N. B. Smiley, the late editor of the Venango Citizen, was admitted to practice in the several Courts of Venango County last week. The Titusville Herald exclaims:—"O what a fall was there!"

YOSEMITE.—The valley of beauty and splendor, sends forth a fitting representa[tion] by the instrumentality of J. W. [illegible] Keystone, Excelsior [illegible]

[illegible] should remember that [illegible] by law to publish a statement of the receipts and expenditures of their respective townships. There is a fine of $50 for neglect of this duty. So says the Mercer Dispatch.

"Kate!" cried a girl looking down from a grocery window, addressing another girl who was trying to enter the front door, "we've all been to camp meeting and been converted, so when you want anything on Sunday, you'll have to come round to the kitchen door."

Every arrangement has been perfected, and every convenience consummated, at Fred Schutt's Ice Cream Parlors, and he is now prepared to "dish up" the cooling, delicious, ice cold cream to one and all. Parlors for ladies and gentlemen open day and evening.

BROOKS, one of the murderers of Theodore Brodhead, at Delaware Water Gap, Pa., who escaped while awaiting execution was caught five miles west of Port Jervis, N. Y., on Wednesday, by Mr. Laurant.—While walking with his captor Brooks suddenly plunged thirty feet down an embankment, again making his escape.

WHY WILTEST THOU.—Get thee out of thine heated condition, oh ye suffering, sunburned fellow-creatures—mortal man and woman—by partaking of the delicious Soda Water, to be found at A. D. Miller & Co's. Cool the heated blood, and pay your physical system the debt you owe. Soda Water will do it, and the delicious beverage is "on draught" at the aforesaid drug store.

A friend says he heard one of his female acquaintances soliloquising on her bonnet the other day, and he puts it into rhyme thusly: "If the bonnets of my girlhood—the kind I wore to school! I really thought them pretty—I must have been a fool. And yet I used to think myself on hats a jaunty miss; perhaps it was the fashion went but what was that to this? Oh, the lovely little pancake—the charming little mat! The nobby little "bomb shell"; the jewel of a flat. It makes my head so level, my heart goes pit-a-pat. Oh, a sister's love is charming, as everybody knows; and a handsome cousin's love is nice, (that is, I should suppose;) and the love of a true lover is a love that cannot fail—but the love of a new bonnet hits the spot right on the nail."

Another New Well.

Messrs. Patterson & Dickey struck a new well on Lease No. 16, Pierson Farm, on Saturday evening. It is now doing twenty barrels, and gradually increasing. This is the second well on the above Lease.

Dr. James S. Thayer's circus arrived in town this morning, the "turn out" being second to none ever on Oil Creek. The "Doctor" is a favorite with the public, and his long experience in the business renders him a capable judge as to what is and what is not a good entertainment. Go to-night and hear him.

Wm. Weber, a German lad fifteen years old, died of hydrophobia in Covington, Ky., Saturday afternoon. He was bitten by a rabid dog on the 7th of March last. The first symptoms of the disease appeared on Thursday. Friday he took spasms; on Saturday he was strapped in bed in consequence of violent spasms and a disposition to bite all coming near him. This death is producing great excitement in Covington.

OPENING OF THE NEW BILLIARD HALL THIS EVENING.—The Billiard Parlor of Messrs. Robson & Arnold will open this evening. Now that the rooms are finished, the many friends of the gentlemanly proprietors will be on hand this evening at the opening, to look upon the neatness of decoration and ornaments which grace the walls, on the first floor—the billiard hall. On the second floor one of the finest reading rooms in the Oil region has been fitted up, and will be under the direction of Mr. Geo. Arnold, whose friends are invited to assemble and peruse the leading daily papers and periodicals of the day. The rooms are the finest in this section, and to-night all are invited to be present.

In reference to the late railroad accident on Long Island Sound, a correspondent of the New York Times makes some suggestions, of which we can only quote a single observation: "All I know of the Long Island Railroad accident I read from the last day's trial, and was surprised that the President of the road, should be so ignorant of the uses and benefits of chaining trucks to the cars, and it was without doubt the want of this chaining that caused the great loss of life and limb after the car had jumped the track. This will be more fully apparent when it is understood that trucks are chained to cars, not for the purpose of preventing the cars from leaving the track, but for the purpose of confining the [illegible] of the line of [illegible] and cars thus [illegible] I have seen jump and bump over ties, &c., a mile at a stretch, without other damage than the trouble of replacing them on the track."

A Lottery Story.

A Paris letter writer tells this story: "M. Brandimarte Saletti, Secretary of the Municipal Council at Florence, desired his head Clerk last Monday to purchase four lottery tickets for him, the numbers he knew were not as yet sold, at $1 each, and accordingly handed him a hundred franc note. The clerk, a most trustworthy person, carefully folded the note and placed it in his waistcoat pocket. Meeting a friend on his way home, however, he utterly forgot the commission till next morning, as he passed the lottery office, it recurred to him, but, alas! it was too late; the numbers his employer desired him to purchase had been bought up, and the list closed. On reaching his office he found M. Saletti absorbed in business, and he determined to delay the confession of his lapsus of memory till after the drawing. He therefore dived into his own particular office and said nothing. M. Saletti, however, an inveterate lottery player, was on the alert, and at the exact hour, rushed to the nearest office, where the pleasant spectacle greeted him of the four numbers he had selected having drawn no less than 1,800,000 francs.

"Wild with delight, M. Saletti rushed to his home to tell the glad news, and the excitement of the family can be conceived. On his way back to the Hotel de Ville he met the syndic of Florence, M. Terezzi, whose congratulations were most hearty, then Count Cambray-Diany, the Finance Minister, who did his best to calm him, and laughingly said, "Oh think of it being you who thus help to empty the treasury."—Once in his own office he rang. More dead than alive, appeared his head clerk. "Give me quickly the receipt," asked M. Saletti. "Here, sir, are the hundred francs." "What hundred francs?" "Do what you will with me, sir, send me to the galleys or to the guilotine, but I forgot to buy the tickets!"

A lad in Irasburg, Vt., sick with membranous croup, was lately given up as dead, and preparations made to lay him out, when a slight rattle was heard in the throat. The most vigorous efforts were used and he was again restored, almost as one risen from the dead—a warning to people not to remit efforts to save life as long as there is [illegible] of pulsation of the heart.

A project is on foot in Canada for the construction of another canal around the falls of Niagara. This is proposed to be constructed by private corporation, instead of through State aid, and is to be made from the mouth of Niagara River to Thorold on the Welland Canal, and thence to Chippewa, on the Niagara, above the falls. It is estimated that a canal can be built to pass vessels of one thousand tons burden, at a cost of not over five million of dollars, and within two years and a half. As the Canadian profess their ability to find the means for the execution of the work, we hope they will be successful. Our sympathies are with a canal on our own side of the waterfall, but a Canadian canal is better than none, if it is large enough for our largest vessels, and will pass them on equitable terms. As we can't get our own Niagara Canal at present, and New York refuses to enlarge the big ditch through that State to meet the needs of Western commerce, we turn with some little hope to the proposed Ontario and Erie Central.
