Cold to-day 11634.

We learn from the Titusville Herald of th s morning, that Rev. J. T. Oxtoby of this place, has received a call from the First Presbyterian Society of North East, Erie county, this State, they offering him $1,500 per year and a parzonage. This is the second call Mr. Oxtoby has had from North East. The first one he declined, and we feel sure his congregation will be uneasy until they learn he has declined the second. Mr. O.'s ministrations here have been very successful, and he has endeared himself to all by his gooloess of heart and carnest endeavors to forward the Master's work .-Should be see fit to accept the call, his departure will cause universal regret. We here he will conclude to remain.

An old well about four miles from Nellsburg, on the road to Tidloute, was torpedoed about ten days ago, and the production increased from ten to 71 barrels per day actual measurement. This well is located on the Clapp farm, formerly Henderson, and had pumped ten barrels per day for some time past. The increase of this well will have a tendency to cause oil matters to look up thereabouts.

Fetroleum Centre Daily Record. Five Thousand Dollars In Solld Gold Found Hidden Beneath the Bod. Kansas City News, Feb, 18,

Yesterday afternoon a gentleman named Wm. Pate, who recently purchased and is now improving a lot near the eastern ter. minus of Twelfth street, discovered on his premises a treasure of no trifling import. He was digging for the foundation of a house. Near the roots of an old tree that had long ago been cut down, Mr. Pate was freely using his spade when suddenly it struck something solid and apparently immovable Digging around the object it was soon brought to light.

It proved to be a small iron chest, rusty, but heavy and solid. It was at once wemoved from its bed under the earth, and with some difficulty opened. imagine the surprise and delight of Mr. P. on discovering therein gold to the amount of $5,620-With the gold was also found a note, and in the note was legibly written.

Hidden from the soldiers in 1864. If I uever return, and this is discovered, the finder will please devote half the amount to charitable purposes, and the balance he ou keep for his own use- I am an old man with not a relative in Missouri. J. G. WAITE.

The money has been placed in the bank . Mr. P. we understand, intends falfilling the written request of the old man to the letter, and especially gladly, no doubt will be appropriate "the balance" referred to in Mr. Waite's note.

BEAUTIFUL COMPARISON .- Rev. T. Dewlit Talmadge, now of Brooklyn, closes a sermon as follows: "Seated at a country fireside the other day, I saw the fire kindle, bleze, and go out, and I gathered up from the hearth enough for many reflections. Our mortal life is just like the fire on that bearth. We burst through and ur, and out. gay of sparkle, gay of flash, gay of cracklemblems of boyhood. Then the fire reddens into coals. The heat is flercer, and the more it is stirred, the more it reddens. With sweep of flame it clears 'its way till all the hearth glows with the intensityemblem of full manbood. Then comes a whiteness in the coals. The heat lessens. The flickering shadows have died along the walls. The faggots drop spart. The house hold hovers over the expiring embers. The last breath of smoke has been lost in the chimney. Fire is out. Shovel up the white remains. Ashes!"

The old whaling ship Truelove, now balling from Hull, England, was built for the merchant trade, in Philadelphia, in the year 1764, having reached the patriarchal age of one hundred and six years. The Truelove was employed during the revolution" ary war ma privateer, but was unfortunate day morning, destroyed two warehouses bely captured by a Bri tish crusier, and in the year 1780 she was purchased from the British Government by parties in Hull. She was then employed in the wine trade, between Oparto and Hull. This vessel has made eighty voyages to Greenland, and is now carrying ice from Norway to English ports.
