Crocker's—For all kinds go to REYNOLD'S BROADHEAD & CO'S, No. 11 Centre Street, opp. the Post Office, Oil City, Pa.

A gentleman who had a Sunday School class of six convicts in the Massachusetts State Prison, proposed to give each a book on Christmas and asked what book they would prefer. One said, "I would like a copy of the 'Revised Statutes of Massachusetts,'" another replied that he would like a copy of "Locke's Essay in the Human Understanding;" a third choice copy of "Mitchell's Astronomy;" the fourth preferred a book of selections of music; another made choice of "Draper's Physiology;" and the last man said that he did not know as he wanted or needed anything, but accepted a copy of "Emile on the Constitution of Man." All of which shows that the boasted intellectualty of the New England States is one thing, and morally or common honesty altogether another thing.
Western paper having got itself into trouble by publishing names in its police reports, has resolved to adopt something of the following style of conveying that species of intelligence: "Two gentlemen who don't want their names published, appeared before the mayor on a charge of having done something which we are not at liberty to state, and it would be cruel to say what was done with them, as they are business men."

It is etiquette in London for a lady to cut her dance partner next day when she sees him in the park or elsewhere. A girl who stops to speak to a man with whom she has waited and supped the night before, runs the risk of being either unmercifully chaffed, or perhaps severely rebuked.
