HEALTH AND CLEANLINESS.

Dr. McCOOK has been represented as saying, in a public meeting convened to discuss the measures necessary to protect the city from cholera, that this city was the unhealthiest in the Union. In this the Doctor has been misunderstood. What he did say, and it is to this we ask special attention, was, that in the class of diseases that spring from uncleanliness, this city made a worse show in the tables of mortality than any other.

The weekly reports of interments in this city, as compared with those of other large cities, show Pittsburgh to be healthier than most, if not all of them, so that, on the whole, the city cannot justly be regarded in an unfavorable light as to healthiness; but in deaths from that class of diseases of which cholera is only one, which are not merely aggravated, but in many cases caused by filth, the city does not compare favorably with others.

It follows irresistibly tha: if the city with its streets, alleys, courts, and vacant lots were kept clean; if it were properly drained, and its atmosphere kept clear of the noisome stenches of cesspools and stagnant water, the city would be, by all odds, the healthiest in the Union. The one thing we need, then, to attain that desirable position, is to see that we are, as soon as may be, delivered from the omnipresent dominion of filth.

For the caus es which produce and aggravate the class of diseases referred to will produce the cholera, and as our weekly bills of mortality show that those causes are in daily and active operation, there is no problem in mathematics more capable of demonstration than that; if we continue in our present condition, the advent of cholera here, when the time comes for its development, is absolutely certain.

It behooves us, then, if we would avoid, as far as human precaution can do, the ravages of that pestilence, to remove the causes which are certain to produce them. If we cannot accomplish the whole of the needed work, we can at least do something towards it. We can have our streets and alleys cleaned, at once; and we can also set on foot a system of sewerage that will eventually deliver us from the foul odors that poison the atmosphere.

There is no one thing the two cities and boroughs need so much as a comprehensive system of sewerage that will reach into every street, alley and by-way. That is a matter that should at once be attended to. It will require time to elaborate it, and more time to enforce it and put it into effective operation; but it will never be done without being first begun; and this is a most fit time for beginning it.

In the meantime, clean the streets. As we write, the slow rain that is falling is turning the streets into pools of mud, and there is scarcely a crossing in the two cities which one can cross clean shod. It is mud, mud, everywhere; and the pedestrian as he gazes with rueful visage at mud inches deep all around him, inquires sadly what advantage there is in paved streets over clay roads, when the dirt is thus left to accumulate upon them. If, as now seems likely, the winter is to be an open one, we have but just entered upon a three or four months' seige of mud; and any one who can calmly contemplate wading through this dirty, greasy, slippery compound that coats the streets, during the entire winter, has more submissiveness than we can command. If the evil were unavoidable no one would complain; but it is not. It exists only through the negligence and apathy of the people, and they must wake up or take the consequences.

THROWING OFF THE MASK.

The pro slavery Governor of Louisiana, WELLS, intoxicated by the vote recently given to him by the rebel slaveholders of that State, has summoned the Legislature together in order to have a convention called to frame a new Constitution.

The present partially anti-slavery Constitution of Louisiana is only two years old; but the reactionists feel strong enough now to overthrow it, and it will be overthrown.

We have thus an illustration of what will be done in every Southern State, as soon as events will justify. When they are all re admitted into the Union, new conventions will be called, the ordinances repudiating, the rebel debt repealed, the laws and constitutional provisions giving equal rights to the freedmen annulled, and slavery will practically be re-established. There is no intention on the part of any of these State to keep faith with the government. They submit, now, to what they cannot help, but reserve to themselves the right to undo all they have done the moment the opportunity offers.

In a letter to a friend in New York, Mr. HENRY W. HILLIARD, of Alabama, (formerly a Whig member of Congress,) says:

"The attempt of a faction to force the Southern States to admit the blacks to political equality is too mischievous to enlist in its support any considerable number of the people of the North. The great boon of freedom has been conferred upon the slave. Let us observe what use he will make of it. We hope for the best. He stands a freeman, protected by equal laws. Let him develope his fitness for his new condition. The political institutions of this country were constructed for the white man. It would be rash to say that the freedman should never participate in the administration of the Government; but it would be madness to confer upon him at this time all the privileges enjoyed by the white man, without some qualification."

We beg Mr HILLIARD's pardon for doubting his word; but where are we to look for those "equal laws" with which he says the freeman is protected? Certainly not to Alabama; and we defy him to point us to a single Southern State in which the freeman is protected by equal laws. It is because he is still oppressed by the most unequal laws; because he has no fair chance to show what use he can make of his freedom; and because he has not the opportunity "to develope his fitness for his new condition," that the people of the North cry out against any policy that does not put an end to such injustice. All that is asked for the freedman is that he shall have a fair chance. Give him the protection of equal laws and sweep away the whole fabric of special codes intended to oppress and degrade him, and no one will complain. Let Mr. HILLIARD show his faith by his works and go before the Alabama legislature with a demand for what he professes has already been given; and when he has succeeded, he may be permitted to call the earnest friends of equal rights a "faction;" but until he can point to the "equal laws" he mistakenly boasts of, he will do well to take a hint that perhaps will be of service to him, that the less a pardoned rebel indulges in stigmatizing some of the best men in the nation as "factions" the more his modesty will be appreciated.

RELEASE OF THE PIRATES.

Our first reports from England stated that the pirates of the Shenandoah had been paroled; our latest advices say that they have been unconditionally liberated.

Piracy is one of the offences mentioned in the Ashburton treaty as among the great crimes upon which the principles of extradition should be rigidly enforced by both governments, and each bound itself to the other to deliver up all pirates, whenever found, to the government claiming them. Our Minister to England will doubtless demand the surrender of WADDELL and his crew as pirates; and Earl RUSSELL cannot plead with any success before the tribunal of nations that he has them not and therefore cannot deliver them; for he had them, and deliberately let them go, well knowing that their surrender would be claimed. Nations cannot take advantage of their own wrongs any more than individuals.

The New York papers are unanimous in condemning the action of the British government in this case, and we are certain the people of the country will be just as unanimous in backing up our government in resenting it. The London papers admit, what they cannot deny, that WADDELL and his crew were unquestionably guilty of piracy in wantonly destroying American vessels for months after the war was over: and no subterfuge can relieve the British government from the responsibility of permitting their escape.

CONSOLIDATION.

We publish in this morning's paper a communication from a very respectable citizen of Allegheny, arguing against the consolidation of these cities. It is proper that the public should have both sides of a question of such vital importance. For ourselves, we await with some interest a report from the committees representing the several corporations. If an equitable basis for consolidation can be agreed upon, and presented for ratification by the people, but little doubt can be entertained that it would be adopted by a large majority. Doubtless some of the objections urged by our correspondent will be met by the committee of conference. Meantime, we commend the article to a careful perusal by the people of Allegheny, for whom it seems principally intended.

THE RECONSTRUCTED VIRGINIANS.—The Richmond Times reports that at the tournament in Fredericksburg, on Wednesday, many of the sashes, horses, saddles, etc., were loaned by the United States officers stationed there, and that notwithstanding this kindness and civility on their part, the Committee of Arrangements passed a resolution excluding them from the ball given at night. The impudence of there reconstructed rebels is astounding, but not more so than the fatuity of there United States officers in supposing that they could win them to decency by showing them kindness.

From the New York Tribune.

THE NEW CONGRESS.

The XXXIXth Congress will convene at Washington on Monday, Dec. 4. In the Senate the Hon. Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, will take the chair as President pro tem, with Col. J. W. Forney, of Pennsylvania, as Secretary. The majority of the Unionists is so heavy that it can in no case be overcome except by division; the only Opposition Senators entitled to take seats without inquiry being Messrs. Wright and Stockton of New Jersey, Buckalew of Pennsylvania, Riddle and Saulsbury of Delaware Davis and Powell of Kentucky, R. Johnson of Maryland, Hendricks of Indiana, McDougall of California, and Nesmith of Oregon—11 in all, to 36 Unionists. If every State lately in rebellion were to have Senators present at the hour of opening the Session, (as several of them will not,) and if each were to claim and hold his seat, there would still be a Unionist majority.

As to the House, the case is but little different. The Representatives who will take seats of course are politically divided as follows:

States.	Union.	Dem.
Maine	5	—
N. Hampshire	3	—
Massachusetts	10	—
Rhode Island	2	—
Connecticut	4	—
Vermont	3	—
New York	30	11
New Jersey	5	2
Pennsylvania	16	5
Delaware	—	1
Maryland	3	2
West Virginia	3	—
Kansas	1	—
Ohio	14	5
Indiana	11	3
Illinois	6	—
Wisconsin	3	1
Minnesota	2	—
Iowa	6	—
Missouri	3	1
Nevada	1	—
California	3	—
Oregon	1	—
Total	144	40

Unionists.....144 Democrats, 40

The States whose "reconstruction" has not yet been recognized and ratified by Congress are entitled, when fully reorganized and recognized, to send Representatives as follows:

Virginia	8	Tennessee	8
North Carolina	7	Arkansas	3
South Carolina	5	Louisiana	4
Georgia	7	Texas	4
Alabama	8	Florida	1
Mississippi	5	Total	55

Were all these admitted at the outset, without demur or scrutiny, they would not all affiliate with the Opposition, and, even if they did, their combined strength would fall far short of a majority. Their candidate for Speaker would fall fully forty votes behind, notwithstanding that sickness will prevent the attendance of several Unionists.

But the Members from the States lately in revolt can not take their seats at the outset, so as to vote for Speaker and Clerk. Not even such devoted and unwavering Unionists as Horace Maynard, representing a district that, though temporarily overborne by rebel bayonets, never faltered in nor concealed its devotion to the Union, will be admitted without preliminary investigation and scrutiny. Our Copperheads never peeped when the last Congress refused to count the electoral votes of Tennessee, Arkansas, and Louisiana for Lincoln, because those States were "not in their proper relations to the Union" when they voted; and the same reason will now prescribe an inquiry and report by a Committee, before the Representatives can be admitted to seats.

The recognition of a State which has been for years in open and deadly hostility to the Union, as once more entitled to share in the Government of that Union by sending Members to Congress, is a very grave act. No mere Clerk dare presume so far. But each House, being first duly constituted, will proceed to take up the claim of all persons presenting credentials from States lately in rebellion, and will act thereon as the Constitution and laws shall be found to prescribe. There is no hurry.

The political views of many of the above Senators and Representatives of the seceded States are not sufficiently known to classify them with any degree of certainty. The Senators of Louisiana were elected as Union men, but we believe their sympathies are now with the Democratic party. The Senators of Alabama were elected as Union men, but we do not know whether they still adhere to the party.

On Sunday night the 12th, the store of West Fryer, in Finleyville, Washington county, was robbed of goods to the amount of two hundred dollars. The robbers were detected, and proved to be two boys—one white and the other black. They confessed to a series of robberies and arson during the last winter. They have been committed to jail for trial.
