FRANCE IN MEXICO. The report of the London Timer that Mr. BEWARD had addressed a menacing note to the French Government, warning it against sending any further troops to Mexico, is generally discredited in England, the wish probably being father to the thought. The report is likely to be an exaggeration, if not absolutely untrue; and yet we should be glad to chronicle it as true.

A warrwith France or any other Eu the mere possibility that it may follow the atterance on our part of a firm declaration Against further interference by France in Mexican affairs, should not deter us from uttering it. No fact is plainer than that this nation cannot safely tolerate the further dominion of France in Mexico; and it is therefore our duty to make NAPOLEON acquainted with that fact. Even while the ellion was at its height, the lowerhouse on denouncing the French occupation in exico; and now that we have the rebelon off our hands we cannot doubt that ongress will repeat that denunciation more emphasis. In this the House of Representatives has spoken and will speak the undivided sentiment of the country. Upon that subject, if upon no other, the people are a unit. purse upon the part of our government, s a cause of war, but we do not believe he ill. He is much more likely to take us at word and abandon his Mexican advenre. It was undertaken when he thought rebellion would succeed, and the failure of Southern leaders to build up an emthre contiguous to his has spoiled the heme entirely. ... He, will doubtless be glad of a good opportunity to get out of it; and irm missive from Mr. SEWARD WIII serve to sharpen his option in discovering not, it is still the du y of the government to come to a plain understanding with France, and assure her of the perfect unanmity of the people of this nation in the trine in all its length and breadth.

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION. The "Commission" proposed by Earl RUSSELL in his correspondence with Mr. ADAMS was ποι, it seems, for the purpose of settling the claims growing out of the piracies of the Alabama and Shenandoah, but such other claims as may be mutually agreed upon, if the London Times is an authority in the matter. It says:

"In order to guard against any misuuderstanding, we are requested to restate that the proposal of Earl Russell to the American Government was conveyed in the following words: 'Her Majesty's Governmentare ready to consent to the appointment of a commission to which shall be referred all claims arising during the late civil war of a commission to which shall be referred all claims arising during the hate civil war which the two Powers shall agree to refer to the Commissioners. These concluding words limi, the subject of reference, since it would be isconsistent with the position taken up by Her Majesty's Government, and with the arguments which induced it to decline arbitration; to permit the claims for losses by the Alabama and other vessels of the same character to be brought before a commission for decision. It must be understood, therefore, that if any such commission were agreed on, these cases this view of it; and if the Times is correct,

The article was written for neryly to certain assertions made in the Reading Delily Rull-road, cord, characterizing the scredent as "whole-sale slanghter," and charging the editor of the Express with having, in a former article, attempted to "whitewash" this great calcamity. The editor of the Express them made a second lavestigation, and gives the facts arrived at as follows:

1. It is not true that the section was caused by "the sucof minerable old cars." No. "1920," the broken car, was a new and substantial one, built, in modern style, with two brucks, and have been an impossible for the end of the rate to serice up and pierce the bottom of the car. This fact disposes of the sasertion from another quarter, that they was to the broken true was roughly and the broken true was continued as a serice of the sasertion from another quarter, that they was to the broken true was roughly and the series of the sasertion from another quarter, that they was to the broken true was roughly and the series of the sasertion from another quarter, that they was to the broken true was roughly and the series of the sasertion from another quarter, that they was to the broken true was roughly continued to the series of the sasertion from another quarter, that they are not the original propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that they are not the original propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that they are not the original propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that they are not the original propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that the second of the sasertion from another quarter, that the propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that the propers of the sasertion from another quarter, that the propers of the sasertion

3. The fact that two locomotives were attached to the train access to be taken as prima facts ovidence of reckiessuess, in connection with the assertion that it "contained thousands of human beings." Now, the circumstances of both trains (the Eric Express and the Day Express) being consolidated, and running on the schedule of the latter, is as we have said before, an evidence of the precaution of good management. The Eric Express having reached Harrisburg so far behind time as to render it unsafe to ran it so close on the Day Express' schedule, the Eric schedule was amunified. Look at the probable consequence had, this precaution not been taken. The general rule is to run trains under such extensionates ten minutes apart. In this case, the Eric train would have left Landsville ten minutes after the Day Express. In the confusion of such an accident happening the front train, it is highly improbable that the one following could have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have been signalled in time to hold up, but would have hold parter." Those passengers, therefore, in the four restricts, have cause to thack God that Mr. Franciscus' policy and not Capt. Rauch's was adopted in running these trains.
