"G. W. B." the Warren correspondent of the Erie DISPATCH, has been visiting Rousseville and writes to that paper as follows:

"Visiting Rousseville last Friday, I could not but note the rapid improvements of the last two months. The main improvements in the village are a fine and commodious depot on the O. C. & A. R. R. R., a large and new tank shop belonging to F. S. Tarbell, the pioneer tank builder on Oil Creek, a splendid drug store owned by W. R. McCormick, formerly of Pleasantville, and scores of other new buildings. Oil keeps pace with everything else. A one hundred barrel flowing well, was struck last week on the Shaw farm near the town. And the well of Tarbell and Hess, reported by me two weeks ago, to the DISPATCH, at forty barrels and increasing, has since gone up to ninety barrels daily. J. F. Smith has perseveringly pumped for the last three months, at two old wells on the Buzhanar farm, getting nothing but water, but a few days ago, his labors were rewarded by producing oil in paying quantities.

Charles Haynes, an old and wealthy oil operator of Oil City, has recently built three derricks and engine houses, near that place, which leave the many thousand built before, "in the shade" as to beauty and finish. The derricks are painted white at the top, green in the centre, and red at the bottom. The engine houses are also painted green. It looks almost like a freak of nature to see paint on any part of an oil "rig" and it is quite certain, that it don't pay.

A NIGHT or two since, at one of the up-town saloons, several old toppers were sitting around the stove with mouths and pockets equally dry, when a stranger came in, and turning to the crowd said, "Come, boys, let's all take a drink?" Of course there was a rush to the bar by the "dry ones," and all partook of the "benzine" in liberal quantities at the supposed expense of the liberal hearted stranger. Their surprise may be imagined, however, when the stranger turned round with the exclamation—"Now, boys, let's all pay for it," and walked out.

The funeral services of Mr. A. Crane were held this forenoon at ten o'clock, at the late residence of the deceased. At the conclusion of the services a very impressive prayer was offered by Rev. C. M. Heard, after which the remains were followed to the depot by a large concourse of the friends of deceased.

At the theatre to-night will be produced the great drama entitled "School, or the Story of Bella Marks." The performance will conclude with the laughable burlesque entitled, "Po-ca-hon-tas." The house will no doubt be crowded.

Active measures were taken at the meeting held in Titusville, last evening, for the relief of Col. Drake, the Petroleum Pioneer. The following named gentlemen were appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions: Jonathan Watson, R. D. Fletcher, W. W. Kingsland, John C. Bryan, W. W. Bloss.

A. D. RICHARDSON DYING.

Marriage to Mrs. Sage in the Astor House Yesterday.

HE IS MARRIED ON HIS DEATHBED BY REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER—AFFECTING SCENE AT THE ASTOR HOUSE LAST EVENING—ALL HOPES OF A RECOVERY BANNISHED.

From the N. Y. Sun, Dec. 1st.

The favorable symptoms in Mr. Richardson's case night before last gave yesterday morning to unfavorable ones, and he began the day in a condition far from assuring to his friends. The inflammation around the wound did not increase, and had his safety depended alone on this there was nothing to cause alarm. But his strength gradually failed, owing to the lack of nourishment during the five days since he was shot.

His vomiting ceased, and he had little pain but his mind wandered occasionally, and he appeared quite feverish. His pulse rose, and at sunset reached 132, with indication of failing strength. For an hour or two after sunset he appeared to rally, but after that the loss of strength continued, and at midnight there was hardly a ray of hope that he could recover.

Mr. Richardson had eaten nothing since he was shot. His stomach will retain nothing. The vomitings have ceased. His strength has almost entirely left him. The doctors are of the opinion that when he received the fatal wound the contents of the stomach ran into the intestinal cavity. If this be so, and all the appearances indicate it, there is not the slightest hope of his recovery.

Dr. Swan visited him frequently, and Dr. Carter was in constant attendance. Drs. Sayre and Holcomb called in the morning and evening, and several of the sufferer's friends were with him. His brother, Charles A. Richardson of the Boston CONGREGATIONALIST, arrived early yesterday morning, and was at his side much of the time during the day.

Mr. Richardson was married to Mrs. Atby Sage, late Mrs. McFarland, at 5:30 p. m., yesterday. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, assisted by the Rev. O. B. Frothingham.—Among those present were Mr. Josias Henri Browne, the companion of Mr. Richardson during his captivity in the rebel prison at Salisbury; Col. Thomas W. Knox, his old and intimate friend; the Rev. Henry M. Field, who stood at the side of Mr. Beecher during the ceremony; Mr. W. T. Blake, C. A. Rankle, Mr. Charles A. Richardson, of Boston, the brother of the dying man; Thos. B. Holder; Drs. Holcomb, Carter, and Sayer; Mrs. Lucia G. Calhoun, Mrs. Thomas B. Holder, Miss Lily Gilbert, and Mrs. Sage, the mother of Mrs. McFarland. A messenger was sent to Jersey City for the son of Mr. Richardson, but he did not arrive in time to witness the marriage ceremony. The room of the sick man is on the first floor of the Astor House. It was nearly filled with witnesses. The doors and windows were open. Mr. Richardson lay partially propped by pillows. Though very weak, he was not pale, and looked somewhat flushed. Mrs. McFarland occupied a chair at the head of the bed. Everything being in readiness, the Rev. O. B. Frothingham opened the services with prayer, after which the simple marriage ceremony, of the Congregational Church was performed by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. At its conclusion the Hon. Horace Greely, Mr. Whitelaw Reid, and Mr. Samuel Sinclair, who had just arrived, entered the room and held a short conversation with Mr. Richardson.

The marriage was at the request of Mr. Richardson, and by the unanimous advice of the friends of both parties.

Another Iowa railroad, from the Mississippi to the Missouri river, has been completed—the Burlington and Missouri River road. It was on Saturday completed to Glenwood, in Mills county, west to which it connects with the St. Joseph and Council Bluffs Road, forming direct connection with the Pacific Railroad. The completion of this road was duly "celebrated" at Glenwood on Saturday, on the arrival of the first through train from Burlington, en route to Council Bluffs.

By a dispatch from Franklin, we learn that Gus Rhiel, recently convicted of murder in the second degree, received his sentence yesterday. It was that he be imprisoned in the Western Penitentiary, at Allegheny City, for the period of 11 years and 10 months.

The Lancaster Intelligencer says that Mrs. Daniel Peterman, of that city, while eating a boiled potato on Sunday felt some hard substance between her teeth, which on examination proved to be a child's gold ring set in garnets. None of the family can imagine how the ring got into the potato, which was grown in their own lot, and no such a ring ever belonged to the family.—That potato, or the garnet ring, should have been saved for seed.

We see it stated that oil has been struck in Limestone, in the town of Carrollton, Catt county, ten miles from Olean. Six barrels have been produced in five hours time. The adjoining territory is to be further tested by the sinking of five other wells.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue decides: "The special tax of butchers is imposed exclusively with respect to the selling of butchers' meat and not for the preparation for sale of any article, such as sausages, mince pies, cured hams, etc., which have a separate and distinct commercial value in the market as such; he should be regarded as a manufacturer within the meaning of the law, and be required to pay a special tax as such, without reference to the fact that he may have paid tax as a butcher."

An oil spring has been discovered in Wyoming Territory, about five miles north of Aspen Station, on the Union Pacific Railroad, and a well has been bored to the depth of one hundred feet. Three small leaders of oil have already been struck, and the indications are very favorable for a rich vein.

Mail news from Hayti to the 15th ult., state that Cape Haytien had surrendered to the revolutionists. The gunboat Salmave had been sunk. The Portion has been captured by the revolutionary war vessels Quaker City and Florida, and preparations were making to attack Port au Prince, the only place in the Republic in possession of Salmave. Salmave is strongly fortified at Port au Prince, and declares he will blow it up before he will surrender.
