FOR SALE.—

A FARM of 127 acres within 4 miles of Larimer's Station, on the Penna. Railroad. The improvements are a house 30x30 feet, and barn, young apple orchard; fencing good; 100 acres cleared; the balance well timbered.

Also, a tract of LAND adjoining the Borough of Elizabeth, containing 18 acres, well adapted for gardening. The soil is the very best of river bottom, and is in a high state of cultivation.

Also, Alum Bank, a very valuable tract of mineral and agricultural land, containing forty acres, situated at the eastern terminus of Blairsville and bounded on the south by Conemaugh River. Upon this tract there are three strata of Iron ore. According to Professor Green's report the second and principal strata of ore is of good quality, highly magnetic, and will yield thirty-three per cent. of iron. He says in respect to quantity this strata will yield 20,000 tons to the acre of native ore, and reducing this crude mass to an item of dollars and cents, reckoning the value of ore at $5 per ton, this strata would then produce one hundred thousand dollars. In addition to this we have twenty-five acres of coal—pits opened and in successful operation at present time. This property is worthy the attention of capitalists. The investment would be sure and safe. Specimens of ore can be seen at my office.

Also, A No. 1 stock and grain farm, containing 600 acres, situate in Cherry Hill Township, Indiana county, Pa., near the village of Greenville. The improvements are a two-story frame house, the largest and best barn in the country; fencing generally good; 250 acres cleared; the remainder well timbered. The land is good, large meadows which produce three crops of hay. It is very convenient to churches, schools, mills, stores, &c., &c. This property will be sold very cheap and on easy terms.

Also, a Farm of 113 acres, in Unity township, Westmoreland county, Pa., will be sold cheap.

Also, the best farm on the Monongahela River about one mile from McKeesport, Allegheny Co., Pa., containing about 140 acres. The improvements are a frame house and kitchen, brick and wagon shed, corn crib, outbuildings, a large apple orchard of between 200 and 300 trees in bearing order, 9 peach trees and 160 pear trees.

Also, a Lot in Fair Haven, Elizabeth Township, Allegheny Co., Pa., containing about 150 acres, improvements are a large frame house, barn and other outbuildings. The improvements are a large brick cooling house, with kilns well finished, coal on the premises, and surrounded by ornamental trees, &c. No. 1 marks with many other buildings, good orchard of grapes of the very best White Oak timber. In the best quality of limestone land, and is all under high state of cultivation.

For further particulars, enquire of

A GOOD SIGN.

The most difficult thing to be done in the south is the reorganization of labor. Both planters and freedmen are to be educated into it, and their notions were all wrong at the start. The success of free labor has been beyond reasonable expectations, although the war did not end soon enough for planting the usual breadth of ground in the spring. Another year will bring about a great improvement in this respect. The cases of marked success with free labor this year are neither few nor small, and their publication will be worth volumes of argument on the subject. Some of the most successful planters this year have been northern men, and there will be thousands of such scattered over the south hereafter. A practical radical, (and practicals are generally practical) Maj. Gen. L. Stearns, of Massachusetts, has written a letter to Gen. Cabell of Tennessee, giving him some good advice about the treatment of the freedmen, and illustrating it by his own example. Major Stearns hired two cotton farms in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, in March, 1863, and employed some eighty freedmen, at wages of $15 to $30 per month and rations. They planted 500 acres of cotton, besides corn and other grain, and the crop was large and profitable. Major Stearns alludes to a friend who did still better on an adjoining plantation, and on neither was there any difficulty in securing regular and reasonable work from the negroes. All were satisfied and happy. The Major does not say how much money he made, but the fact that he intends to hold and work the farm another year is evidence that it paid. The old planters will either learn from such experience or they will sell out and leave the business to wiser men, and the agriculture of the South will certainly thrive under free labor as it never would have done with slavery.

The industrial and political prospect is good on the whole, and no man with a healthy mind and a patriotic heart can listen patiently to the croakers. There is everything to be done, it is true, to give right direction to affairs, and to perfect the national renovation so well begun; but the men and the means, the courage and the enterprise, are not wanting, and happy are they who comprehend the great opportunities of the time, and have the wisdom to work with events.

A LITTLE FLURRY.

Something of a sensation has been produced in England and possibly in France, by a rumor set in circulation by a New York correspondent of the London Times, that Mr. Seward had sent an ultimatum to the Emperor Napoleon, on the Mexican question. It was stated by the correspondent that the Government of the United States had notified the Emperor that the troops now organizing in Egypt for the aid of Maximilian would not be permitted to land in Mexico. According to the same authority it was further intimated to Napoleon that any further intervention his part with Mexican affairs might create a rupture between the two governments. Of course these statements produced a sensation and a panic in the money market. The accuracy of the rumors, however, were generally discredited by the London papers, and the Star declared itself "in a position to give to its readers the most authoritative assurance that no such dispatch was written or forwarded." This declaration had a calming effect on the perturbed sensibilities of Mrs. Britannia, and she again sipped her porter and ate her steak with her accustomed relish.

The Altoona Railroad Larceny—Nearly A Whole Family Convicted.

A most remarkable case of larceny was on trial in Hollidaysburg last week, which resulted in the conviction of nearly a whole family. The victim of the larceny was the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, as the car's lay at Altoona, the party having fitted up a key to unlock the freight cars. The father and head of the family is John J. Burkholder, who is from fifty to fifty-five years old. He resides near Altoona. He has two or three married daughters and as many single, all of whom were engaged in the alleged larceny. The goods were taken and secreted at the diff-rent houses, occupied by the different parties, and found in hay mows, cow cribs, cellars, garrets, chests, boxes and trunks. Among the goods were boots, shoes, calicoes, muslins, delaines, flannels, hooped and balmoral skirts, pins, needles, tapes, thread, spool cottons, soaps, &c., &c., &c. Many of the articles were in large quantities.

The trial consumed three days of the Court, while several lawyers were engaged on both sides. Many witnesses were examined pro and con.

The evidence showed that parties connected with Burkholder's family had taken goods from cars of the Pennsylvania railroad time and time again, the parties picking out what goods suited them, with the utmost coolness. Quantities of goods were brought into Court and identified by their owners. Some eighteen or twenty thousand dollars' worth of goods were thus stolen and their owners compensated by the railroad company. The parties were convicted, but have not yet been sentenced.

Dr. Livingston's New Expedition.

The Bombay Times of September 15, says:

Among the passengers from England who arrived in the steamer Benares on the 11th inst., was Dr. Livingstone, the celebrated African traveller. The doctor is about to engage in another exploring expedition into the interior of Africa, and has come to Bombay for the purpose of making some preliminary preparations.

The scene of his explorations will be that tract of territory extending between the region which he has already explored and that discovered by Captain Speake. He will commence his travels by following the course of the river Rovuma, which is in about ten degrees south latitude—towards the north to Lake Nyassa, and then towards the south to the Tenganyika. Dr. Livingstone has already explored the Rovuma for about one hundred and fifty miles, but from that point towards the west the country is totally unknown.

The object of the doctor's expedition is partly to open up the country for the purposes of commerce, and partly to carry out the wishes of the Geographical Society of London, by exploring the water-shed of Zambesi and the district visited by Captain Speke. The latter object possesses great interest in the estimation of the geographers at home, and they are desirous of ascertaining whether the lakes discovered by Speke, Grant and Baker, are not supplied by water flowing still further from the south than from any sources yet discovered.

ELECTION IN NEW MEXICO.—In former years the Democrats used to carry all the elections in the territories; but all that is greatly changed now. In the recent election in New Mexico, Col. Chaves, the Republican candidate for delegate to Congress, received 8,511 votes, against 6,180 for for Manuel Peres, his Democratic competitor, who was late delegate. In 1863 Peres had 806 majority. The largeness of this vote shows that New Mexico has already quite a large population.

and [illegible] ... is said to not only [illegible] instructed him in European languages, but also to have given his mind a bent towards European politics. He completed his studies at the University of Cambridge, which he was elected to represent in Parliament, in the Tory interest, in 1811, and continued to represent for twenty years. Since then he represented Tiverton.

He lost his father and mother when in his nineteenth year, and this early independence probably helped to form his character. His first cabinet appointment was in 1809, to the Secretaryship of War; he held this office for nineteen years—until 1828. In 1819 an attempt was made by a Lieutenant Davis to assassinate him; he was wounded, but not seriously. While he was a member of the administration, and the Secretary at War, some of the most arbitrary and unlawful acts which an English government has ventured upon in modern times, were enforced, amongst them the suspension of the habeas corpus, the establishment of a spy system to ferret out malcontents, &c.
