is the best to use.

To Whom It May Concern.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I had my attention called to a statement inserted in the Dispatch, purporting to have been made by me—that my name, along with several others, as signed to the "Blackmore Call" "was a forgery." To this I reply that I gave my hearty consent to have my name attached; and as for the others belonging to our establishment, we one names were also affixed to the aforesaid call, I am thoroughly convinced of their approbation and sincerity, as I have not heard one of them complain that they were thus scandalously abused. I deem it my duty to make this statement, that the innocent may not suffer, and that the truth (which is mighty) may prevail. SOLOMON JONAS.

The name of Joseph Hartman, whose card appeared in the Dispatch setting forth that it had been inserted in the call upon Mr. Blackmore without the knowledge of the gentleman named, should have been Joseph Troutman. Hartman was merely a mistake which was made in transcribing the list of signatures for the printer. This correction will probably be gratifying to both gentlemen. It certainly is to Mr. Troutman.

Bitter Fruits and bad Bitters.

Invalid reader, do you know what nine-tenths of the bitter compounds you are solicited of the proprietors to accept as universal panacea's are composed of? Give need for a moment. They are manufactured from unpurified alcohol, containing a considerable portion of fusil oil, a poison almost as deadly as prussic acid. The basis of the regular tincture of the Dispensatories is the same. No amount of "herbal extracts" can overcome the bad teadency of this pernicious element. The essence of sound rye thoroughly rectified is the only stimulant which can be safely used as a component of a Tonic, Alterative and anti-bilious medicine, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the only medicinal preparation in the world in which this article is used as an ingredient. Hence the extraordinary effects of this great specific. It gives strength without producing excitement. No other tonic does this. All the ordinary Bitters flush the face and affect the brain. Hostetter's Bitter's infuse an agreeable calm through the nervous system promote digestion and produce sleep. No other tonic so quickly revives the exhausted; no energies, restores the appetite, and removes gloom and depression which always accompanies weakness of the bodily powers.

LETTER FROM PITHOLE.

Wells Destroyed by Fire—Market for Pittsburgh Coal—The New City of Fort Pitt—Pittsburgh Operators, &c.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

PITHOLE, Dec. 23d, 1865.

At one o'clock to-day, a small flame might be seen near the engine house No. 17, Booker twins, two fine, promising wells, and in another minute the whole place was one vast column of fire. The wells had been pumping oil for a week past, and the operators in the absence of wood or coal, used the oil of the wells to keep up steam; this was done so effectually, that the place was a ruin in less than an hour. The tanners had scarcely time to cool, however, before Yankee perseverance had placed on the work a corps of engine builders, carpenters, &c. The prospects of these wells being too great an inducement for them to give it up, so.

The timber of this region, once so densely wooded, is fast disappearing, and other fuel must come in to supply its place. Pittsburgh coal has been sent up in barges to McCrae's landing, where it sells for sixty and seventy cents per bushel, the cost of transportation from McCrae's landing to this point is from forty to fifty cents per bushel, figures so high, to be quite discouraging. Now it seems certain that with the first through train from Pittsburgh, which we confidently expect before the 15th of January, the most welcome thing here, and most profitable to its owners, would be a few thousand tons of good Pittsburgh coal. Such a light it will come. Why it should not come there is a gold, but to say diamond mine.

Let me now refer to some interesting topography. This oil region is [illegible] ranges of hills all converging to the edge of an extensive plain, in which up to this time all the great producing wells have been found. On the slope of this basin for miles around are small towns flourishing and growing up as if by magic. On one side is Pithole, with its mud and wealth and enterprise, its fine hotels, its elegantly built churches, Presbyterian and Methodist, just completed, its water works, supplied from water [illegible] upon reservoirs in the unknown depths. On the opposite side of the basin lies an embryo city, now contending for a name. New York and Boston have already claimed another City. Pittsburgers have christened it Fort Pitt City, and so compromise men have suggested to call it Wood; but the green and growing business men of Pittsburgh in the locality, I think it will hold the name of Fort Pitt.

This city lies on the slope of the hill, in a valley removed from the foot of the wells and of the not unhealthy odor of the oil with an excellent natural drainage, and is in soil, as are so steep in the fluid as some of its neighbors. It has its stores, its expensive warehouses, owned by the Duthridge's and Swaks of Pittsburgh, and Pittsburgh iron and glass and nails and well fittings are rapidly taking the place of material from more distant points.

In the way of hotels our city of Fort Pitt is in advance of anything that I have seen out of any of the large cities. A gentleman named Bonta, at an early stage of the great oil fever, became the happy proprietor of a large part of the farm owned by old Booker; leases were sold like wildfire; three acres alone brought $85,000. He at once concluded to build a hotel at a cost of $12,000, but as the building progressed, Pithole prospered, so the original plan was changed, and to-day it stands out completed and furnished with guests at a cost of $50,000. It is the only really ornamental and beautiful building, as yet, in the place the churches in the township. From its extensive covered balconies, the swinging wings, and the [illegible] operations of the oil are in full view. It has suits of rooms most beautifully furnished, large bill and saloons, and telegraphic communication to any place on the great rivers, east or west. This man has at his own expense built an excellent road from his hotel to the river road depot, and is now proceeding with a board walk to Pithole and the flats.

Just in the rear of the Bonta House, and by a near the celebrated Post well, and the new Trinity Eureka, 148, lies a tract of nineteen acres purchased by a son of A. K. Moorhead, of book, Captain John Weir, J. Evans, of Scott Pittsburgh, and a few others. It has been their possession [illegible] a couple we know already they [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] tons of work that, rather than open the eyes of the absent here, enterprising as they are

If there is oil between the surface ground and the domains of the Evans [illegible] tan. I think it will develop under the spur of the Rocker, and the mechanical skill of [illegible] Mr. J. Evans. It is certain that this tract of land, with the leases of Cockwood & Pierce, Fort Pitt property and the leases of the Anna Oil and Mining Company of Kinzua, will be looked upon as the most valuable lands of any section.

MISCELLANEOUS OIL NEWS.

THE Parkersburg, West Virginia, Gazette, last week, says: The Jones well, at Burning Springs, struck oil on Friday last and is now throwing over 200 barrels per day. Wonder this among the best wells at the Springs, and the great merit is that the depth is only 700 feet. This well, when tubed, has no show of oil. The Phillips well, struck Thursday last, is now pumping on Friday at the rate of 200 barrels per day. Newberger and Braden's well has failed to be a big thing. It does not yet about 300 barrels of oil and water. Of the 37 wells bored at Burning Springs, since last May, 31 are successful.

No less than one hundred and twenty-five steam engines have been delivered by the Great Western Railway at the village of Bonaparte, C. W., for the purpose of being employed in striking wells. This represents a sum of probably two hundred thousand dollars. The machinery of all the oil districts of Canada must be of the value of five hundred thousand dollars. It is estimated that every three days the amount has been expended in sinking wells and other operations, which shows a total expenditure of two millions of dollars for oil purposes. It is estimated that the whole production of the wells just now is about six thousand barrels per month, which at present prices would produce over sixty thousand dollars per month, or seven hundred and twenty thousand dollars per annum.

ANOTHER strike in the Cumberland district (Kentucky) oil district is announced as follows: In Friday's issue of the Louisville Journal the patches were received from Burkesville yesterday morning, stating that oil had been struck on the Gilreth place, on Renick's creek, at a depth of 562 feet, and that the well was flowing about 40 barrels per day of oil, the very remarkable specific gravity of 22°. This is said to be the heaviest oil yet discovered in the United States, and is worth fifty per barrel. The famous flowing well on Cross creek, we are advised, is yielding about 120 barrels per day of very superior oil.

OIL is reported to have been struck at Burr Hagloe, Bradford County, Pa. This new oil field is situated about 200 miles from here, and near the Susquehanna river, distant about 20 miles from the New York and Erie Railroad.

THE latest from the Venarium Oil Company struck a fine well near the mouth of Island Run. We are informed that it is flowing eighteen or twenty barrels a day.

No. 27, Stevenson Farm, is reported as doing 300 barrels. Has a periodical flow, and is increasing very rapidly.

THE UNION MEN OF THE SOUTH.

We take the following suggestive paragraph from the report of Gen. Carl Schurz to the President on the state of affairs in the South:

It struck me, soon after my arrival in the South, that the Unionists, I mean those who during the war had been true to a certain extent identified with the national cause, were not in communion with the leading, social and political circles, and the further my observations extended, the clearer it became to me that their existence in the South was of a rather precarious nature. Already in Charleston my attention was called to the current talk among the people, that when they had the control of things once more in their own hands, and were no longer restrained by the presence of "Yankee" soldiers, men of Dr. Mackey's stamp would not be permitted to live there. At first I did not attach much importance to such reports. But as I proceeded through the country, I heard the same thing so frequently repeated, at so many different places, and by many different persons, that I could no longer look upon the apprehensions expressed to me by Unionists as entirely groundless. I found the same opinion entertained by most of our military commanders. Even Gov. Sharkey, in the course of a conversation I had with him in the presence of Major-General Osterhaus, admitted that, if our troops were then withdrawn, the lives of northern men in Mississippi would not be safe.

LEWIS D. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, has been nominated by his Senate as Minister to Mexico. General Logan having declined. We should not think the Campbells would make good diplomatists. They get their backs up so easily.

NO NEW LOAN TO BE ISSUED

Disloyalists Appointed by Governor Holden.

CAUSES OF THE ALEXANDRIA RIOT.

Increase of National Bank Capital.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27, 1865.

NO WORK OF A NEW LOAN CONTEMPLATED.

There is official authority for contradicting the absurd story that has appeared in some of the papers that the National Banks have offered Secretary McCulloch a loan of one hundred million dollars, which he has accepted. Secretary McCulloch, in the first place, has no need for such a measure, and in the next place would not, if he would, neither ask nor accept loans of the kind mentioned, preferring to go direct to the people. It can also be stated that the Secretary's recent visit to New York had no connection whatever with financial matters.

GEN. HOLDEN'S DISLOYAL APPOINTEES.

Special North Carolinians here represent that in consequence of Gov. Holden recommending persons for Collectors of Customs and of Internal Revenue who could not take the oath, the Secretary has been greatly delayed in the appointment of revenue officers of that State. The Treasury Department not knowing the status of the persons appointed them upon Holden's recommendation, and it has not become a [illegible] positively [illegible] their offices.

PATENTS ISSUED DURING 1865

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27, 1865.

Your correspondent has been to Alexandria this morning to investigate the various conflicting reports about the riot there on Monday. which has been styled a "negro insurrection." This is untrue, and does great injustice to the freed people who behaved with great forbearance.

The rioters were undoubtedly returned rebel soldiers who had evidently determined to celebrate their peace Christmas by making war upon the niggers, and I was assured by reliable persons that many of these secession soldiers appeared in their gray uniforms, and were armed with revolvers of British manufacture, which they should have given up when they surrendered and were paroled.

They were entertained in the old Virginia style by several of the leading citizens who have remained at home during the war, and at an early hour in the morning gangs of these unrepentant rebels were going from house to house, drinking freely at each stopping place. Rebel camp songs were sung, and the streets resounded with cheers for Jeff. Davis, Lee, Jackson, Johnson, and other rebel leaders.

The niggers had, of course, to be looked after, and each tipsy squad constituted itself into a patrol to execute the old black code. One of these improvised patrols entered a house at the corner of Washington and Duke streets, where the colored people were holding a meeting, and broke it up, like the ball at Barnestable. Some of the colored men who had served in the Union army, resented the insults offered to their female companions, and a white rioter named P. Mitchell received an ugly wound in his head, while several others, whites and blacks, received fresh wounds from revolver balls.

In other parts of the city colored men and women, who were quietly walking the streets were outrageously insulted and several of them were badly beaten. A young woman named Nancy Lee was ducked in the canal in a most indecent manner and is seriously [illegible].

The white citizens were especially outrageous whenever they came across a black man wearing the national uniform, and some of the gallant veterans who fought rebels before were forced to submit. Some of them were badly wounded, John Anderson receiving a revolver ball in his head and Robert Saunders having his skull fractured, while others are not so dangerously injured.

While the whites were enjoying themselves, nothing was done to mar their sport, but as soon as victims began to rally and to show their mettle, the citizens became alarmed and invoked the aid of the military. The officers in command of the troops called out, however, did not discriminate as to color or race, and made numerous arrests, including some young men of the very first families of Alexandria.

There are some reasons for believing that similar scenes have occurred in other Southern cities for the purpose of so provoking the colored people to use fire arms in self defence so as to give a pretext for disarming them.

Captain G. W. Culter a poet of [illegible] is confined in the hospital here [illegible] yesterday, and while [illegible] from his Masonic brethern.

The Pay Department is busily engaged in making preparations to meet the payment of [illegible] some which will be mustered for two months' pay on the first inst. About two millions will be required for the troops in this department.

The Canadian newspapers are becoming greatly excited over what they allege to be a ruling of Mr. Carlisle, United States Treasury Agent at Detroit, which they say is intended to increase the United States revenue by imposing higher duties. The decision did not emanate from Mr. Carlisle. Notice was given through our Consuls in Canada to collect the usual duty, with the exception of a few articles which would not be granted free of duty, wares and merchandize shipped from Canada to the United States unless such goods is accompanied by an invoice made out at the current value of such goods at the port of shipment, duty paid, and that any goods &c., which may be brought unaccompanied by such a certified invoice, will be seized by the Collector of the port or district into which they may be introduced.

Information has reached this department that fraud is frequently practised by goods being entered with double invoices, or otherwise for entering the goods, and the other for passing them. It is to rectify this and other abuses that the instructions referred to were given.

For the first time since the surrender of Lee's army no pardon warrants were issued by the Attorney General to-day. The applications for pardon have almost ceased, and the President is disposing of the cases in the State Department with a prospect of completing the pardon business by spring. About twenty-five thousand applications in all have been filed in the Attorney General's office since the Amnesty Proclamation was issued.

The estimate of the number of patents issued for the year 1865, shows the aggregate to be six thousand six hundred, an increase of about a thousand two hundred over that of any previous year. There will be issued from the patent office, for the week ending January 2d, 1866, two hundred and twenty-nine patents.

CEMETERIES FOR OUR SOLDIERS.

New Five Cent Currency.

PEACE SECURED WITH THE INDIANS.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 27.—Some months ago, Quartermaster General Meigs issued orders to the assistants to make special inquiries of the situation and limits of the different cemeteries known to them, with recommendations for the necessary action for the [illegible] preservation of the [illegible] graves of [illegible] soldiers.

Since that time the roll of honor of the dead of the soldiers who died in defence of the American Union, has been [illegible] and records of the names of officers and soldiers found [illegible] to the fields of the Wilderness and Spottsylvania Court House, Virginia. [illegible] there are nearly 400 entire [illegible] dispersed from Pennsylvania, [illegible] from New York, and 60 from Massachusetts.

Head-boards have been erected to their graves on the battle-fields of the Wilderness. These cemeteries have been laid out and enclosed in a plain fence. The sites are well adapted for the resting-place of those who fell in the vicinity, having been selected where the scene of carnage appeared to be the greatest.

The lines of men and those to the abbatis of the enemy, and in one case, several skeletons of our soldiers were found in their trenches. Hundreds of graves on these battle-fields are without anymark whatever to distinguish them, and so covered with foliage that the visitor will be unable to find the last resting place of those who have been, until the trees and shrubs are [illegible] by the hand of time. All but two millions will be required for the troops in this department.

The Canadian newspapers are becoming greatly excited over what they allege to be a ruling of Mr. Carlisle, United States Treasury Agent at Detroit, which they say is intended to increase the United States revenue by imposing higher duties. The decision did not emanate from Mr. Carlisle.
