EASTER SUNDAY.—Services appropriate to commemorate the resurrection of Christ, will be held at the Methodist Church, next Sunday morning. Let all people rejoice in this, the most important event that ever transpired in human history.

The up-creek train this morning was delayed for over two hours by a land-slide at a point between Rynd and Tarr farms. Other trains were delayed somewhat in consequence.

A dog fight created considerable excitement on the streets, last evening. The four-legged dogs suffered somewhat from the fact that they were urged on by the two-legged dogs, who are always in attendance at such brutal exhibitions.

A "benighted" individual was arrested by officer McHugh this noon and lodged in the lock-up. He was only amusing himself by kicking up a disturbance on the street.

NEW WELL.—A new well was struck on Callaboose Run, night before last. It is owned in fee by Mr. Thomas Frothingham of this place, and is yielding about eight barrels per day.

A BRUTAL OUTRAGE IN COOPERSTOWN.—The Venango Spectator says: On Saturday last, Mary V. Randall entered a complaint against Washington A. Hale, of Cooperstown, this county, charging him with having committed an outrage upon her person on the night of the 4th inst. The complainant, a delicate looking girl about eighteen years old, is the daughter of Hale's wife by a former marriage. The prisoner is also her guardian. On the day on which the outrage charged was committed, Mrs. Hale, complainant's mother, was in this city attending to some business which prevented her from returning home until the next day. Hale, who was with her, left her here and returned to Cooperstown.—There was no one in the house at the time of the outrage but Hale, Miss Randall, and her little sister, nine years old. At the hearing before Justice Lytle on Monday last, Miss Randall's testimony was in substance that Hale came to her bed on the night of the 4th inst., and violated her person, threatening to kill her if she did not stop hallowing, and choking and otherwise abusing her. Her cries awakened her little sister, sleeping in an adjoining room. The little girl ran to the bedside to her sister's assistance, but was kicked and driven away by Hale. During the night Hale got out of bed to get his victim a drink of water, and in his absence from the room Miss Randall fled to her sisters apartment and crawled under the bed. Hale followed her and compelled her to go back to the room from which she had escaped. She testified that she was unconscious during the greater part of the night and was so prostrated that she was unable to leave her bed the next morning. The prisoner was committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Assuming Miss Randall's statement to be true, this outrage in its heinous brutality is not surpassed in the annals of similar crimes. No punishment that the law could inflict is severe enough for a brute who at once outrages all human ties and commits a crime whose heinousness is not surpassed even by murder.

Petroleum as Paint.

Crude petroleum is not only useful for painting buildings, but is the best preservative for all manner of implements, wood, or iron. As soon as it becomes dry, any tool may be handled without the least annoyance. For priming, when other paint is to be used, petroleum is not only the cheapest but the best material to be found. We have between three and four hundred garden sashes in use. Some of these were painted two years ago with Prince's mineral paint and linseed oil. This is so nearly gone that it has been necessary to oil the sashes to keep them from decaying. The others were oiled with petroleum when new, and afterward received one coat of the same paint, which seems now as fresh and solid as when it was first put on. This oil costs from twenty-five to thirty cents per gallon, and the only precaution necessary in its use is to have no fire about until it has been spread for a few hours, long enough for the most volatile and inflammable parts to have evaporated.

The "militant medical Major Mary Walker," as the N. Y. Globe calls her, met her Waterloo in Texas. She entered a smoking car on a Texas railroad where a non-combative gentleman was greatly enjoying his cigar, when she immediately summoned him to desist, which not being instantly heeded, she approached him, forcibly seized it and threw it out of the window.—Flushed with this victory she shortly afterwards espied the pipe of a wild Texan rauger whom she immediately assailed, but instead of yielding at discretion, the attacked party engaged in open fight. The "World" tersely records the engagement: "For a brief time the battle raged hotly in front, in flank, in rear; fortune now favoring one upon the other; but at last victory perched upon the native banner, and the Texan conquered a piping peace with dire discomfiture of the invader, who was forced to retire in disorder to another car."

A Pitiable Jury on a Goose Case.

The first jury trial in Pitohole City under the fifteenth Amendment came off on the 5th inst. One of the residents of that once obnoxious town is Joseph Burkhard, an adopted citizen of German descent. Mr. Burkhard has a fancy for geese, of which he kept four. A few days before the suit, he discovered that he was a goose short, and he suspected a colored individual, named Boswell Farrel, of purloining the same. He made information against the darkey before Justice Keenan, and Bos was arrested. Before the magistrate he denied the charge, and demanded a jury trial, which was granted. The jury consisted of three white and three colored men. The first witness called was the owner of the goose, who testified as follows:

"I had four keese vich I buys mit a beddler. Von he lay eggs for breakfast, but last Friday he gone. Der keese used to go round by Bos's house; so I send two boys mit de tree geese on Bos's house, to see ven der tree keese talk and make squeal vedder der oorder goose make some noise; but he not squeal, and dat ish all I can tell about him."

James Phillips, a colored boy, testified:—"Dere was four geeses in Bos's garden lot, Bos tole me dat if I'd kill one ob de geese he'd give me half a dollar. I tole Bos dat I wasn't around killing geese. Den Bos ketch de goose and put him in a barl, and kiver him up wid a ole carpet. De next day I seed goose feathers and blood in de barn. I tink Bos killed de geese. I works for Bos and board dar, but I didn't get no geese."

The next witness was a colored girl who swore that she lived with Bos and that on Monday a goose was cooked at Bos's house and she ate part of it. The jury retired and in a few minutes brought in a verdict of guilty, with an inquiry of Bos from one of the colored jurymen—"What did you do wid de geese after you put him in de barl. If dat wasn't de geese you cooked."—Venango Spectator.

There was a large audience in attendance at the theatre, last evening, to witness the performance of the drama of "After Dark; or, London by Night." The piece was well rendered in all its parts. Mr. Sherry and Mrs. Blake sustained their old-time reputation, and in fact won new laurels by their life-like acting. The balance of the company executed their several parts in good style. To-night will be presented the popular Irish drama, entitled, "Colleen Bawn; or, The Brides of Garryowen." The performance will conclude with the laughable afterpiece of "Brother Bill and Me." Let the house be crowded.

An Irishman sent to the Wisconsin State prison was asked what trade he preferred to learn. He said it was all the same to them, he preferred to be a sailor.

A female lecturer says, "Get married, young men, and be quick about it. Don't wait for the millennium for the girls to become angels. You'd look well beside an angel, wouldn't you, you brutes?"

Mitcheock's Analysis of the Bible.

A copy of the above complete and comprehensive work was submitted to us for examination, and after a careful review of its pages, we are at liberty to say that it is the best, most complete and entirely satisfactory work of the kind that has ever come within our notice. It is an alphabetical classification of the Bible subjects, and gives a most extensive and comprehensive knowledge of the Book, and is both logical and expansive. It contains every verse of the Bible and is free from denominational bias, making it a universal book. It contains a history of the Bible, a dictionary of religious denominations, sects, &c., while the index and Druden's complete concordance which are incorporated in it, makes it invaluable in researches of the Holy Book.—It is just such a work as the people want, and we are glad the opportunity will be presented them to procure it. Rev. John W. Snyder, the agent for the work, is meeting with excellent success. In Rouseville he visited twenty families on Thursday last, from each of which he received an order for the work. Similar accounts are received from him wherever he goes. He has spent an hour or two here with splendid success having taken six orders in one shop. We hope our citizens will continue to show their appreciation of this most excellent work. The accompanying testimonials from our well known clergymen speak for themselves:

I hereby recommend "Mitcheock's Analysis of the Bible," and take great pleasure in recommending it to all lovers of the sacred work. The addition of Cruden's concordance renders it still more valuable. In the household it will be like a treasure and a delight. S. M. EATON, D. D. Pastor Presbyterian Church, Franklin Pa.

For Sabbath School teachers and Bible students generally Mitcheock's Analysis has no equal, its logical arrangement, and elaborate indexes which enables any one to find immediately all the Bible teaches on any given subject, renders it the best work ever published. Too much in its cannot be favor said. J. PRATER, D. D. Pastor M. E. Church, Franklin Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending Mitcheock's Analysis of the Holy Bible with it the common people can get a comprehensive view of what the Bible teaches in a short time with little labor. A. A. McFERRIN, Pastor Presbyterian Church, Oil City.

We concur in the above recommendations. J. SEYBLE, Pastor M. E. Church, Oil City.

E. H. CRANE, pastor First Baptist Church, Oil City. C. M. HEARD, Pastor M. E. church, Petroleum Centre.

"Mere Twaddle," is what the San Francisco Bulletin entitled its leading article of the 4th inst. The Senate Naval Committee has received from Secretary Robeson a communication strongly recommending that a bill be reported, giving twelve months' pay to the families or heirs of the officers and crew of the Onelda, who were drowned in the collision of that vessel with the Bombay. The Committee favor such an appropriation, and will prepare a bill at their next meeting.

The steamer America, which arrived at San Francisco Wednesday, brought 1,180 Chinese passengers. The steamer brought no important news from China or Japan.

Two white men were attacked by twenty Indians Tuesday night. The Indians were repulsed.

The Attorney General of California has rendered an opinion that it is the duty of county clerks to refuse to register negroes.

Infringement Notice. The subscriber has learned that a certain firm in Titusville, known as "Bryan, Dillingham & Co.," have commenced the manufacture of Sucker Rods with Socket Joints! This is a Direct Infringement on his Rights, as his claim is "connecting two sections of rod by means of wedges, wedging sockets, and double coupling bolt." He does not specify any particular shaped wedge, nor of what material it shall be made. All rods made as above described outside of his manufactory, are direct Infringements. This, therefore is to CAUTION OIL OPERATORS, and all others, against buying or using any rods so made, except those of his manufacture, as by so doing they will lay themselves liable, and will be dealt with accordingly to law.
