COLD COMFORT.-An old missionary, who had been many years in Labrador, was at length compelled to return, his influence all gone and his mission entirely fruitless. A young man, who was just flinging into the ministerial status, was appointed in his place, and before he went to his assignment he thought he would visit his venerable predecessor and learn from him the cause of his failure in the land of icebergs. The old man received him very cordially.

"My venerable brother said the young man, "I wish you to tell me the cause of your difficulty that I may avert a like failure. Must I preach them a hell that is hot?"

"No, my young friend," said the old missionary, laying his hand on his brother's arm; "no, that was the rock I split on. I preached it very warm to them, and they rather liked the idea of going here. I think if you preach them a hell fifty degrees colder than Labrador you will drive them all to repentance."

The Chicago Journal pretends to be serious in their prediction of the future greatness of that city. This is their latest argument. Because London has long been the greatest city in the world that is no reason it always must be. The Yankee nation surpasses Europe in all the essential attributes of true greatness. London is the great centre of Great Britain. Chicago is the great centre of the United States, therefore a blind man might see that in twenty years Chicago will overshadow New York and leave London in the shadow. We have no right to peck fun at Chicagoans for counting an eleven million of souls in 1870. The same cause which produced the greatness of London will develop Chicago in a similar manner, only to a more magnificent extent.

A glass plow must be a novelty. It is stated that the proprietors of a plate glass establishment in Massachusetts are employing glass in the form of mould-boards for plows, for western lands, where the soil is destructive to iron.
