratic leaders are receiving the sepost.
"Now Ablgail had a sister whose name was "Now Ablgail had a sister whose name was the sister and it

The Democratic partial forms and the Individual Democrats, indeed, boldly broke with their party to go with their country; but the party was ruled by Horatio Seymour, Vailandigham, the Woods, and men in aympathy with them. Its votes in Congress, its oratiors, its rational convention pronounced against the war. near of Lynn, was greater during the month of september than it ever has been before for a corresponding length of time. The sains of goods amounted to one million and four hundred thousand dollars. The Lynn Belletin remarks thousand dollars. The Lyan Belletin remarks that "it is not reasonable to expect that the ensuing two months will show as brisk a business as the past two have done. The manufacturers are many of them changing from thick to thin work, and as buyers have very generally secured their winter stocks, a brief full may be expected. There is still, however, a demand for all the was not only detroyed at the despised, and now the same old leaders ask the confidence of the people.

This year it makes a feeble show of supporting the President. We say feeble, because although in the State of New York it declares for him undescruedly, and like a despersic gameeter John Van Burker calls hun his candidate for the succession we in the attention state. Vas Burns calls hun his candidate for the succession, yet in the other States the support was conditional, and in New York it is offered by Burns, and his most malignant traducers of last year. It is here only a transparent trick to come into power.

But the times are too sections for tricks. Every voter asks himself what will these men do if they come into power. He finds the answer in John Van Buren's speech. That gentieman throws the blame of the war upon the North, upon the loyal States. He shows the same old truckling strilling to the last relief chiefs that originally brought as into trouble. But Mr. Van Buren and all his associates upon the Chicago platform will learn that the plautation whip has lost its terrors. nere is still, however, a demand for all mode that can be made, and prices are firm. If the fate of the party which opposed the war of 1813 has not instructed them, the elections of this saturum will teach thom that the people of this country will not trust a party which played into the bands of the national energy, until it has changed bot merely its professions, but the leaders who have inspired universal contempt and distrust.—Harpers Weekly. Griffin. Ga., Ortober 11th, has this story:

"One, John M. Ingram, a resident of Carveta county, a score of miles from Griffin, formerly owned a young and intelligent quadroon. There existed a mutual situethment between her and the family, and she was given what, under the system of slavery was the post of honor in the household, that of waitress, Occasionally isgram would return home more or leas intorteated, at which time he would require her to brush the tites away and fan him white he slept. Recently he returned slightly under the influence of liquor, and the usual programme transpired, but after he head fallen ssleep, the girl, for some urgent purpose, left the ewom for amoment. During the period lagram wose. Discovering her absence hecalied, and on her approach he felled her to the foor with a blow. At this unusual procedure she would tell the Yankeeson him. approach he felled her to the hoor with a blow. At this unusual procedure she remarked that it he persisted by his abuse she would tell the Yankees on him.

"Ingram flow into a rare, and instantly locking her in the room, stripped every ahred of clothing from her body, and obtained a long rope, with one end of which he tied firmly her wrists to gether behind her back. Putting the other end of the rope through a hook in the joist above (which thus became a pulley), he drew her arms up as fan as possible without dislocating them from their suckets. The dwelling was one and a half stories, the second floor being laid loosely, and the ceiling of the story not being plastered. His next step was to go up stairs, and remove, immediately over her, a few plasks from the second floor, after which he self fire to some "light wood"—a kind of pitchy pine wood, used in this region for torches and kindlind—and, estanding directly over her, let the secthing, reshous drippings, all ablaze like burning tar, fail through the aperture he had made, on to the poor crature's back, neck, head and 'shoulders. Her body was drawn by the rope into a stooping posture, the head inclined forward and the vertebra wholly exposed. Wherever the flery substance came in contant with the cuticle, the flesh was burned to a crisp. Her screams attracted his wife and all the plantation negroes. No entresty availed while his passion rubed. To continue his work, he descended the stairway and applied the torch to her feet, legs and other parts not reached from above.

"The excitement had entirely sobored him. Then he threatened to nunder her butright, but by this tithe his wife, pale and fainting with fatigue and fright, and run a furlong after neighbors, among whom had come a sister of this faundish wretch. She induced him to desist. After weeks of lingering betwoen life and death, by good care and modical kill, infractions as it may seem, his victim began to recover."

grace, but subject to taxes and tithes, like all merchantable matter. The rule of discrimination is said to be a golden or greenback rule, with as many sides as a board rule—in favor of a few of the wealthiest and worst neles extant. The process is simple, but the programme embraces the following results as inseritable: A restoration of a united South against a deceived and divided North. A hasty reconstruction, with a reorganization of the Democratic party, based upon a recognition of the Confederate wardebt, indemnity for loss of property in alsves, or a repudiation of the Federal wardebt, and the election of Andrew Johnson President next time, "notems sofers."

We were, in the beginning of this war, in Rabaza Territory, and have watched its closs with some solicitude, lest our victories should all turn to sabes. We had great confidence in Andrew Johnson's honest inflexibility of purpose; but he has been long a oupil to the proslavery teachings of the South, and a Democrat, voting for the Kanasa Nebraska bill of aboultations, and even for Breckinridge, for President. The pardoning process will not only restore the South, but; recuperate the slave oligarchy, and recent rebellion will soon control this Government.

recent rebellion will soon control this Government.

There is nothing so popular within the precincts of the pardoning power as a hearty and volument denunciation of the Radicals, Thad. Stevens, Charles Summer and the Abolitionists. The President's power vested and assumed, this the vast amount of patronage at his disposal, has paralyzed all the politicians of the country, neutralized the newspaper press, so that the poople are ignorant, really, of what is going on in Washington. The pardoning process is not confined to rebels; but is extended to all offenders, forgers, murderors, robbers, and public defaulters. The preamble to the Constitution and the self-evident truths contained in the Declaration of Independence are ignored. A hasty reconstruction and the election of Andrew Johnson are the Alpha and Omega of this administration—Independent.
