is highly important, therefore, that in all suitable ways they seek to give such expression to their ideas and feelings as will enable their respective representatives understand what they would have done. A BANKRUPT LAW.

A bill to establish a uniform system in Bankruptcy is before G. ngress. It is substantially, if not identically, the same as the latter of the Legislaure the pittance of twenty dollars. The anditor publishes a long list of the latter of the bill introduced at the last session. What chance it has of getting through it is need less for us to predict. The experience of men in the country are tied up so that they can do nothing beyond the attainment of her subsistence for themselves and their families. Here is a large loss of productive power to the nation. Clearly there ought to be some method by which these men ean boilberated from their jiabilities and reasoning of the activity.

It is coirn said that this end can be accomplished early country have extremely solly, and most insulting to all the some most of their most of t

Advanced thinkers and moralists question the advisability of having any law fer the collection of debta. When two standards of action are maintained two standards of action are maintained men who are not really conscientious are prone to accept the one that approaches nearest to their wishes. Hence, as the case stands, there is often a wide difference between legal honesty and taoral honesty. When the legal standard, to meet particular to the standards of more than the propers in lais.
