SECRETARY SEWARD is the only man who has held the office of Secretary of State through two successive Presidential terms for sixty years, or since Mr. Madison left the State Department, in 1800; for though Mr. John Q. Adams was the only Secretary of State in Mr. Monroe's Presidency, he did not take charge of the State Department till six months after Mr. Monroe's inauguration. He was Minister in England when appointed. Mr. Madison and Mr. Seward are the only fully-termed Secretaries of State mentioned in our history. There have been twenty-two Secretaries of State in eighty years—namely, Thomas Jefferson, Edmund Randolph, Timothy Pickens, John Marshall, James Madison, Robert Smith, James Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Henry Clay, Martin Van Buren, Edward Livingston, Louis McLane, John Forsyth, Daniel Webster, A. P. Upshur, John C. Calhoun, James Buchanan, John M. Clayton, Edward Everett, Wm. L. Marcy, Lewis Cass, and Wm. H. Seward, the latter being now in office.

The apparatus used in New York for analyzing the air inhaled and exhaled by public assemblages, is simply a silk bag of large dimensions, which is suspended from the roof. After it is inflated, it is closed like a balloon. It is said that the exact proportions of the atmosphere can be ascertained. When the figures are exhibited, showing the impurities of the air at places of public resort, it will probably have the effect of bringing about some improvement in the means of ventilating such places.

The orange crop in Florida was entirely destroyed by a severe frost which swept over the entire State on Christmas night, though the trees are reported unharmed. Since severe weather was never before known in that section. The St. Johns river was frozen over for a distance of seventy feet from the shore, this being the first time that ice has been seen in that river.

The President has sent to the Senate a treaty with Peru for the settlement of claims which have arisen since 1863.

It is said that castor oil makes shoe leather soft and pliable and quite impervious to water.

The man who shirks the payment of his income tax is termed a "revenue cutter."
