Many of the candidates of the latter are, it is true, on this account, placed in a position to compete a second time with those of the former. But the Liberals are in almost every instance already at the head of the poll; and the Clerical party has done its best, while the national party (to its

of the poli; and the Clerical party has also beat, while the national party (to its shame be it spoken) has not yet half come forward. If the latter, therefore, does but perform its duty ever so moderately this day, there can be no apprehension of the former rosult being reversed, while there is every chance of its being maintained and strengthened. Also, in the first vote there was much division among the Liberals themselves, and very frequently two candidates; one moderate the other advanced, in this field. Now, whenever a Liberal themselves, and very frequently two candidates; one moderate the other advanced, in this field. Now, whenever a Liberal themselves, and true frequently two candidates; one moderate the other advanced, in this field. Now, whenever a Liberal that we will be a second time with a Reactionist, he will command the united votes of the whole national party. In the southern provinces, in Kaples and Sirly, the case is somewhat different, and greater obscurity prevails, and is likely to prevail for some time to come. There an immense number of entirely new and untired invitualities have been brought forward whose real opinions are scarcey known, and will probably remain so until dislocated by their acts in the Chamber. It is even asserted that much deception has been practised in this respect by the Reactionary party upon the ignorant and mendenated constituencies of the south, and that many serior 'black' candidate have passed themselves off for "reds," or some other shade of Liberals. At all events, the final result of the southern elections remains more doubtind than elsewere, thought not sufficiently so to affect the genneral character of the represention of the country. That may now, I think, be confidently defined to consist of a considerable augmentation of advanced Liberalism, with a slight add miture of the Reactionary element increasing as it goes southward. But a large Liberal majority, of one shade or another, is, Tathink, alteraly defined on the country. It is to be regretaed, per ot life and death, then the country gladly re-ceived you. Thank God you nobly redeemed ceived you. Thank God you nobly redeemed all you promised."

"Like all other men, jrou have your deathles in your own hands, and if you continue to conduct younceives beceafter as you have in this struggle, you will have all the rights you ask for, all the rights that belong to human beings. I can only say again that I thank you; I thank you from my heart for all that you have done for your country, and I know the country will hold you in grateful remembrance. "I cannot close without saying that there is at the head of the National Government a great man, who is able and determined to deal justly with all. I know that with his approval, no State that was in rebellion will be silowed to return to the benefits of the Urion, without having first a constitutional compact which will prevent alwery in this land for all time to come, which will preserbe no distinction of color on the wincess stand and in the jury box, and which will protect the tomes sun the domestic relations of all men and all women."

The colling was commenced in 1846 and completed in 1848. The cost of the ground and building together was $250,000. The interior was decorated in the most costly manner, and oranmented with various appropriate designs in fancy woodwork. It could accommodate about two thousand persons, and was considered to be one of the finest Ediscopal church edifices in the city. It was build by the efforts of Rev. Dr. Tyng, formerly pastor of St. George's Chapel, in Beekman street. It contained a very large and dues or gan, with about 3,000 steps, which cost upwards of $10,000.

Among many other evidences of a desire on both sides to increase the Intercourse between Italy and the United States may be mentioned the project, emanating from Americans, of the establishment of a regular formleptity series of stamers between New York and Geneal or Leghorn, and of a weekly one to the Brazis. Rev. Dr. Tyng was present while the fire was reging, and appeared to be greatly affected by the destruction of the edifice, which had been reared by his efforts, and in which he took n just pride.

Nothing of value was saved from the church. The edifice and furniture were insured for $70,000 in the following companies: Etna, Washington, Equitable, Greenwich, Howard, Knickerbocker, Republic and American.

Nothing but the walls and towers now re main. They are strongly built, and there appears to be no danger of their failing. "Hon. Preston King, Collector of the Port of New York, whose nervous system has been seriously deranged for nearly three weeks, left his room at the Astor House on Monday morning at 7 o'clock; remarking that a walk before breakfast would do him good. All day Monday no word of his whetrabouts reached his anxious friends, nor until twelve o'clock Tuesday could any tracor cline be obtained. Messrs. Terwillinger and Under, of the Custom House, then heard that a person was drowned the day before from a Hoboken ferry boat. Upon visiting the boat they ascertained that a man answering closely the description of Mr. King came from a West street car to the ferry-boat Soon after the boat left the dock, two children goleg to schoolgave the alarm, that they had seen a man jump overboard. The boat was stopped, but nothing could be seen. A hat left upon the deck was subsequently identified as belonging to Mr. King. The telect-master saw Mr. King step from the car, notleing him particularly from his great weight. He describes his person and dress with such exact accuracy as to leave neither doubt, nor shadow of doubt, as to his identity. Mr. King spoke to him, asked him how long before the boat would start, and what was the farc, and remarked that it was a fine moralng.
