Sometimes one has swept the field and gained; the preponderance, and sometimes another. During the postolic period the contest was ferce between the respective abettors of Evangelism and Ritualism. In a short time, however, the former triumphed and Judaism declined. The nost contest was between ritualism and intionalism. At length the former carried the day and gnosticism wand. In the Reformation of the field century Evangelism triumphed once more, and for a long time kept in the accordent. Afterwards rationalism became ramphant on the continent of Europe, and ritualism enjoyed a revival in Enginand under Land. The labors of Wesley, Whitfield, and others completely sapped the foundations of the rationalistic form of christianity which commenced its career in Enginand under Land.
