NO PAPER. To-morrow being the anniversary of Wsshington's Birth-Day, and a legal bolidiv no paper will be issued from the office.

The meetings at the Presbyterian Church continued to be held. There is a renewed interest being manifested in the good work. and many are being led to see the error of their ways, and have resolved to become better men and women from this time forth The Rev. Mr. Findley, of Mercer, will con tinue to conduct services at that clurch during the present week. He is a powerful and eloquent divine.

NEW WELL -A new well was struck on the X A. tract of six acres, owned by L. H. Colloni, J. Overy and John D. Brownell, lying south of and near the line of the Mallory tarm. It started up with a time show, yielding about 12 barrels within a short time, when unfortunately it became partially fitied with mad. It will probably provo an 8 to 12 barrel well. Owned by the above nomed parties.

The Anderson well, on the Daizeil farm, an old well that has been yielding oil for the last four or five years, and swhich had run down to about two barrets per day, was recently purchased by Mr. G. W. Hawes. for the sum of $2,000. Mr. H. gave the well a thorough el-aning out, and it is now yielding 18 carrels per day, with a good prospect of increasing. We have not the least gioubt but that many other wells in this vicinity might be largely increased by the above or some other equally as good method.

PHYSICAL CULTURE --- MIS. F. M. Batclay, of Chicago, takes pleasure in saying

deserving working man: "A boiler burst in West Twee ty-third street yesterday (February 14), and three persons were injured, a number of porsons narrowly escaping -The conduct of the engineer, John Donnelly, deserves the highest commendation .--

He saw that the boller was leaking, and that an explosion was inevitable, but with a sense of daty, instead of flying from the danger, he bravely stood to his post and commenced to draw out the fires. Before he completed the task, however, the explosion took place, and the gallant fellow way blown soveral rods into an adjoining yard. and his head, arms and face were dreadfully scalded. He is a poor man, with a family, and his life is in a critical condition While we are giving lavisbly to our indigent great men and the families of our unfortunates, dres not this brave fellow's devotion and daring deserve a rousing reward ?" The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "A woman named Catharine Haley appearch in the Police court yesterday morning against a man named Patrick McKcown, whom she claimed had wasted a large amount of vituperation upon her, and afterward "kicked her sixteen feet over a hydrant." Mr. McKeowa, who was present, did not seem capable of sending such a healthy woman upon such a balloon voyage, and as the matter seemed to partake somewhat of a two sided row the case was continued. If Mr. McKeown possesses the muscular power in his right leg that is claimed for him, he to the publishers of a country newspapers. He would be very serviceable in kicking delinquent subscribers."

BILLIARDS.

Yesterday a stranger, stralled into Washington Hall, "histed in" four fluid ounces of benzine, and invited the mixologist to pla y him a game of billiards. As the bar-keeper hadn't time, the anxious stranger invited everybody that came in, but all declined. Then he wanted to know if anybody knew how to play in this town.

Just then McCracken came in, and the billiardist tockted him. Mc. said he would | lay a game, and the strangers countenance brightened. He putled off his coat, selected a cue, critically squinted down it to see it it was straight, balanced it, carefully light in the early days of this yer town." chalked it, and got ready. "Well, whose first shot?" "Ob," said the stranger, "you take the first."

cy shots. Then a bored took spread over the strangers countenance. He went to the bar and "histed in" more benzine. Then he sat down and read the newspaper. Then he fidgeted around.

And all the time McCracken kept on counting, until finally her n the game out, pot on his cost, and nonchalantly walked out without saying a word. The discomited stranger stared vacantly after Mc racken for a lew moments, and then, with another "bi t" at the henzine bottle, puld his bill and walked out, with the remark that he believed he would go over to Terre in his right leg that is claimed for him, he Haute and play billiards -- Indianapoils might make it profitable to rent himself out Journal, Feb. 12th.

SUDDEN EMAC ATION OF a LEG - A joung lady in Circinnati had a bran-new sensation in the fashson line one day last week. She was walking up Fourth street in sublime indifference to the breeze that was sporting with her skirts, and to the eyes that were turned toward her shapely foot and pretty ankle, when suddenly, as the stopped to gaze into a shop window. there were ludications of a collapse on the part of one of her picely a justed curves.
