If it is true that God made all men equal the resh of color can take his stand upon that law which is above every law and claim at our hands immunity from the disabling and degrading distinction which has in most of the States been set up between him and his white fellow countrymen. There would be just as much sense in debarring a man from the ballot box because he had red hair as bécause he had a dark skin. The thing is so utterly indefensible that no man pretends to justify the disfranchisement of colored men upon any ground higher than a chronic prejudice which had its origin in slavery. To say that this is the white man's country is an assumption as foolish as it is arrogant. To say it is the red man's country would be nearer the truth, for he had a prior claim; but as it pleased God to bring white men and black men here, and to suffer the red men to melt away in their presence, it belongs for might we set up an exclusive claim to the Redeemer of men as to this great inheritance which he has bestowed upon us. We are bound to respect honest prejudices when they do no violence to the rights of others, nor impinge upon the law o

THE CREDIT, SYSTEM.

During the war, the merchants and manufacturers of the country wisely adopted the rule of selling for cash or on short time: and prudently abstained from the risks the war; therefore, found them all snug and faut, and the sudden fall in values which and laut, and the sudden fall in values which attended the collapse in gold did not affect them, beyond depressing the value of their stocks on hand. No nation ever before passed through such a change attended with so little commercial disturbance.

Since the return of peace, however, the temptation to revive the old credit system has been very great, and merchants, we fear, have yielded to it without reflecting upon the scrious dangers to which it exposs them in case of a sudden panic or revive the conditions of any kind. As long as the currency remains in its present anomalous and unsettled condition, so long will it be remained to the highly would be currency remains in its present anomalous and unsettled condition, so long will it be remained that the wend north of the Aid-change would be currency remains in its present anomalous and unsettled condition, so long will it be currency remains in its present anomalous unsafe to launch out into the sea of credit. Goods unsold are always better than notes. unpaid; and he is the most fprudent merchant who has the least to fear from changes in the money market. Selling on long credit may swell the aggregate of nominal gains; but what shall nominal gains profit a man if he goes to bed every night in ter-Tor of waking up a heavy loser in the morning?

It is impossible that the present condition of monetary affairs should continue long. No one feels any great degree of confidence, and bankers and merchants are everywhere looking anxiously forward to the future, trying to peer into the secrets it hides, and greedily selzing upen every indication that in any way forecasts what is to come. In such a condition of things, it is to us some-what surprising to read such a paragraph as the following, which we clip from the money columns of the N. Y. Tribune : The supply of commercial paper is ample, and large interest can be made in buying paper usually regarded as strong. It is certain that instead of "a cash trade," since the close of the Robellion-business has been done largely upon credit, and that at this moment "enterprising merchants" are much excited, and disturbed at the mention of his attempt of ret this currency.

are much excited and custured at the mention of an attempt to get the currency refairer gold. It is the old story repeated of a fixed amount of debts to pay, with assets steadily falling in market value. Best short paper sells at 7.09 per cent., and second grade 10.015, and more than is wanted at the rate. The men who buy commercial paper, it is evident; must either lack confidence in it, when it goes a-begging for purchasers. or there is entirely too much of it on the market. The latter is most probably the case, and if so, it must inevitably lead to lack of confidence which invariably results

This will be news to the folks about here.

There are having a "strong" divorce case on trial in New York, and the papers of that city dish up the revolting details of the evidence, every morning. We had thought, until we saw the reports of the tind in those papers, with glaring headings that the Folice Gasette had the moscopoly of publishing such things. publishing such things.

MRs. Swisshelm proposes to issue a new weekly paper in Washington City, to be called the "Reconstructionist." We have no doubt that it will be a spicy and readsble sheet, and we judge from the tone of her prospectus that she does not favor the President's plan of reconstruction.

As well good taste, judgment and discretion which characterize the pages of the Gasate in the discharacterize the pages of the Gaustic in the discussion of grave affairs [concerning the general interests of the community have won for it a high place in the estimation of all right thinking and intelligent readers. So long the other hand it is given to see the right, to utter an upogsting protest against this wrong. So long the other hand it is given to see the right, to utter an upogsting protest against this wrong. So long the country were the subject of consolidating these than the world. Moreover, we are steed and are now in pair.

In the sunals of a corporate body having preand prudently abstained from the risks tensions to be called a thy with a population which attend on long credits. The end of 40.000 souls, do we learn that a proposition was ever made to sur render its chartered rights and privileges with its paptismal name int

Let us ask if it is a rational idea to unite in one corporation towas, villages, and townships where the inhabitants of one ward have to pay toil to vait another. But, say they, this great corporation will see to making the bridges free. Whence is to come the yast sum required to that end.

Let us look for a moment at the estimate of outlay. No less than five bridges to be purchased—two across the Monongahola and three over the Allegheny—which cannot be accomplished for less than one million and a haif doil lars. The boroughs and townships to be included in the consolidated corporation are without revenue from public works, wharves or market houses, and have some streets to be payed, with interrening spaces of a mile or more, and pipes for gas and water to be laid at somebody's expense. Consolidation must increase the demand for public money, only to be obtained by taxation, with eminent danger of jealousy and sectional diversity of opinion in the improvement of the more favored divisions of the proposed city. And may not a Ring be formed, such as has affilicted New York in the wasteful expenditure of the united income of the proposed carporation.

Referring to the article in the Commercia wherewith we set out, we cannot express the utter contempt with which it was read, though not without some surprise and regret that an editor of fair pretensions to ability and common courtesy should admit the vapid affiation of a correspendent which cannot fall to be offensive to be people of this city, without the danial of one isc, or the semblance of an argument to controver the statements of "Allegheny," whist at the same time it is replete with vulgar ribaiding and fine the control of the subject, to tarnian the columins of his paper. It is said that some of the smarter citizens of Texas are running their negroes over to Guba and selling them. A MOUNTAIN OF SALT.—A striking curiosity has lately been discovered in the Nevada Territory. It is a mountain of rock salt, situated about twenty miles from Mendow Valley, and only eighteen miles from the head of navigation on the Colorado river. It rises abruphly height, a mountain of pure, sparkling chrystalized salt.

The estimated number in the unexplored territories is 50,000; in Toran, 32,100; of the tribes iiving in New Mexico. 92,150; in California, 52,231; in Oregon. 22,753, and in Utah, 11,500.
