Gold to-day 119 3/4.

The office of the O. C. & A. R. R. at Titusville, was broken into a night or two since, and a small amount of money stolen.

The Button well, on the side hill, above Crane & Thacker's refinery, is down and into the fourth sand twenty feet and is making a fine show. There is at least 150 feet of oil in the hole. It will undoubtedly prove a good well.

Services will be held in the Presbyterian Church this evening, and every evening until further notice. Rev. J. R. Findley officiates.

In the notice of the sale of Freeman's hardware store at Rouseville, a day or two since, we were slightly in error. It should have read—H. Freeman has sold out the entire interest, instead of his interest.

A new side-walk is being constructed from the McClintock House to the Egbert farm bridge. This will be a great convenience to the residents of Brooklyn.

From present appearances we shall be favored with a "spell of weather" before long.

The Zoe Troupe is playing to crowded houses in Oil City. Next week they appear here.

The amateur exhibition by the Good Templars, to come off on Saturday evening, promises to be a good thing.

We learn that quite a number of new wells are soon to be put down on the Keenan Farm. This property is located back of the Story Farm, and is owned by A. J. Keenan, Esq., of Pithole.

The streets are very muddy.

The Franklin and Titusville papers are at "sword's" points on the new county question. "Let us have peace."

All persons having to make out income returns for 1869, will find the necessary blanks at the office of E. J. Ross, Assistant Assessor.

THE PETROLEUM TRADE.

The Philadelphia Ledger of Monday says: The following vessels cleared from this point during the past week, with petroleum: Bark Meridian, for London, with 155,784 gallons; ship Progress and barks Wickwire and Heath, for Antwerp, with 247,539 ditto; barks Dimes and Brock, for Gibraltar, with 180,176 ditto; bark Freiburg, for Cork, with 212,068 ditto; making a total of 1,096,568 gallons for the week. Two ships, six barges and four brigs are loading.

The Corry Blade has been enlarged.—Looks well.

Another beautiful evening last night.

The money market is a little tight at present.

Mr. B. F. H. Lynn has sold his interest in the Western Pennsylvania newspaper establishment to other parties, and intends forming other business engagements than printing. We sincerely hope he will meet with good success wherever his lot may be cast. The publication of the Pennsylvania is to be continued at Erie.

Bound to go back to her Ma.

From the Milwaukee Wisconsin, 7th.

A curious scene was recently enacted at the Union Depot. A young, newly married couple, from a neighboring city, came in on the train from Chicago, their destination being Minneapolis. From the young man's story it was learned that they were married in Chicago and went up in the vicinity of Minneapolis where he worked in a mill. A few weeks ago the two went to Chicago to visit the girl's parents, and having paid the visit were now going back to their home. While sitting in the ladies room in the depot the wife went to the ticket office and asked if there was another train for Chicago that night. Being told that there was, she turned to her husband and said: "Jim, you can go to that wooden country if you want to; I'm going back to Chicago tonight."

The poor husband was thunderstruck at this intelligence, and asked his wife what she meant, but she vouchsafed no reply save this: "You go your way to the North, Jim, and I'll go back to Chicago." Poor Jim's eyes began to fill with tears, and taking his better half one side, he talked to her in a very low tone, and evidently pleaded his case very earnestly; but the shake of the head and occasional sniffle of the wife showed that she had made up her mind and would act accordingly. After Jim had tearfully pleaded for some time, she turned to him and said, just to spite him: "It ain't no use Jim. I've got sick of this thing and it might just as well be now as at any time. I'm going home, and you may go where you please."

"But Susan, only see how it looks."

"I don't care how it looks—I'm sick of it and I'm sick of you, too, Jim. I'm going back to my mother, and you'd better go on. Good by, Jim."

Jim was not going off in any such way as that. Never mind what had become of the baggage. He had before only shed tears, but he now sobbed in downright earnest, and really seemed to take the matter much to heart. The wife called him a booby and a fool, but in spite of all that, Jim kept on crying, and clung to his wife until the night train was ready to move off, and then went on board, the last heard from him being a sob and a pleading outcry that Susan would give up the foolish notion in her head and go to Minnesota with him. Some of the lookers on pitied him very much, while others laughed at his misfortunes and really felt that he was a booby as his Susan pronounced him.

By reference to the advertisement in another column it will be seen that Messrs. Sprague & Longwell, Titusville, Pa., are dealing in steam engines and boilers, well fixtures, &c. They are also agents for the sale of Chalmers-Spence patent Non-Conducting and Non-Combustible Composition for covering steam boilers, steam pipes, cylinders, and other highly heated surfaces. This is an invention never before introduced into the oil regions, and is composed of the best non-conducting materials. It prevents the vacuum of heat from boilers having a high temperature and possesses economy, safety, durability and simplicity. It saves at least twenty per cent. in fuel, and is in use in a large number of manufacturing and steamship both in this and the old country. These gentlemen are well known throughout the oil region, and those in want of engines, boilers, &c., will find it to their advantage to give them a call. Their office is opposite the depot, Titusville, Pa.

We find in the Home Journal a poem from Mrs. E. Sherman Smith, which shows how readily a poetic mind receives imaginative suggestion from ordinary objects.—The inscription of "Bingen on the Rhine" on a bottle of Moselle brings to her mind visions of the locality, which she thus embodies:

"Straightway before me rose the castled shores
 Of that fine land the poet's soul adores;
 Land of romantic legend, tale and song;
 Land often thought of, dreamed of, wished for long.
 Clearly I saw its vine-clad hill and valley,
 Its peaceful homes; and then I seemed to hear
 Its 'German songs, in chorus sweet and clear,
 Ring softly through that charmed atmosphere."

At a late revival meeting an impulsive young sinner prayed that God would bless the two young ladies between whom he had been sitting, "especially the one on the right."

Necklaces of genuine gold beads are now very fashionable among young ladies, and the hair-locks are called into requisition by would-be fashionable demoiselles.

A New Albany paper says a sixteen inch garter was picked up there the other day. It don't state whether any one was attached to it or not.

NEWS ITEMS.

Three hundred seamen from the Charleston Navy Yard, have been transferred to the navy yard at Brooklyn.

Bellevue Hospital is so crowded with patients, stricken down with the relapsing fever, that the Board of Health, of New York, is taking measures to establish other hospitals, where the disease can be exclusively treated.

In the prize fight in New Orleans on Monday, between Gallagher and Curley, the former won after nineteen rounds.

Colonel Thompson Morris, United States Army, was buried Tuesday morning from St. Paul's Church, Cincinnati, with military honors. He had been in the service of the country since 1825, at which time he graduated at West Point.

Over two millions of cigars and 682,745 pounds of tobacco were manufactured in Covington, Ky., last year, and 1,080,950 were manufactured in Newport.

Two mills at Huntington, Mass., the Hampshire woolen mill of Little & Stanton, and the machinery factory of the Huntington Manufacturing Company, were totally destroyed by accidental fire Monday morning. Loss $200,000, insurance $60,000. The Hampshire was the largest woolen mill in the State.

Wm. Baynor, a wealthy farmer living near Roseville, Perry County, Ohio, is in St. Louis in pursuit of his wife, who recently eloped with George McPherson, alias Colonel Porter, who carried off a considerable quantity of household goods and nearly one thousand dollars in money. McPherson lived in Kaussa and the Western border for several years, and he and his paramour have doubtless gone there, having passed through St. Louis on Sunday. Since Baynor has found his goods in the latter city, they having been stopped by telegraph he will probably return home, leaving his wife to her fate.

Lieut. Windle, of the Nineteenth Infantry, died at Little Rock, on the 8th.

Commodore Stephen Champlain, the last surviving officer of the battle of Lake Erie, dangerously ill at Buffalo.

John A. Monroe was hanged at St. Johns, N. B., Tuesday morning, for the murder of Catherine Vall, his mistress, and their child in September last. He left a written confession.

The Louisville municipal election will be held in March under the new charter just granted to the city.

Maria Hill, arrested on suspicion of implication in the murder of Jacobs, in Swanton, Mass., has made a confession charging two colored men, named Wm. E. Hills and John Phillips, with the murder. The motive was robbery.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Rosannah Rogers, at Newark, New Jersey, for the murder of her half brother have rendered a verdict of manslaughter, with recommendation to mercy.

Perished in the Burning of the Nassau Oil Works

The Nassau Oil Works in Astoria, situated on the river opposite the Niney-second street ferry, New York, were burned at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. The body of Mr. Hanks, a brother of one of the proprietors, was subsequently found in the ruins charred beyond recognition. As he was known to be in charge, his identity is beyond a reasonable doubt. The adjoining ice-house was partially burned. About 100 barrels of oil were consumed. The insurance on the oil works is said to be heavy.

The Navy Register, just out for 1870, shows that of eighteen hundred officers in the service not less than thirteen hundred and forty-five are on the active list, while of the balance two hundred and forty-eight are midshipmen at the Naval Academy.—There are one hundred and eighty-eight vessels of all kinds and classes, from ships of the line to the little torpedo boat laid up in New York harbor. During last year thirteen vessels were sold and one (the steaming Maria) lost.

A self-sacrificing physician of Boston has offered to try the effects of intoxicating liquors upon himself for the public good, in order that the State Board of Health "may have the benefit of the scientific information to be obtained." If his proposal be accepted, it is probable that a large majority of Boston's best society will take to studying medicine.

A Springfield firm which advertised for a bookkeeper, received a beautifully written answer from a young man who avowed that he was "young" to bookkeeping and thought that he would prove "a satiffactory."

G. D. Prentice was born on a Winter's Saturday that was attended by a gale that swept over the country far and wide. On a Saturday, in the midst of an untoward winter flood, his stormy life closed.
