Gold to day 120 7/8.

There was a large attendance at the several places of divine worship yesterday. The religious interest awakened in our midst has not decreased in the least.

The new books in the Presbyterian Library were given out to the members of the Sunday School for the first time, yesterday. These books were selected especially for this school by Rev. J. T. Oxtoby, who went to New York for that purpose alone, and are consequently of the highest order of merit.

The weather has a Spring-like appearance.

Arlington Minstrels to-morrow evening. Rich, rare and racy.

New Well.—A new well was struck on the Demsey farm, Kane Run, yesterday. It started up at only about three barrels per day, but rapidly increased and is now yielding twelve barrels per day and still increasing. The well is owned by Messrs. O'Donnell and McOmber.

We congratulate our friend, John McOmber, the well known popular clerk of the Central House, on his good fortune. Hope the well may increase to a hundred barrels per day, and dividends be declared in his favor weekly.

The beautiful and talented Hattie Watson and her great Burlesque Combination of Ethiopian, German and Spanish Comedians and Athletes, are to favor our citizens with two grand entertainments, at Sobel's Opera House, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Feb. 9th and 10th. On Wednesday evening will be produced the grand burlesque extravaganza of "Pluto, or the Magic Seven." This company is highly spoken of by the press wherever they have appeared, and will doubtless draw a crowded house. See their advertisement.

Manager Sherry closed a very successful engagement in this place on Saturday evening. The drama of the "Willow Cops" was well brought out. The company open at Houseville this evening in the great drama of the "Willow Cops," concluding with the laughable farce of the "Spectre Bridegroom."

A fire occurred at Chambersburg on Friday night last which destroyed an engine house and derrick. The fire was occasioned by the gas from the well catching fire and exploding. The well was hardly down and it is thought the drillers struck a gas vein. The men at work in the derrick at the time had a narrow escape from being burned to death. The well was the property of J. Pierce and others.

A fire at Titusville, yesterday, destroyed the refinery of Morland & Co. The fire was occasioned by the still exploding. About 300 barrels of oil and a quantity of benzine was destroyed. Loss about $6,000.

An attempt was made to assassinate Prince Arthur, in New York, Saturday. The parties were arrested.

Kate Dunn is playing "Ixion" in Brigham Young's theatre.

CLERICAL ECCENTRICITIES—A SERMON IN BILLIARD HALL.—THE PREACHER TREATS THE AUDIENCE TO BEER.—Early last Sunday morning the rumor was rife on our streets that Mr. John Ferguson, of Benton county, a well-known advocate of the doctrine known as Adventism, would deliver a sermon in support of his views in Mansban's saloon, at the hour of 11 o'clock of that day.

Out of curiosity and a natural desire to see the termination of so novel an affair, about fifty persons assembled at the place designated and anxiously awaited the arrival of the preacher. And sure enough, at about the time mentioned he made his appearance, and announced that he was ready to proceed with the service. He first stepped up to the bar and ordered beer for all the house, after which he made a fervent prayer to God, and then proceeded to commence his sermon. He opened his Bible, laid it on one of the billiard tables, and unrolled his text, and then for the space of about one hour he addressed the attentive audience, setting forth in glowing terms the doctrine which he adhered to. At the close, he again gave utterance to a short prayer, and then requested the audience to rise while he delivered the benediction, after which he announced that he would deliver another sermon at the same place and hour on next Sunday. He then again requested all present to come forward and have something to drink, at his expense, and a considerable number obeyed the summons with alacrity.—Centre Point (Iowa) News.

A Methodist minister in Montana, in a letter says: "As far as our own church is concerned, I am solitary and alone as its representative—not one local preacher or exhorter in Montana."

A Cheyenne letter says: "Major Bart recently got from a Crow Chief a spicula of gold as long as a lead pencil, and half as thick as his finger. The Indians would never reveal where they got their gold, but said there was plenty of it."

A mighty hunter in Sumnerville, Crawford County, Pennsylvania, treed a wild-cat and bravely ran away and left his dog to watch it. The dog stood on the burning deck whence all but him had fled—so to speak—until the wild cat got hungry when she came down and ate up the dog. The hunter now congratulates himself more than ever on his wise course.

Among the recent converts of the African Baptist Church is a man of color who has heretofore borne a character not altogether irreproachable, and who has been familiarly known as "Red Buck." Having witnessed a profession, he was one of those who were baptized in the canal last Sunday. Standing upon the bank, a brother thought him rather thin for the day, which was quite a cool one, and prompted by the kind feelings of his heart, threw a coat over the shoulders of the new convert. He threw up his arms, however, and tossed the coat back into the hands of his friend. "Keep de coat, brudder George," said he, "I'm red hot."

THOSE BOOTS.

"Those boots were never made for me—They are too short by half; I want them long enough, you see, To cover all the calf."

"Well, sir," said Waite, with stifled laugh "To alter I'll not try—They must, to cover all the calf, Be more than five feet high!"

One result of the opening of the Pacific Railroad was probably not dreamed of by its projector. It is to be an important element in the revived struggle between the whalers and the oil borers. The discovery and rapid increase of the petroleum production hid the whaling business hard, petroleum having greatly the advantage of whale oil in point of cheapness. Now the whalers are reducing expenses by making San Francisco their port instead of Honolulu, and shipping across by railroad. In this way they expect to dispute the trade of the west, at least, with the Pennsylvania oil borers. The Philadelphia Gazette sounds the note of alarm to the petroleum trade.

At Nixburg, in Coosa county, Alabama, a few days since, a white man proposed to furnish a quart of whisky to an old colored man if he would drink the whole of it at one time. The offer was accepted and the whisky drunk, but the old man died in about three minutes after he drank the last of it.

It was Jeremy Taylor who said to all men "If you are for pleasure, marry; if you prize wealth, marry. A good wife is Heaven's best gift to man; his angel of mercy, minister of graces innumerable; his gem of many virtues; his casket of jewels; her voice his sweetest music, her smile his brightest day." &c., &c.

Lydia Thompson gave an elegant dinner to the press of New Orleans. Dinners will tell.
