M. Scila. Minister of Finance, to be not less than three hundred and eighty millions, for the current year. You will not be surprised when I till you that the knowledge of this state of affairs has greatly shaken Italian credit, on the European continent; and that unless something be done speedily and effectually to remove this unfavorable imprersion produced, a rulmons financial crists will be added to the other difficulties, so, lal, political and religious, with which this rising nation has to contend. My letters from financial triends in Paris represent the effect produced at that great centre of European activity to be such as scriouly to shake confidence in the ultimate encess of the Italian cause, and earnessly request me to inform them whether the views taken of the condition of the excehoguer is qually desponding on the spot. New York, New 6.—A World's disjectch says:
There is the highest authority for stating that the Cabinet has had under consideration for several days the trial of Jeff. Davis, and are divided as to the course to purso. The President is opposed to trial by a Military Commission, while several members favor this madulation, while several members favor this madulation. The Fenlans in the District of Columbia mumbering about two thousand, have been actively preparing for a movement on foot, having purpoparing for a movement on foot and are a state proof the Turis Embassy called on the Secretary of State, who accompanied them to be divided as to the course to pursue. The President is opposed to trial by a Military Commispreparing for a movement on foot, having purchased uniforms, arms, &c. Vistorlay a notice appeared in the public press signal "Vigilance Committee," cautioning the brotherhood against further action in the auticipated movement, and the they know more and bear further troop dis-discontent, as is always certain to be the case whenever the imposition of new taxes forms the unpleasant topic of public discussion, yet the matter is by no means viewed in a hopeful light. The main polity perhaps to be kept in virw in ownsidering the financial difficulties of Italy is, that the worst that can happen from them is that they may compel at last a large reduction in the army. Such a measure, indeed, would be arre to put an e.d. to their schema, and the step itself is one which would not be without approbation in some quarters, both at home and abroad. But I doubt whether the vast majority of the most influential priviou of the ration be not resolutily opposed to a reduction of its military or payal force, on the ground that such an act would be a tacit relinquishment of its decreas objects and sympathies and an acceptance of the statu quo as a definite and almost field settlement. It is a knowledge of the strength of this feeling which is alarming the financial world of Europe with respect to Italy, and indivining the builef that it may involve the finances of the country in irretirevable confusion. iii they know more and Pear Tarine.

yield to circumstances and reduce their expenditure in almost the only way possible, viz: by pide cirg their armaments, what else but bankrup; can be the consequence! The stringle between the two sitematives of reduced armament or increased taxation is no doubt trying and severe. But the Govern ment has not hesitated to lay it plainty before the people. M. Sella, while he summaries his alarming deficit, does not, abring from pointing out one way at least of meeting a targe portion of it. He projects to re-ense, an old, but unpopular tax upon il our, called the millistone tax, to be levide upon all wheat taken to be grourd. Reckoning the entire wheat production of the country at something more than thirty-two millions of French hectolitres (measuring very nearly 3 bushels), and the absolute consumition, after deducting one-lift for seed and adding about three millions of necessor of supportation, at thrivy millions of heccolitres. M. Sella arrives at the conclusion that each hectolitre of wheat must be taxed 3) frs. in order to produce him one handred millions of revenue. The hectolitre of wheat represents about seventy five kilogrammes, or some thirty-two cannexs of bread, the tax or which, at the rate above indicated, would be just above furthits of a cent. Will italy consent to pay this kesh burden in order to keep her army? I believe she will, and that the result of the decitions will be le favor of fresh imports rather than of reduction of the eather forces or abandor ment of the national cause.
