Gold to-day 122.

The streets are muddy.

Days are growing longer.

The weather is agreeable.

The exceedingly interesting spectacle of two drunken women might have been observed by the curiously inclined this noon. Wonder what has become of our police officers, deputy sheriffs, constables, &c.?

The Grand Jury have found true bills against Mrs. Green and Adams, engaged in the recent abortion case at Oil City. They are now being tried.

A number of our citizens left town this morning to attend court at Franklin.

The body of Hiram Sweetgale, recently drowned in French Creek, near Franklin, was found on Sunday last in the Allegheny river at Foster farm.

PERSONAL.—We notice the jolly countenance of our old-time friend, Gen. N. W. Day, in town once more. Mr. D. is agent for the sale of Camphor Ice Soap with Glycerine, a new discovery for purifying the complexion, chapped hands, &c., prepared by N. O. Vosburgh & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

To-morrow evening Sherry's New York Theatre open at Sobel's Opera House, in the great drama founded on Tennyson's poem entitled "Dora." To conclude with the laughable burletta of "Po-on-hon-tar."—These old-times will undoubtedly draw crowded houses.

We have received from George W. Childs, the enterprising publisher of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, a copy of the Public Ledger Almanac for 1870. The work is a pamphlet of 58 pages, and is replete with valuable statistics and entertaining reading matter. Over 80,000 copies of this valuable work were printed for gratuitous distribution to the readers of the Ledger. It is a work that should be in every household.

Owing to other amusements there was not so large an attendance at the theatre, last evening, as the night before. The nautical drama of "Black-Eyed Susan" was brought out in fine shape. Mlle. Zoe as "Susan," and H. Langdon as "William" were loudly applauded. Mlle. Zoe was encored at the conclusion of the piece. The balance of the company supported the leading characters in good shape. The afterpiece, with E. W. Marston as Scion Shingle, kept the audience in a roar of laughter. As a character singer Mr. J. T. Craven is good.

To-night will be presented the great French drama entitled, "Esmeralda; or, The Hunchback of Notre Dame," in which Mlle. Zoe will appear as Esmeralda, and the entire company in the cast. To conclude with a laughable farce. As this is the last night of the season we hope to see a crowded house.

A private letter received at New York, brings news concerning the loss of the steamer United Kingdom, which left that port early in April for Glasgow. She was lost in mid-ocean. One man was saved, picked up by a ship bound for Sydney, Australia. He was delivered for six weeks; when consciousness returned. He gave a disconnected account of the foundering of the ship, and died. There were about fifty passengers aboard.

SCENES AT THE FOUNDLING ASYLUM—A BEAUTIFUL PAIR OF TWINS LEFT IN THE BASKET—THE WORK OF FRAGMENTARY CHARITY—WEEKLY MEETING OF THE LADIES OF THE FOUNDLING ASYLUM.

The New York Sun of yesterday says:—Tuesday, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, a large number of ladies in attendance at the Foundling Asylum on Twelfth street. The occasion was the weekly meeting held by the Ladies' Foundling Aid Society.

This Society was organized some time last November for the purpose of aiding the noble efforts of the Sisters of Charity in establishing the much needed Foundling Asylum of New York. Once a week the Association meets in the reception rooms of the Asylum, on Twelfth street, for the purpose of distributing work for the house and devising ways and means of raising funds for the prosecution of the good cause.

By 11 o'clock yesterday morning the parlors on the first floor of the house presented a most cheering and animated appearance. Elegant forms and toilettes flitted here and there. White, jeweled hands hovered carelessly over huge baskets of baby linen and mysterious packages of various sizes and wrappings. The occasional chink of pennies into the Foundling Asylum Bank, gave evidence that some desired to lay up "interest payable in heaven." But the soft crush and flutter immediately subsided upon the tinkle of sister Irene's silver bell.

The high-bred circle of queenly dames settled into their seats, the beautiful Mrs. Poul Theband taking her place as President at the round table in the back parlor.

The proceedings were in striking contrast to those at the meetings of the suffragists, lady parliamentarians, or Sorosisians.

No speeches were made, but Sister Irene's sweet, tremulous voice announced that, though she gratefully acknowledged the great aid she had received from the ladies, she must appeal for further assistance.—Generous as the donations were, they were but a fragment of what was needed. Though 287 children had already been left in the basket at the door, the average number daily deposited was on the increase. That the supplies of clothing and necessaries had been almost miraculous, but the demand was ever increasing. She then enumerated the articles that would be acceptable as for instance, remnants of flannel, linen, muslin, calico, merino, or delaine; blankets and old bedding, comforters and quilts. She mentioned these last articles so that housekeepers could find a place of deposit for their old linen, where it could be usefully applied.

She mentioned that seven children had been left during the previous night, and requested all present to assist her in securing a suitable building in the suburbs of the city, by which the house in Twelfth street could be relieved, instead of sending the babies out to nurse, as they are now forced to do.

The work was then distributed among the ladies present, and the meeting adjourned informally. The usual visit to the nurseries followed. These were found in the exquisite order and spotless neatness that have been remarked by all who visit the house.

The babies were found reposing in their cribs, or taking sweet natural nourishment from the maternal bosoms of their foster mothers, whose smiling, rosy faces beamed down upon the little adopted ones with genuine tenderness. Two little colored babies and one little Israélite, with undoubted marks of their parentage impressed upon their tiny, wee faces, share equally the attention and care given the young American Anglo-Saxons, Celts, and Germans.

The establishment is evidently as Democratic and cosmopolitan as our metropolitan population could desire. All the babies are put on a level.

Among the arrivals of the night before was a pair of twins; fine, chubby little fellows only a day old. In another crib was a beautiful baby, a little girl, who arrived soon after the twins. She came in a carriage, was beautifully dressed, and bore the name of "Grace." She slept sweetly and peacefully, perhaps more so than if she had reposed on her graceless mother's bosom, and under her sensual father's eye.

CHANGE OF TIME.—A new time table went into effect on the Buffalo, Corry and Pittsburgh R. R., on Monday of last week by this arrangement a safe connection is made at Corry and Brocton, so that passengers for Buffalo and other points east will not be delayed as heretofore by missing trains. This is a decided improvement and will be welcomed by people in this locality. Trains will leave Corry at 9:50 a. m. and 2:20 P. M.

The Meadville Daily Republican has appeared once more. It comes out in a new dress throughout and makes a neat and handsome appearance. We hope it will prove a success this time.

CURE FOR TRICHINAE SPIRALIS.—W. C. B., a practical chemist of Chicago, gives the following as a cure of trichinae: "Give the patient two drops of carbolic acid (crystals) thoroughly incorporated with forty drops of glycerine. Alternate (every three hours) with twenty drops of liquid soda bisulphite, to be administered in a wine glass of water. In urgent cases repeat these agents every hour, and continue until relief is obtained. I find that carbolic acid and sulphurous acid will effectually destroy animalcules and parasitic family.

These anti-parasitic agents may be safely administered in a diluted form, as above described, and no injurious results can possibly occur to the most delicate constitution. The trichinae may be found throughout the system, and in order to reach them with carbolic acid, I advise its admixture with glycerine, which is the most efficient vehicle for its dissemination through every part of the body, as glycerine will rapidly penetrate both flesh and bone, and carry with it such chemical agents as it may be charged with. The soda bisulphite, in addition to destroying parasitic life, reduces the inflammation and allays pain caused by the ravages of the trichinae.
