Bierited Testimontal. One of the few and truly pleasing entering which occur in the lifetime of a Zian, was realized on Saturday evening last. Ex-Chief Enwhen Chief Eillott took occasion, in a few brief and pertinent remarks, to present Capt. Hall with a massive Gold Huoting Case American Watch, valued at $195.90. The affair was a perfect surprise to Captain Hall, so much so that he was interly unable to express his feelings in words, and Geo. W. Leonard, Esq., stopped forward and received the magnificant gift on behalf of Captain H. The watch is from Dungrath, and bears the following inscription:—"Prescriped to David E. Hall, for his endeavors in getting up the Stewart Hook and Ladder Compuny, January 1st. 1860."

This token of friendship and esteem is well merited by Capt. Hall, who has used almost superhuman exertions, fat a great personal and pecuniary sacrifice, to bring into public uce this almost indispensible adjunct to a well organized Fire Department.

The Butchinson Family. Household words become household treasures. Things become endeared to us by association and we learn to love many things that we have not seen, just by reading or hearing of them. So it is with the Hutchinson family. Their names have become household words and their songs are in every family. Who has not heard the old song "We have come from the mountains of the old Granite State?" For upwards of twenty-five years the Hutchinson's have been before our old Granife State?" For upwards of twenty-live years the Hutchingon's have been before our people with their peculiar concerts, and every where they bars mad friends. The new generation have now come tefter us, and to-day for the first time in many years, our citizens will have an opportunity of hearing them. They give one concert, this (New Years) evening at Excelsion Hall, Alleghary City, and one to morrow evening at La Fajette Hall in this city.

We understand that there We understand that there was a fight at the Good Intent Engine House on Wylle stree; yesterday, between a couple of young men, but whether members of the company or not, we were unable to learn. The fact of the fight were unable to learn. The fact as the fight taking place there is disgraredul enough, itself, and the enly way for the members of companies to preserve their good name, is for them to pattively folled londing about their premises. It has been a costom for many years—not so much now as formerly—for young men to hang around the doors of orgins bonses, acting rudely, and making general nuisances of themselves. Let the managing or influential members of the company put their foot upon it, and say that it shall not be tolerated. By this means they will measure their good name, and free themselves from any a lame of rowdylam that may be brought against them by the conduct of others.

Oil Boat Lost. On Saturday morning last, an oil bost, con-taining five hundred barrels of oil, belonging taining five hundred barrels of oil, belonging to Fisher & Co.) Duquesna Way, came in consect with the piers of the Shargsburg Bridge, and capelzed, lettleg the oil go aflost. In a short time the river was covered with skiffs, engaged in extehing the barrels as they dosted by, and some paties started for Wood's Run, where the current sets in strongely, to catch whatever might come in there. We learn that most of it wessaved, but the salvage will est a considerable hole in the profits. Neither the Dost or lis contains were insured, no charge of larceny or burglary could be prought against him, he was sent to the hill for meety-four hours as a vagrant. From Saturday's Evening Gazette

The Assault upon Conductors Bolton and Kemp-The Perpetrators Sentenced. In the Calminal Court, to-day, John and Joseph Handlin, Willia n Milligan and John Glout, the persons who perpetrated the outrageous and inprovoked assault upon Conductors Bolton and Kemp, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and who were convicted of aggravated assault and battery, were brought in for sentence. A strong appeal was made to the Court by their cour Mr. Swartzwelder, with a view to having their sentence miligated to Imprisonment in the county jail—it being within the power of the Court to sentence to the penientiary for this offense. A number of witcesses were examined as to the character of the defendants, and the relations which they sustained to their respective families. Mrs. Handlin was prevent in court, and it was stated that those boys were her role support, etc being quite aged and a widow. She lost a son at the bettle of Far Oaks, and had a daucher killed by the Arsenal explosion. These and other strong appeals were made to the Court.

Judge Mellon, in passing sentence, remarked that the statements of the witnesses, on the aptention of the sentence would be mitigated, but, although the innocent might be made to enfer, public justice demanded that adequate punishment should follow such flagrant outrages upon the persons of peaceable clitizens. The offense was one of a highly aggravated character, and it was to be regretted that the young men had not sufficient consideration or pity for their families and friends, if not for themselves, to deter them from such deeds of violence. Now their friends, who are wholly innocent, must suffor, in some degree, the consequences of their acts.

The well-maddlins and William Milliam, convicted of aggravated assault and hattery upon Mr. Bolton, were then sentenced to one year and six months in the penicentiary—he having acted as impleader in the assault, and having been before the Court in 1863, on a charge of a similar nature. sentence miligated to imprisonment in the county jail -it being within the power of the Court

The Morrow Welsh Homicide. In the Court of Quarter Sessions to-day, the motion for a new trial in the case of Morrow, convicted of the murder of Welsh, was argued was, by the verdict of the jury, acquitted of the higher grades of homicide—murder of the first or second degree—and hence the jury who tried the case the second time should have confined their attention only to the question as to whether the offesse was manslaughter or not. In other words, that the defendant, having been virtually acquitted of murder in the second degree by the first jury, could not be legally convicted of that offense on the second trial.

Mr. Kirkpatrick replied brielly, taking the ground that the commonwealth could not dissurb the verdict; that the defendant, not being satisfied with the first finding, took all the risk of conviction for a higher grade of offense, and had no right to complain. He contended, also, that if the first verdict acquitted of any bigher grade than manelaughter, the second trial should have been commenced with that that the two the common trial should have been commenced with that the matter is the way proposed.

The motion will be decided at a subsequent day. was, by the verdict of the jury, acquitted of the
